GOV. JARVIS'S SPEECH.

There are but few more effective speakers in this country than THOMAS J. JARVIS, Governor of North Carolina. Whenever and wherever he takes the stand, the trumpet gives no uncertain sound. Whether in the convention of the thirteen Governors at Philadelphia, at the exposition at Boston or on the hustings in the old Tar Heel State, his words are to the purpose and his utterances impress the hearer as those of a live, progressive statesman whose ideas of advancement are well balanced with conservative caution and hence no chimerical schemes or mythical theories form any part of his speeches.

Plain, solid, common sense facts, stubborn, every day and as Senator VANCE calls it—ten commandment honesty, constitute the warp and woof of his addresses; and on Friday night when he took the platform after the able address of the Honorable Senator, although the crowd had wilted under the oppressive heat of a July evening with the mercury well up in the nineties, yet an eager throng presented upturned faces to look upon the Chief Magistrate of the State and listen to the clarion notes of his eloquent voice.

Well did he meet the expectations of the crowd, and seldom has a speech of the same length contained more sledge hammer blows than he delivered upon the head of the presumptuous leader of the Republican ticket, TYEE YORK.

When Democratic North Carolina had seen the poor colored and white insane, lying in dungeons, chains, and cells of the county jails, these poor afflicted mortals, sent to the same prisons with the felons and criminals of the State; when the great heart of humanity throbbled with sympathy and heaven inspired pity, the Legislature moved the erection of additional asylums, that these unfortunate sufferers might be humanely cared for, Mr. YORK, as a member of the Legislature, cast his vote AGAINST THE MEASURE. And when the Western asylum was well progressed, he advocated boarding the roof over and selling it for whatever purpose and price they could, and by his vote said let the insane lay in the jails and dungeons, let these poor unfortunate persons who have lost their reason and minds stay in the company of the felons and criminals until a merciful Providence shall end their sufferings in death.

Mr. YORK had also opposed all improvement in our educational system, our advancement in the railroad interest of the State and in fact almost every measure which promised improvement and progress in the State.

Would the people choose a Governor who would stand in the way of all progress, all advancement in educational attainments, and development of all that is good and noble in our State? "I have a right," said the Governor, "to ask any person in North Carolina, white and colored, not to put in the way of Governor a man who would stand in the way of all prosperity. There is a man before you, placed there by the Democratic convention, who will give his unstinted support to all measures which promise improvement in the condition of the whole people, white and colored, rich and poor, educated and illiterate, and that man is ALFRED M. SCALES.

SENATOR VANCE'S SPEECH.

That was a capital campaign speech delivered by Senator VANCE at the court house on Friday night. There were no stale jokes, but he would often enforce a strong argument by an apt illustration or humorous reference that would "bring down the house." He recanted in clear and forcible language the utter disregard of the Constitution by the Republican party and the dangers of centralization, to which there is a strong tendency, and attributed it all to the long, uninterrupted lease of power which that party had enjoyed. He showed great familiarity with the tariff question, and we unhesitatingly say that he would be bound to make votes for the Democratic candidates on this issue in agricultural districts. The distinction between a revenue tariff and a high protective tariff—legalized robbery—is so clearly drawn that a wayfarer man though a fool cannot fail to understand.

While the Senator was pointing out in a very lucid and forcible manner how a tariff for revenue would put money into the treasury instead of into the manufacturer's pocket—as is done by the protective tariff—some man, with spectacles on, standing over in the audience asked in a loud voice, "How much would the laborer get?" The Senator caught the idea at once; it seemed to inspire him; he went at it with a vim, and within five minutes' time he showed how completely the working man had been and is still being deceived by the phrase "Protection to American Labor." He gave such a complete answer to the question, holding up the bare assertion, that protection to the manufacturer protected the laborer, in all its nakedness; in fact, his reply to the question was so withering and convincing that the audience loudly applauded, while the man with spectacles on appeared dumb-founded. This old fraud, "protection to American labor," is bound to be exploded, and we know of no one who can do it more effectually than Senator VANCE. His blow at it on Friday night was a regular dynamite. There is no law to prohibit the importation of labor, hence, a tariff for the protection of manufactured goods does not protect labor. The manufacturer will add the tariff to the price of his goods, put it in his pocket and get the cheapest labor he can, and in the labor market the American has to compete with the world. Foreign competition in the manufacture of certain goods is shut off by a protective tariff, while American labor is bound to compete with all the laborers in the world who see fit to emigrate to our shores.

We took notes of the Senator's speech and will probably refer to it again. In his closing remarks he touched upon State affairs, and did it eloquently, forcibly and effectively.

THE Prohibitionists have held their National Convention and nominated Ex-Gov. ST. JOHN as their candidate for the Presidency. The convention was held at Pittsburg, Pa., and there were some twenty States represented.

WARSAW, July 24.—Inquiry into the conspiracy to blow up the palace during Czar's visit to Warsaw shows that elaborate and far-reaching plans were adopted. Evidence is adduced to prove that the conspirators after murdering the Czar intended to provoke a rebellion in Poland and Western Russia, to plunder the Jews and rich tradesmen of Warsaw and to seize the arms in the arsenal.

LONDON, July 24.—Barl Granville, secretary of foreign affairs, has refused to assent to Holland's proposal to blockade the whole Acheen coast with a view to securing the release of the crew of the British steamer Nisero, wrecked on that coast last autumn.

LONDON, July 23.—Advices from Corunna, Spain, report that a collision at sea had occurred between the Spanish steamer Gijon, from Corunna for Cuba, and the British steamer Laxham. Both vessels sank. Forty-five of the Gijon's passengers and eleven of the Laxham's crew had been landed at Corunna. It is believed that the rest of the passengers and crews were saved. A despatch from Corunna says: "The passengers and crews of the Gijon and Laxham, numbering 104, took to the boats, but have not been heard from. Steamers have been despatched in search of them."

SUAKIM, July 24.—As the Bairam feasts which mark the close of the feast of Ramadan begin to-day, it is expected that a formidable attack upon the city will be made by the rebels.
