The schooner Cobb, Capt. Ben Payne, arrived from Hyde county yesterday evening with a cargo cotton, corn and rice.

Wearing night-caps is said to be a preventive of dreams. We have known liquid night-caps to produce dreams—of snakes.

The canning factory commenced packing oysters on yesterday. We hope the oystermen will keep them supplied with stock this season.

We had a pleasant call from Capt. Pritchard, of the Shenandoah, yesterday. He reports that Capt. Southgate will be on hand the next trip.

This is a good time for the average political orator to wade through the Congressional Record, that he may become filled with bombastic pyrotechnics for the coming campaign.

The Clinton Caucasian says that corn recently sold in that county for $1.40 per bushel and cotton at 13 1/2 cents per pound, but both on six month's credit. People don't mind paying double prices by giving their notes.

Robert Woodard and Winston Richardson, two young men of Pamlico recently made a trip to Florida on a prospecting tour. Last Saturday they were in the city and took passage on the steamer Edin City on their return to dear old Pamlico.

The following item appeared in the *N. Y. W. J. Best.
Some one sends us a marked copy of the Washington Post containing extracts from a New York correspondent from the report of a committee of the New York State Senate on an investigation of the Receivership of the National Trust Company.

It seems that Mr. Best was the beneficiary of this and two other companies, and that he had been charged with mismanaging their affairs. The following is the concluding portion of the committee's report as published in the Post:

"The testimony taken in this investigation proves that the affairs of the National Trust Company were grossly mismanaged for several years before its failure, and that the blame rested mainly upon the President. He appears to have successfully deceived the committees appointed from time to time to examine and report the company's condition; such an examination was made in November, 1877, and the report submitted given to the city press in December; that report, Mr. Constant affirms, falsified the condition of the Company to the amount of $700,000; it is, therefore, hard to believe the unsupported allegations of Mangam, Orvis, and others, that the company was wrecked by Mr. Best, in the hope that he would be appointed Receiver. So far from having abused his position and powers, in the manner charged, he appears to have acted with commendable skill in ascertaining the liabilities, and in placing upon the assets a valuation of all they were worth, in December, 1877."

Mr. Best has also been honorably mentioned lately by the referee in the matter of his management of the German Savings bank and the Mechanics and Traders' Savings Institution. In his report recently filed, in the last named corporation, the referee says: "I find that during the entire administration the Receiver has conducted the affairs of his trust efficiently and with fidelity," and concludes by recommending "That the accounts of William J. Best as Receiver * * * be approved by the court."

Of the German Savings bank the referee says, "That the said Receiver has conducted the affairs of his trust in an efficient and proper manner" and recommends that his accounts "be approved and passed by the court."

In both cases the court "ordered, adjudged and decreed" that said reports "in all things ratified, approved and confirmed."

And in case of his failure to complete the same within the time specified that J. B. Banks and Quitman Hay be appointed to have the said bridge completed.

On motion, the Board adjourned until the first Monday in March.

Writers on health say that persons should repose on the right side only and claim it is injurious to lie on both sides, but we don't know where they will find a healthier set of men than the lawyers.

The vacancy in the Kinston Graded School, caused by the resignation of Mr. B. W. Ray, has been filled by the election of Mr. Grimsly, of Greene county. It is a good selection.

Mrs. Elizabeth K. Brittain, of this place, a United States pensioner, gives up her pension and takes a husband, a Mr. J. J. Dukes. They were married last Sunday at the residence of the bride, in Kinston, by Rev. W. C. Cannon.

A visit to the new road in the Southern portion of the town is just now the sensation of the hour. The wonder is what can there be in a new road that invites all the males of the town to visit it so frequently. Clerks, bankers, cotton buyers, cotton weighers, druggists, doctors, lawyers, steamboat men, elders, deacons, preachers and "old Chow Chow," all vie with each other which shall pay the longest and most frequent visits. This itemizer has surveyed the premises, in vain, to discover the cause of this tendency of the male sex to visit a new road so often and in such numbers.

Mr. A. A. Miller, Arnfield P. O., N. C., says: "My wife has proven your medicine to be good for nervousness and general debility."

Ninety-three bales of cotton sold last Thursday, the 17th inst., at 9 1/2 to 9 1/4 cents; R. C. & E. M. Freeman, of Goldsboro, were the buyers.

"Judge" Wood had a severe "set-back" at Beeton's Old Field last week. While at the landing an old citizen of Neck Township was denouncing the nuisance law, when the Squire, who favors it, undertook to convince the opposer of its good effects. "Who are you," asked the citizen, "aint that Dick Stanford?" The youthful Justice doubtless remembered his mission was one of peace, and didn't strike.

Messrs. Smith and Clay, of Pennsylvania, arrived here last Saturday on a bird hunt. The first hunt resulted in Smith's accidentally shooting Clay; one shot entered just above the eye ball, another between the eyes, a third in the left cheek, a fourth in the left ear and a fifth in the hand. It is feared that the left eye is destroyed. It is said that Col. Clay claims to have been in command of the regiment that burned the bridge at White Hall in December, 1862. Jesse Davis, a colored man employed to go with the bird hunters received a slight wound with one shot at the time Col. Clay was wounded.

Mr. A. S. Cheek, from St. Louis, Mo., and Miss Fronie Carr, from Rose Hill, Duplin, paid a visit to friends at the Seawell House, and cheered us with their presence for a few days. We regretted their departure and miss their cheerful faces, but alas! the best of friends must sometimes shed a parting tear.

Mr. Jacob Williams stands indicted before a magistrate's court for cruelty to animals in whipping his bob-tail pony for becoming refractory and refusing to pull a load of cotton seed. It beats bob-tail. What will be done with Aunt Liza Nunn for kicking Frank Joyner's blue bound puppy, or with Joe Allen for throwing a three-legged stool at Henry Spence's old sow?

The comet of 1812 is now visible from our observatory. For the benefit of star-gazers, we will state that his Royal Highness may be seen in the West two or three hours after sunset. He seems to have no very well defined tail if you look straight at him, but by taking a side glance his caudal appendage is visible. This is a freak that we suppose astronomers can account for.

Through the kindness of Uncle Sam and the instrumentality of Mr. J. H. Fields, of La Grange, we now have a tri-weekly mail, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Passengers to and from the Springs will find accommodations on Mr. Fields' hack and will be treated with that politeness and cleverness that characterizes that gentleman on all occasions. He runs a hotel also at La Grange, and is always prepared to appease the appetite and satisfy the cravings of the inner man.

A Novel Way to Manage a Frightened Horse.

A few days ago two young ladies were riding together near Clinton when their horse suddenly became frightened at a stump and refused to pass it. One of the fair drivers suggested that the other get out and sit upon the stump and the horse would then go by, but she said no, but suggested that the other curse the horse in a gross voice and he would think it was a boy and go on. Further than that this deponent saith not—but the horse went by.—Clinton Caucasian.

If disease has entered the system the only way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood. To this end, as is acknowledged by all medical men, nothing is better adapted than iron. The fault hitherto has been that iron could not be so prepared as to be absolutely harmless to the teeth. This difficulty has been overcome by the Brown Chemical Company of Baltimore, Md., who offer their Brown's Iron Bitters as a faultless iron preparation, a positive cure for dyspepsia, indigestion, kidney troubles, etc.

Carroll to the Christian ministry, after a public examination as to his Christian experience, call to the ministry and views of doctrine. Dr. Pritchard preached the sermon, Rev. W. M. Kennedy delivered the charge and Rev. Mr. Barlow made the ordaining prayer. Dr. Pritchard then presented the Bible and Rev. Mr. Kennedy pronounced the benediction.—W. Star.

Rosy Mouths

furnished with teeth rendered pearly and glistening by fragrant Soso-dont, usually regarded as an indispensable adjunct of the toilet, are perfectly bewitching. So irresistible does the broad cloth sex find them, that it requires the utmost self-restraint to forbear imprinting a kiss upon them wherever seen. No corrosive substance contaminates this standard beautifier of the teeth, from which it removes every impurity. Use it regularly.
