Hon. Jno. C. Scarboro, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will deliver the address on the occasion of laying the corner stone of the graded school building next Thursday. The Masons from the adjoining counties have been invited and a big turnout is expected. Mr. Charles Mallett, of Riverdale, has formed a copartnership with Mr. Lawrence of New York and is engaged in thence. Several citizens of the village the commission business under the firm name of Lawrence & Mallett. We notice a good quantity of truck is shipped to them.

The political pot begins to boil a little and the convention to-day will add several degrees to the heat, which will increase from now until the convention on the 25th shall have named the man. Who will we elect is now the question, and not who can we elect as some have intimated heretofore.

"Go west, young man," must have been reverberating through these sylvan groves, years ago, for on the west side of the creek, if it has a west side, the dwellings are dotted along in quick succession, while on the opposite side they are less numerous.

The tide was unusually low and it soan became evident that the Kinston could not reach the wharf at Bell's mill, the end of the trip. Having two passengers to land, it became necessary to launch the life boat and carry them and vicinity were down, but the boat was ahead of the time they were expecting her and probably others were down later. On the banks as the boat moved up the creek the colored citizens were out in such numbers as to establish the novelty of the thing to their eyes. When the whistle was sounded the scamper was amusing, but while it frightened those near by, it attracted others from a distance, and increased the number of curious spectators.

There was an air of ease, comfort and happiness in the appearance of most of the tenements visible from the deck of the steamer. That comfort and hap-piness which springs from what has been called a happy-go-lucky-God-send-Sunday-style of living. A fertile soil, balmy stmosphere, and waters abound-ing in Sch and orabe would have ing in fish and crabs, would have a similar effect on any one and those who in the ground. No invention of the nineteenth cen-tury has worked a greater revolution in B. household economy or conferred more of a benefit on humanity than the sewing machine. The first productions were crude and uncouth in the extreme, and it was reserved for American skill and ingenuity to bring forth a machine of any practical value.

In order to appreciate the great advancement which has taken place it is only necessary to compare one of the machines built during the infancy of the invention with one of the latest im-proved "Light-Running New Home." All the really good points contained n other machines have been utilized in its construction. Many new improve ments and devices have also been ad-ded, the result of which is a machine as nearly perfect as it is possible to make one.
