EDITOR JOURNAL :-- In 1877, when the fact was known that Mr. Hayes was decourt house. clared elected by the clap-trap arrange ment of an electoral commission, and the constitutionally elected Mr. Tilden it awful dull now in town. the constitutionally elected Mr. Tilden was relegated to the quietude of Grammercy Park, there was an almost universal declaration throughout the country that the approaching election of 1880 of Louisiana, and that he should then come to Washington with the electoral votes to which he was entitled by the ballots of the people.

The evidence of fraud was greatly strengthened by the fact that the Nichols the cyclone sufferers is about $800. In gating about 80,000 cans. Between seven Government in that State was established, and become the acknowledged legal government, while it was the result of the same election and by the same day's balloting by the people.

This boastful declaration was never fulfilled, and the brave General Hancock did not get electoral votes enough to even create a doubt as to the election like condoning the crime of 1876, and begging the question of an election as claimed at the time. A Democratic blunder of huge proportions.

It was due to Mr. Tilden that he should have had a chance at a second ballot of the people. Thousands of Democrats were enthusiastic for him to have it. Fair-minded Republicans said he was entitled to it, and some went so far as to say they would vote for him. But the convention decided differently and the only Democrat who had carried the country in twenty years was thrown overboard and another tried, with results now known to the country, and one to which the party seems to hold a preeminent claim defeat. This much for national blunders. Now for the same in State affairs.

In 1872, when Merrimon and Hughes had made a canvass of unequalled success, had met the Republican party fat with the rich spoils of an unbridled reign of corrupt extravagance and official mal practise, it is firmly believed Joshua, 24th chapter 15th verse. led the State ticket by several hundred votes in the campaign of 1872, was permitted as Mr. Tilden was four years later to remain in the sweet enjoyment of private life, and with what results? Why at the election of 1876, under the newly written constitution of 1875 with a Presidential election to aid in the What might have been. matter no disastrous oness apparently, Vance and Jarvis were elected but by several thousand votes less majority than Mr. Tilden received in the State at the sam celection. But how since then ?

All the Republican rascalities were fresh in the minds of the people, the press, the orators on every stump and the very air seemed to resound them. and yet we find in 1880 the majority whittled down to a point so fine that the Republicans make honors easy and say some nimble fingered counting alone saved the Democracy from defeat as experienced eight years before .- The other side counted this time .- Is not this attributable to Democratic blunders ? Maj. Hughes had hosts of friends or he could not have led his ticket. Have those friends ever seen any party necessity to Jonahize him ? None whatever. Then the part of wisdom would look to the correction of these blunders at the approaching convention and put him on the ticket either for Governor or Lieutenant Governor. We believe it ought to be the former, but, as the slate makers have probably arranged that, we humbly contend for the latter.

These ideas may be "pooh-poohed" by some, and probably will be, but sound judgment would dictate such a conrae, party interest would second it, the people at the polls would ratify it, and even banded JUSTICE would demand and even handed JUSTICE would demand it. I have nothing to say as to the National ticket; the family of States is a large one and we can stand any admin-istration that the rest may select, but our State Government is of much greater importance to us and involves the immediate interest of overy citizen of the commonwealth and in view of that 1 feel a deep solicitude for the future.
