JOURNAL MINIATURE ALMANAC.
Sun rises, 5:46 A.M.; Length of day, 14 hours, 14 minutes.
Moon rises at 8:46 P.M.

Cotton comes in slowly. Too much rain.

Scuppernong grapes sold for sixty cents per bushel yesterday.

Mr. Walter P. Burns and family have returned from a visit to Bertie.

The oyster has not made his appearance yet. He is anxiously looked for.

Three bales of cotton sold at the Exchange yesterday, middling grades brought $1.

Country apples are selling for seven-tenths of a cent to one dollar per bushel in this market.

Several boats in the market dock yesterday evening. Beef cattle, sweet potatoes, corn, etc., constituted their cargo.

We are requested to announce that Rev. A. D. Betts is to preach at Brice's Creek at 11 o'clock a.m. on the 5th Sunday in September.

We publish to-day the card of Dr. G. L. Shackelford, surgeon dentist, now of Washington. He will be here on the 25th and expects to locate here.

A gentleman who has traveled extensively in the past three weeks informs us that cotton prospects as judged by a view from the roads are worse than in thirty years.—News and Observer.

At the recent term of the Superior Court of Mecklenburg, two men were sentenced to be hanged; Willis Davis, col., convicted of rape, to be hanged on the 29th of October, and Thos. L. Shields, convicted of the murder of Joseph G. Sitton, to be hanged on the 12th of October. Shields took an appeal to the Supreme Court.

A prominent railroad official says that he learns from conductors on all the lines in the State that there is hardly a town on any of the lines which is not improving and building up. The conductors on five of the largest lines of rail in the State say that on those lines every town is improving. This is the sort of showing one likes to see. It speaks volumes for the march of progress in the Old North State.—News and Observer.

Poor House Farm for Rent.
The Register of Deeds gives notice that the poor house farm will be rented at the court house door on Saturday next at 12 o'clock for the next year.

Postponement.
The Dismal Swamp Lottery Company give notice of postponement of the drawing which was to take place on the 20th. The time is set for Nov. 22d 1883. For particulars and reasons of postponement, see advertisement on second page.

Entertainment.
There will be a musical and library entertainment with refreshments at the Weinstein Hall this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock for the benefit of Ebenezer Presbyterian church. All are invited to attend. Admission 10 cents.

Attention, Young Men.
We refer you to the advertisement of the renowned Commercial College of Kentucky University situated in the beautiful, historical and society-renowned city, Lexington, Ky. Write for circular to its President, W. R. Smith, Lexington, Ky.

House moving.
Lewis Washington of Kinston, is in the city with his implements for moving houses. He came down to move a house for Mr. N. S. Richardson. His fame as a house mover is known all through Eastern Carolina. No trouble to take house, chimney and all right along.

Died.
On Wednesday morning, Sept. 19th, of congestive chill, Annie oldest daughter of Nathan and Susan Tisdale, aged 8 years and 11 months.

The funeral will take place this evening at 4 o'clock from the Methodist Episcopal church. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend.

Rents.
In our "Abstracts of listed taxables" yesterday there appeared two "Jack" valued at $210, which should be two dogs at $310. The tax list shows no Jack in this county, but some wag says that this is a gross error. We are gratified to learn that there are two dogs in the immense multitude in this region whose owners exonerate them so highly as to put them on the property tax list and pay on the valuation. The value in this case, however, is quite different, one being $200 and the other $10.

A Grand Gift. Enterprise.
It is the intention of our enterprising townsmen, Messrs. Duffy & Ives, to give to some one of their customers on Christmas day a fine sewing machine worth $65.

The purchaser of goods at their counter amounting to one dollar or over, will be presented with a ticket which the purchaser retains until the day of the award, when it should be turned in with the buyer's name written plainly on the back; all the tickets thus collected will be placed in a box, well shaken up, and a small child will draw out one ticket, and the name on that ticket is the recipient of the machine.

Steamer Measurements.
Defences of the Glyde Line, direct from Baltimore, arrived on yesterday morning with a $1400 freight, the largest ever brought to this market.

The Experiment arrived yesterday morning from Baltimore via Washington with a good cargo of general merchandise.

The steamer Tean cleared for Jolly Old Field yesterday morning with a full cargo of merchandise.

The steamer Snow Hill arrived from Snow Hill yesterday at one o'clock with thirteen bales cotton, twelve through and one local, and other freights. She returns this morning with a cargo of goods.

Mail Matters.

We copy the following paragraphs from the Postals Guide for 1883. It will be seen that Postmasters have no right to forward any mail matter except postal cards, letters with one full rate postage prepaid and newspapers in the country where they are published unless the postage is prepaid anew:

Mr. E. Z. B. at Core creek, will have engine up in time to gin cotton. Good time to sell engines.

Clarer S. Buck, the daughter of E. W. Buck, died on the 15th inst. Don't know the age of the child.

Farmers have commenced to pick cotton.

They think the crop will be short,

as the wet weather has caused it to shed badly.

Mr. A. B. Dawson is putting up his new engine and will soon have it ready to work. Mr. J. T. Bryan is doing the work.

Rev. A. McCullum is holding a meeting at Reedy Branch. Three accessions to the church. We hope them great success.

The Free Will Baptists are having a protracted meeting at Stony Branch.

Elder King, from Wilmington, in charge.

Five converts. The union meeting will commence at Liberty on Friday under the charge of the same.

Death of Parish Furman.

COLUMBIA, Sept. 15.—Parish C. Furman died at his residence, near Millerville, Ga., last night, after three weeks' illness. He was the son of Dr. John H. Furman, of Sumter county, in this State, his mother being a daughter of Judge Farish Carter, of Georgia. He was born thirty-seven years ago. Farish Carter Furman attended the Citadel Academy during the war, and subsequently graduated with distinction at the South Carolina University. In 1869 he married a daughter of Prof. Jos. Le Conte, of Columbia, settling in Millerville, Ga. He practiced law, was a county judge and was sent to the State Senate in 1870. He took an active part in the Georgia capital campaign, but afterwards abandoned politics and devoted himself to the law and to farming. The results of his experiments in cotton culture have been published all over the United States and in several parts of Europe. He contributed to leading agricultural journals and made many public addresses. At the time of his death he was engaged in raising a company for the manufacture of sulphur from Georgia pyrites, and also of a special fertilizer or perfect cotton plant food. He had been quite successful in Alabama and Georgia, and had entered South Carolina in the mission, but on reaching Columbia he heard that the caterpillars had appeared in his crop, and hastened home apparently in the most robust health and full of energy and enthusiasm, but on the next day he was taken ill with fever, from which disease he died last night.

Young, pure-minded, highly gifted, physically and mentally, full of energy and enthusiasm, he gave promise of the greatest usefulness in the field where the South most needs expansion. So often is it that the professions steal the brightest intellects of the South from agriculture, that the death of Parish Furman is doubly to be deplored.

Scientific, sending out dirty, trashy cotton it will not be bought by spinners. Under such a reputation the best put up cotton will be looked upon with suspicion as soon as the buyer ascertains it from New Berne. It is much better, and in the end much more profitable to send the cotton in good order. Then buyers will seek it.

Congregation Turned Out and Catch a Fever.

Sunday night last while Rev. Steele, colored, was preaching at his church near Sigma, his congregation was disturbed by a woman's shriek, and everybody rushed out of the church to the residence near by of Sam Wallace, colored, where they found his wife in a state of great excitement. She said that someone had tried to burglarize the house, and the whole congregation started out to investigate. They soon captured a one-legged negro named Jim McCopin, alias Morris, from Cabarrus county, and brought him to town to Doctor McIninch, who bound him over to sum. McCopin had in his possession an axe, some crockery and a number of bushes. Mr. W. A. Roberts, who lives six miles from Charlotte, came to town and identified the axe as his property. His house had been plundered, while he was at church, and a lot of property had been taken away from him. McCopin will be tried before Justice McIninch this evening next Saturday.

Effects of the Storm.

Mr. Elijah Brevett, of Masboro, informs us that the trees and potato vines in his neighborhood look as they would if a heavy frost had fallen upon them, the transformation having been caused by the salt spray, which was carried by the late storm a distance of a mile and a half from the ocean.—W. Star.

Kinston Items.

The colored camp meeting began last Sunday near Kinston. An immense crowd assembled on the occasion. Mammals looked prosperously until a "pale face" appeared on the scene as an exhorter which seemed to provoke the elements to send down a drenching rain and break up the fun for the day.

Senator Loftin appeared at the colored camp meeting last Sunday in the role of a religious exhorter. The colored church in Kinston was blown down last summer by a whirl wind and the Senator was begging for funds to rebuild it. The Senator appears equally at home in the senate chamber, at the Bar and in the pulpit, and takes him all in all, like Artemas Ward's "little goat," he is a "hell of a fellow."
