Jones and Onslow produce from eight to nine thousand bales of cotton in average years. From the number I saw on my trip I think it perfectly safe to call the unmarketed crop within a line running from Trenton to Jacksonsville, thence east to Palo Alto, thence north to Pollocksville one thousand bales. There may be more, but certainly not many there and a greater traffic here. For may be more, but certainly not many We celebrated E. B. we found the water was flowing in the opposite direction, showing that we had passed the highest point. A subsequent examination showed that the pocosin was not shaped like a saucer, as I had been led to suppose, but that the centre was from twelve to fifteen feet higher than the rim. The surface soil is a peaty muck, the sub soil a vicid blue or grey clay. I had expected to find marl and perhaps phosphate rock there, but did not, and now think that whatever there may be at the level of Cowhorn creek, neither of these fertilizers will ever be dug from the bosom of the pocosin, for if found there at all, it will be at a depth that will make them practically valueless. I realized also, as I had not fully done before, the very awering any question asked him by a we found the water was flowing in the had not fully done before, the very heavy cost that would be entailed upon whatever enterprising man or men should eventually purchase this great body of land from the State, before the arst dollar of profits could be derived from it. Whoever buys it, without the ability to invest, at the least, $150,000 in from it. Whoever buys it, without the ability to invest, at the least, $150,000 in its improvement, will be as badly off as the chap that bought an elephant. I doubt wnether any one man would be induced to handle it, and think the State will be compelled either to survey and dispose of it in small tracts, or else that it must find a company with vim and money enough to put it through. It is a long, irregular belt of timber of varying values, inclosing a vust and almost treeless savannab. Before the timber can be utilized, except at a few extra favorable points, large sums must be expended in carrying canals to the tributaries of the Trent, New and White Oak rivers, and they in turn must be cleared of the obstructions that make even rafiling impossible. This will prepare the way for subsidiary ditching and drainage, and then the whole, if wisely managed, can be made extremely prolific. #### STATE NEWS. Gleaned from our Exchanges.

Smithfield Herald: The Missionary Baptists of our town are trying to build a parsonage.—Little Dudley, son of J. C. Smith, of this place, whilst visiting in the country last week, had one of his arms caught in a cotton gin and it was badly lacerated. At present he is doing as well as could be expected.

Durham Tobacco Plant: Hon. Josiah Turner will, about the first of February, begin the publication of a monthly paper in Durham, to be called The Truth. It will be devoted to literature and history. He proposes to give a full history of Orange county and its great men. He was in town yesterday making arrangements for its publication.

Greensboro Patriot: The postoffice at Troy's Store, Randolph county, has been discontinued, and all mail matter for that office will be sent to Liberty.—The maddog excitement is very great east of town, and many dogs are supposed to have been bitten. Should our town authorities not give the matter some attention?

Master and Servant.

As there is complaint against em-ployees being hired after already hav-ing bargained to work for another, we publish the second section of the law of the State on that subject; the first sec-tion makes liable for civil damages any person who shall entice, persuade and procure any servant by indenture, or any servant who shall contract in writing or orally to serve his employer. The servant is also liable. The second section is as follows:—"In addition to the remedy given in the preceding section against the person and servant violating the preceding section, such person and servant shall also pay a penalty of one hundred dollars to any person sucing for the same, singly or jointly, one-half to his use and the other half to the use of the poor of the county, when suit is brought, and the offender shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not exceeding one hundred dollars or imprisoned not exceeding six months."
