FAMILY GOVERNMENT.

We are truly glad to see such a journal as Mr. Turner's Truth, taking hold of the question of Family Government...

One of the most calamitous effects of the late war was the destruction of home influence and authority.

Parental authority in this age has lost much of its force and authority. A full grown boy more than an hundred years ago proposed to come to Durham (America we mean) from the great city of London.

When I informed you of my design, it was not to declare any determined resolution which I had taken, but to desire your operation on an affair which I believed it advisable for me to engage in.

The Italians imagine that a number of dishes can be prepared with Parmesan cheese only; but that is only a fancy.

Outmeal porridge to which grated cheese is added, either while in the cookery-pot or after it is taken out, and yet as hot as possible, is a palatable and healthy dish.

Cheese porridge is made by adding cheese to baked potatoes—the potatoes to be taken out of their skins and well mashed while the cheese is sprinkled and intermingled.

May God make them lighter every moment, and continue to you and my mother very many very happy years, and every blessing I ought to wish you for your care, your tenderness and your indulgence to me.

EDMUND BURKE. London, March 11th, 1755.

Chesse.

In our former article, extracted from W. Maffien Williams' Chemistry of Cookery, we promised to continue his recipes for cooking cheese. He gives the following recipe for cheese souffler.

Another recipe—Grate six ounces of rich cheese (Parmesan is the best); put it into an enameled sauce-pan, with a teaspoonful of flour of mustard, a saltspoonful of white pepper, a grain of cayenne, the sixth part of a nutmeg, grated, two ounces of butter, two table-spoonfuls of baked flour, and a gill of new milk; stir it over a slow fire till it becomes like smooth, thick cream (but it must not boil); add the well-beaten yolks of six eggs, beat for ten minutes, then add the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth; put the mixture into a tin or card-board mold, and bake in a quick oven for twenty minutes. Serve immediately.

An excellent dish of cheese by solution is prepared as follows: Take one fourth of a pound of grated cheese; add to it a gill of milk, in which is dissolved as much powdered bicarbonate of potash as will stand on a three-penny piece; mustard, pepper, etc., as prescribed above. Heat this carefully until the cheese is completely dissolved. Then beat up three eggs, yolks and whites together, and add them to the solution, stirring the whole. Now take a shallow metal or earthen ware dish or tray that will bear heating; put a little butter in this, and beat the butter till it frizzles. Then pour in the mixture, and bake or fry it until it is nearly solidified.

A cheaper dish may be made by increasing the proportion of cheese—say six to eight ounces to three eggs, or only one egg to a quarter of a pound of cheese for a hard-working man with powerful digestion.

The absence of potash in cheese is a serious objection to its use as a diet. The Swiss peasant escapes the mischief by his abundant salads, which eaten raw contain all their potash salts, instead of parting with it as cabbage does when boiled. The Swiss peasant that cheese can never take the place in an economic dietary otherwise justified by its nutritious composition, unless this deficiency of potash is somehow supplied. My device of using it with milk as a solvent supplies it in a simple and natural manner.

Grated cheese sprinkled into soup adds very greatly to its flavor and nutritive qualities.

In Milan they make a delicious, wholesome, and economical dish called "Risotto." This is a stew composed of rice and the giblets of fowls, usually sold for two to three pence a dish. This is always served with grated Parmesan. In all these cases the cheese is grated and sprinkled over and then stirred into the soup while it is hot.

The Opinions of Physicians, teeth that are becoming defective or are insufficiently cleaned, infect the food and unfit it for the digestive process. Health, therefore, as well as personal attractiveness is promoted by the use of Sodont, pure in composition, agreeable in flavor, prompt and effective in the purifying action, and economic, since only a few drops upon the brush are needed at a time.

For DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, also as a preventive against Fever and Ague, and other Intermittent Fevers, the "FERRO-CHLORIDE OF CALSAYA," made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic; and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

Young Men, Middle Aged Men and All Men who suffer from early indigestions will find Allen's Brain Food the most powerful invigorant ever introduced; once restored by it there is no relapse. Try it; it never fails. $1.00 per bottle. At druggists, or by mail from J. H. Allen, 315 First Ave. New York City.

fatness, while cheese is highly nutritious, and supplies the elements in which the potato is deficient in the two together forming a fair approach to the theoretically demanded balance of constituents.

Baked potatoes are more healthful than boiled potatoes, because the raw potato contains potash salts which are lost by boiling.

Heavy pudding made, as usual, of wheat flour may be converted from an insipid to a savory and highly nutritious porridge by the addition of grated cheese. The same may be said of boiled rice; but peas-pudding is not improved by cheese.

The remains of boiled codfish, haddock, or other whitefish, mashed with bread-crumbs, grated cheese, and ketchup, warmed in an oven and served after the usual manner of scalloped fish, is a very fine dish.

Cheese in any kind of salad are sufficient for a dinner if they are properly prepared.—Popular Science Monthly for March, 1884.

In addition to the foregoing, the compiler would add that old cheese, grated finely, and swallowed dry, is an excellent remedy for indigestion, as he has experienced frequently. This he learned from the late Louis D. Henry, who informed him that old Doctor Mallet, of Fayetteville, constantly prescribed it to his dyspeptic patients; and he related the following circumstance: The Doctor was called to a child very sick from eating cherries, which died before his arrival. He stated that, if he had been in time, he would have caused it to swallow some old grated cheese dry, and would have saved its life. On making an autopsy, the cherries were found in a ball in the child's stomach. The Doctor sprinkled some grated cheese over the lump and in a few minutes it crumbled.

Greenville Items.

The spirit of improvement still goes on. Auction sales every Saturday at Burban's.

James Harris, an old bachelor, was married last week.

The negro free school has had nearly two hundred students.

The Baptists are building a splendid church here. It is called a Memorial church because the first Baptist convention was held here long years ago.

Lemuel McGowan committed suicide last week by cutting his throat. He leaves several children. He has been unfortunate in his pecuniary matters.

Greenville can boast of one of the best barbers, and certainly one of the finest silver-smiths in all the land. It can also boast of one of the finest male teachers and a number of very excellent female teachers, but with all these blessings it is cursed with many liquor-shops. When will these shops be forced to stop? Answer: When no member of the Church patronizes them. Our Superintendent of common schools is so opposed to liquor-drinking that he refuses to give certificates unless the man who has been getting drunk, pledges himself not to drink under penalty of forfeiture of his salary. Isn't he right? He has been bald-headed for some time but Mr. Coyle, the barber is causing the hair to come again so fast that the Superintendent's wife says she believes he will get a good head of hair in time to get a young wife.

Sweet Gum.

When we consider the medical authority of the world recognizing our SWEET GUM to be the finest stimulating expectorant known, and that the proprietor of TAYLOR'S CHEROKEE REMEDY OF SWEET GUM AND MULLIN has the formula of the Cherokee Nation of incorporating the sweet gum with the tea of the mullein plant of the old fields— which many of our readers will remember our grandmothers making under the direction of the old family physician for croup, whooping cough and colds—it is no wonder that TAYLOR'S CHEROKEE REMEDY OF SWEET GUM AND MULLIN is producing such effective cures in Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough and all Bronchial Affections. For sale by all leading druggists. 25c and $1.00. Manufactured by WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga., Proprietor Taylor's Premium Cologne. d&wfe14m.
