LOCAL NEWS.

Journal's Maturity Almanac.
Sun rises, 5:15; Length of day,
Sun sets, 6:36; 13 hours, 41 minutes.
Moon rises at 8:28 p. m.

It rains.
The weather is the chief topic of conversation now.

The steamer Shenandoah arrived yesterday with freight and passengers.

Cholera is making a clean sweep of the hogs in the Swift creek section in this county.

Prof. Winston's letters from Rome, published in the Goldboro Messenger continue very interesting.

The steamer Stout cleared for Baltimore yesterday with sixty-five hundred watermelons, besides other freights.

The Raleigh Courier says some large excursions to the seaside are being arranged. One is from Asheville to Morehead City.

Twenty samples were on the board at the Cotton Exchange yesterday which is the shadow of coming events. No sales transpired.

Mr. Wm. Dunn is erecting a wind mill in the rear of his residence on Middle street. A wag suggests that the politicians will make wind enough to run it this fall.

"Satan is coming," is the title of a book we are asked to advertise, but must decline.—He is already here.—"Satan is going," we would be glad to announce, without charge.

Mr. H. C. Parrott called in to see us yesterday but would talk about nothing but saw mills. He is moving his mill from Trent river over on Neuse where he will continue to cut lumber.

A very heavy rain fell in the neighborhood of Kinston on Thursday night. A wash out was made in the road bed of the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad which caused the train on Friday morning a delay of about one hour.

Passengers from up the road state that the rain at Kinston on Thursday evening was the heaviest had there for many years. Our itemizer says the river rose there five feet during the night. We thought we were in the rainy streak this year but some how or other we missed that flood. There was no rain of any consequence in New Berne on Thursday night.

Not Out of the Party.
Judge Bynum, who it was announced had left the Republicans and was going to vote for General Scales, publishes a card denying that he has ever expressed an intention of voting for General Scales but has spoken favorably of him to his friends. He also says he has not left the Republican party. Having published the announcement, we feel it a duty to also publish the denial of the Judge.

Personal.
J. H. Becton, Esq., editor of the Pamlico Enterprise, who has been on a trip to Morehead City for rest and recuperation, was in to see us yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Bayard Clarke and her little granddaughter, Bayard Morgan, and Mrs. C. E. Foy left for New York by the Shenandoah.

E. W. Smallwood left for Asheville yesterday.

G. D. Mattocks, of Onslow, called in last evening. He says the crops generally are good, especially corn.

Another Valuable Plant.
Growing in vacant lots and in gardens that have not been properly cared for, we find in our city a plant of great medicinal value. It is known in medical botany as the Datura Stramonium. It is easily cultivated—generally growing where it is not wanted—many valuable remedies, both for man and beast, are made from the seeds. The seed pods ripen about the time of frost or just before. They are very easily gathered.

This plant is known all over our country as "Jimson Weed."

We Hope Not.

The rumor is afloat that Dr. York descends to low depths of mud slinging in discussions with Gen. Scales. We hope the statements are exaggerated, but of one thing he may be assured, Republicans will no more countenance that mode of canvassing than will the Democrats, unless they have changed their tactics; for all of their candidates for State officers heretofore have borne themselves well through the heat of debate. Judge Settle, Judge Buxton and Mr. Dochery each avoided that and never descended to anything that would have offended the most sensitive modesty; and we hope for the credit of the State that the present canvass is not to be an exception.

MARRIED.

On August 6th, at T. B. Holland's the bride's father, by G. D. Mattocks, Esq., Miss Klattie Holland and Mr. E. W. Cox, of Onslow county.

Mr. Blank's Letter.

We published yesterday the letter of Mr. F. J. Blank, who was formerly a citizen of New Berne, in which he lays the defects of the city a little pointedly before our readers. It must be remembered that Mr. Blank lived here just after the war, at a time when the city enjoyed a temporary boom of prosperity growing out of the disbanding of troops of the U. S. Army, the rehabilitation of returning Confederates, and a concentration of Northern people with capital accumulated during the speculative period of the war; and when there was a rush of business; when a vast number of people, both white and colored, were seeking a place to settle down after the terrible upheaval of a four years' struggle; and gave a business-like aspect to the place, extending with gradual diminution up to the panic of 1873, which was about the time he seems to have left. After the severity of that period of time, from 1873 to 1879 and '80, there has been a gradual but sure and continued improvement, and except in the absence of paint alluded to, we can claim manifest advancement. The trade of the place which formerly came in carts and wagons is no longer seen on our streets, but comes and goes on the numerous steamers which ply the waters of our rivers and sounds in numbers never before known to our citizens. That our commerce has increased is shown by the Schedule B tax lists of our merchants, which is a safe basis of calculation upon that subject. We regret that Mr. Blank did not observe our fine shelled streets, our new court house, public school building and other evidences of substantial improvement.

But on the subject of our sources of revenue he was far from getting at the facts in the case. Corn and cotton are large but not our only sources. Rice has become very prominent, and the trucking interest has grown to great magnitude; the oyster interest has been greatly advanced by the cannery established here, while the fishing industry has been on a constant and notable increase. Further than this, Mr. Blank was with us during the dull season, when many of our citizens are away from here on either business or pleasure, and at a time when the town is practically "relegated" to the "stay at home for comfort" portion of the community.

The railroad schedule of which he complains, and which seems to have, to some extent, evoked his letter, is a matter of the corporation and for which the city cannot be held accountable, but as we have said before we presume is run upon such time as the managers think produces the greatest good to the greatest numbers and best results to the finances of the company.

Money.

Rev. Mr. Bull of this city has certainly been successful in bee culture. We purchased a few cases of honey from him a few days ago and we pronounce it the nicest we have seen for some time. Of course we have seen as good honey as this, but the manner in which it is put up makes it look very toothsome and marketable. We hope Mr. Bull will have some of it at the Exposition.

Floppers.

In 1880, when Gen. Hancock was nominated, the air rung with sounds of floppers in Pennsylvania and other States.

In fact, so numerous were they, that we believe, at one time it was in contemplation, to call a floppers' convention to organize the flopping element of his supporters, so that the flopping might continue until every person, including to flop, might have an opportunity to do so. But sad to say, these floppers, either never flopped at all, or they flopped so vigorously, that in their numerous girations and revolutions they come down plumb on the side they started from. And at the dress parade of election day every one was in line, eyes to the front with head erect, and fled right up to the ballot box and voted for Garfield.

We write this as a reminder that but little aid is to be expected from that element in a presidential campaign. Look to your own lines, Democrats, and see that they are all out and vote.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—When I offered an answer to the query of "Inquirer" I made an effort to explain the condition of affairs relative to giving the contract for copying and computing the tax list and had no idea of referring to the past acts of the Commissioners nor did I intend to say anything that would reflect upon any of the members of the Board, and if in my ignorance I did, I am sorry for it; but in conclusion I will say that past records are improper subjects to bring before the public unless "Inquirer" is sure of his being clear. "People that live in glass houses should not throw stones."

Respectfully,
ALPHRED W. COON,
New Berne, Aug. 8th, 1884.

The Elite of Morehead City.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—I shall appreciate the liberty of publishing through your columns an account of one of the most enjoyable occasions it has ever been my good fortune to attend and in saying I do so merely the echo of all present. About 11 o'clock on Wednesday evening the guests of the Atlantic Hotel cheerfully accepted an invitation extended by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bryan to a champagne supper complimentary to Mrs. Clair Misses Englehard and Holt on the eve of their departure from the waters of the old Atlantic.

Never since the renowned days of chivalry has the "stirrup cup" speeded the parting guest with more grace, and the lordly cavaliers were nobly represented in the person of our guests. The notable absence of our hostess was deeply lamented and many the expressions of sincere regret at the indisposition from which cause the pleasure of her company was denied us. Corks popped gaily, glasses were filled with the sparkling beverage, the signal for those courtesies and tokens of hospitality, over which no one excels, and but few equal, Mr. Bryan as host; he rose and amidst the silence which greeted this signal proposed the health "of those soon to leave us" and in his usual courteous style so becoming the subject of his toast expressed the regrets he felt on the approach of the morrow which would bear from his view those faces which had so brightly contributed to the gaiety and so greatly contributed to the summer's enjoyment. Miss Rosabella Englehard, one of Raleigh's fairest, arose and in her graceful and modest bearing so characteristic in her and so lovely in one so talented, responded with a voice rich and clear, heard by those most distant from her, and in words prompted by her ready and in words prompted by her ready expressions and assured him of the reciprocity of feeling. Second only to our host and a son well worthy of so talented a sire, Mr. Charles S. Bryan won the admiration of the assembled guests by his quick repartee and numerous toasts, generally remembering those whose friends were too timid or their words too scarce to venture their voices amid the acknowledged "Bels Esprit" and sparkling eyes. To Miss Ella M. Holt the toasts were often and long; many the glasses filled and raised and filled again "to the fairest of her sex;" many the words echoing those sentiments; many the lips breathing her praise. Miss Maude H. Amyette, of whom New Berne is so justly proud, as usual, received the encomiums her wit and beauty ever calls forth. On every side her name resounded. Her ready responses and sweet voice enlisted many in her train who before had only the good fortune to know at a distance and who quickly learned that by no means in this case did "distance lend enchantment."

Miss Lavine Haywood, the lovely daughter of the courtly Dr. "Dick," proudly bore her role of queenly grace and gentle manner, and the rounds of applause greeting her prompt responses showed that there, as elsewhere, did she meet that deserving appreciation of her merit. From Washington, N. C., the proverbial centre of North Carolina's fairest daughters, well entertaining the reputation of her native town, surpassed by none, appeared Miss Pattie Rodman. We only regret that numerous admirers vied with each other in responding to the many toasts directed to her and thus denied us the pleasure of debaring her the privilege of her own responses. From our sister Carolina, Miss Fannie McCreery, a lovely picture, her dark Southern beauty calling forth universal admiration as the theme of song and the subject of toasts.

Miss Olivia Cowper, with whom none can be thrown without experiencing that charm of manner peculiar only to herself, received many toasts couched in words of adulation so richly merited. Again, Mr. Editor, from your own town, one whose face lighted the scene by its own sweet beauty and whose voice was often raised in its pure, rich tones and cultivated expression, in response to many toasts, Miss Dita Roberts ranked as one of New Berne's choicest flowers. Many calls for Mr. Chas. Busbee brought forth a ringing response in words of thanks to our host for his enjoyment of the elegant entertainment, and as he retired suggested the propriety of remarks from "Mid" Leach, Esq., who ever ready in the cause of gallantry, cheerfully replied in words select, and with pleasing address, concluding by requesting the pleasure of hearing the gentleman from the "turpentine district," John D. Williams, Esq., who, ever prepared with a witty retort, answered—"that coming, as he did, from the 'turpentine district,' his words were stuck in his throat though his heart unstuck (with turpentine) was with them."

Fearing that I have already consumed more space in your paper, Mr. Editor, than I have a right to ask for, though by far too little to fully describe this delightful evening and even though your entire paper were placed at my disposal, I should then feel sensibly my inability to do the subject that justice it deserves. I shall in conclusion ask your indulgence to mention the names of those more prominently introduced by means of their active part in the toasts of the evening and assure those whose names are omitted that it is through lack of space and not lack of their deserved appreciation—Misses Nannie Roberts, Mammie Amyette, Miss Mary Miller, Miss Mammie McCreery, Miss Mina Branch.

Mr. J. C. Roberts, of whom special mention I beg leave to make, by his clear voice, command of language, supported by a strong and trained mind, rendered his toasts among the best and most appreciated.

Dr. "Dick" Haywood, with whom gallantry is ever present, reminding the younger men of their neglect, drank a toast in well timed grace, to the "Grass Widows," amid the winning smiles and approving glances of those present. "Fence" Young, without whom no circle is complete, added his well filled store of wit and humor to the enjoyment of the party. "Saunders B." oft attempted and as often failed, his friends finding it difficult to rhyme with "B."

Dr. Alexander, Turner Vaison, Lieut. J. B. Hughes, U. S. A., Tom Dewey, Ed. Gear, R. B. Roney the proprietor of the hotel, ever the gentleman and pleasant companion—"Farewell! a word that hath been and must be;" "A sound that makes us linger, Yet, Farewell!" With thanks, Mr. Editor, Yours very truly, "Enjoyment."

No Complaint to Make.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—I regret to see on my return from Raleigh that my proposition to compute and copy the tax list made to the Board of County Commissioners had provoked discussion in your paper. This is entirely foreign to my wishes in the matter. I have for the last three years done a part of this work and always supposed, because I did it as well, and as low as any one would. I made a proposition this year and did not expect it on any other basis. I did not make it at the July meeting, until Mr. Brinson saw me, because August has always been the time of letting out the list. I made my proposal in good faith, made no change in it after handing it in, nor would I have made any, because I had put my bottom figures and would not reduce them, although the right to do so I think beyond question to both Mr. Wood and myself.

About three o'clock on the day of the August meeting, I was approached by Mr. S. W. Latham, who urged that I should withdraw my proposal, which I flatly refused to do, telling him that I knew that two members of the Board wanted to vote for me; this he said "but they can't elect you," and to this I said, "well, they shall have a chance to go upon record, and you can vote for me or not, as you choose." What Mr. Latham's motives were are as much in the dark to me as to any one in the county.

The work was for the county, and if the Commissioners did not want me to do it, I assure them I have no complaint to make.
J. R. B. CARRAWAY.

The Supplemental City Tax.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—The recent ordinance passed by the Board of Commissioners compelling the citizens to clean out the ditches in front of their premises, seems to us as very unequal in its bearing, if not absurd, and is altogether a most unique specimen of legislation. Is it not placing the brethren of taxation very unequal? To illustrate, Col. John D. Whitford has a street front of about 500 feet, and his premises are valued on the tax list at $2,250. Geo. Allen & Co. have a store valued at $9000, the latter has a front of about 50 feet, consequently, Col. Whitford with property of less than one-third of the valuation of Geo. Allen & Co. will have to pay ten times as much tax for cleaning the streets of the city. Again, Doctor Charles Duffy has a lot fronting on two streets, Middle and Union, of about 550 feet; its utmost valuation would be about $1500. Directly opposite to his lot are four handsome residences, worth in the aggregate $10,000. With about the same frontage, the occupants of these lots would collectively, have to pay about the same tax for street draining as Doctor Duffy. Again, the McLean lot has a frontage on three streets of about 1,000 feet and its worth, say $10,000; the Weinstein building is worth about the same sum and has a frontage on two streets not to exceed 150 feet; the McLean property will be compelled to pay eight times as much tax for street cleaning as the Weinstein building.

Oh tempora! oh mores! It seems to us that the only fair way, as it is the only legal way to enforce this tax is to assess the property according to its value.

The curative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is too well known to require the specious aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvelous cures are to-day living in every city and hamlet of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

The most deadly foe to all malarial disease is Ayer's Agree Cure, a combination of vegetable ingredients only, of which the most valuable is used in no other known preparation. This remedy is an absolute and certain specific, and succeeds when all other medicines fail. A cure is warranted.

"Where on earth did you get that tobacco?" cried Frank to his college mate, as he passed him in the hall, smoking his first pipe of Blackwell's Durham Long Cut. "Ha! ha! What do you think of it, Frank? Now talk about the perfumes of Frank, and all that! Get it? Why down at the tobaccoist's." "By Jove! Charlie, you've made a hit. Never inhaled such enchanting odors before. That's your genuine classical tobacco! Greek and Latin must come easy amid such fragrance."
