THE JOURNAL.

G. S. NUNN, Editor.

NEW BERNE, N. C., JUNE 29, 1884.

Entered at the Post Office at New Berne, N. C., as second-class matter.

A GOOD SPEECH.

Among the many good speeches made at the State Convention, there were none more beautiful in diction, more patriotic in sentiment...

During the past four years North Carolina has made greater progress on the road of prosperity than in any previous period of her history...

It is cause of congratulation and pardonable pride to us that all this has been effected under the administration of a citizen of the East...

"This Duncan hath borne his faculties so meek; hath been so clear in his great office, that his virtues will plead with angels, trumpet-tongued, against the deep damnation of his taking-off."

Mr. President, we are here to-day not only to select a candidate for the highest office within the gift of the people of North Carolina...

Magistracy of the State—a successor who will carry out the policy already inaugurated and complete the work already begun...

Actuated by these feelings and with an all-absorbing desire for party success, I desire to inscribe upon the folds of the Democratic banner, ere we float it to the breeze, a name that will carry terror into the ranks of our enemies...

I desire to nominate a man upon whose escutcheon there is no stain, or suspicion of stain; a man whose labors in our cause have made his name a familiar household word in every part of North Carolina...

As filling and more than filling each and every one of these requisites I nominate as the next Governor of North Carolina, Octavius Coke, of the Metropolitan county of Wake.

Place his name at the head of the ticket, and I hazard nothing in saying that our success becomes assured. Commit to his charge the Ark of our liberties and they are beyond danger.

And if, Mr. President, past and important services constitute any claim to political preferment—if joined to these, availability is a fair matter for consideration—if constant and unselfish devotion to the interests of others demand a like return upon our part...

In his behalf I appeal to the East and Centre. The great danger that threatens you is the loss of the control of your local affairs by the repeal of existing laws.

I ask his nomination in the interest of the great section I, in part, represent—I ask it in the name of the negro-ridden counties he has done so much to redeem from a worse than Egyptian bondage...

Without invidious distinction—conceding the highest worth and integrity to every candidate whose name has been or may be mentioned—with the warmest feelings of friendship towards them all...

Gen. Logan, just before the war, was a Democrat. In those days considered John Brown, of Kansas and Virginia notorious, a "traitor, thief and scoundrel."

The above is going the rounds of Democratic papers, but really we fail to see anything so seriously objectionable in it. There are many good men who were Democrats before the war...

But look again. Gen. Logan was a Democrat before the war; the Republican party has never feared to trust him, and now assign him the second place on the National ticket...

It is not Logan or his Democracy that need alarm us; it is the party to which he now belongs that we should oppose with all our might.

Very few realize that in the exultation they see clinging to the Sweet Gum tree there is a powerful stimulating expectorant principle, and in the old field Mullein a mucilaginous one that is very healing to the lungs.
