This is the first week of this season that the sales have exceeded those of the corresponding week of last year, and it is hoped that the increase may work on until the deficit is entirely over-

Total sales to date this season 4977 bales against same time last year, 5930 showing a deficit of 1553 bales.

It is worthy of note that this deficit would have nearly reached 1890 bales, but for the increased receipts since November 1st, This month has in the three days that have passed, come manfully to the rescue and may, by the end of the month, got the deficit entirely off the board.

Candy Manufacturing.

One of the most interesting industries. of this city is the candy factory of Mr. John Dunn. It is conducted by Mr. James A. Mushett who thoroughly unan apprenticeship of seven years in Scotland. We dropped in a few minutes on yesterday to witness the process of making bon bons, which, while very simple, can only be done by one thoroughly skilled in the work. The various assortments of fine candies manufactured here are equal to any made anywhere North, and we are glad to know the enterprise is receiving such liberal patronage. Indeed, it commands patronage. Our market is now well supplied with as the goods turned out there are not only equal to any made anywhere, but they are pure and fresh and as cheap. Over ten barrels of sugar are used per week and every grade, from the common stick candy to the finest assortment. iš made.

The Injunction.

We have heard nothing of the injunction that was to be applied for before Judge Phillips at Beaufort against the collection of the Graded Echool tax, though it was currently reported that an attorney went down for this purpose. We again appeal to these gentlemen to in more freely. Steamer Neuse, from Kinston, arrived think twice before taking a step in this last night with 126 bales cotton and sev- direction. The school is doing great good in this city, and if let alone its effects will be seen in a short time. We know there are but few engaged in this matter, but if there is anything in the world connected with the interest and the sea horse in Jones and his horns welfare of the city upon which her citi- too. zens should be a unit it is her educational interest.

We venture the assertion that not a single man who is aiding or encouraging the application for the injunction has ever visited the school and seen for The steamer Cutler on her down trip himself what is being done. It is exfrom Snow Hill, with a full cargo of ceedingly doubtful whether an injunccotton, grounded about two miles from tion can be obtained or not, and if granted, we have no idea it will be susained by the present Supreme Court.

It is also further stated by the News that the nomination met with a very favorable reception among the lawyers of the Baltimore bar and the public generally. We give with pleasure the following endorsements made to a reporter of the News who was unable in his rounds to find a lawyer who did not endorse the nomination in the most emphatic manner.

Hon, William Wash, of Allegany, said, in reply to the question "What do you think of the nomination?" "A most excellent nomination. My experience with Judge Bryan is altogether fluenced by any partisan motives."

Mr. Fielder C. Slingluff regards Mr. Bryan as a scholar and a gentleman, believed that he would preside with dignity on the bench. He also believed that he possessed qualities that eminently fitted him for the position, and he intended to vote for him.
