The End of the Cotton Year,

The cotton year ends August 31st and the crop of 1883 will be summed up at the ports of entry. The exchange here reports 13,389 bales sold from the counters of that establishment, showing a falling off of considerable when we compare statements below; which was of the crop of 1881, 21,107 bales; 1882, 20,510. Thus showing 1883 behind 1882 6,671 bales and behind 1881 7,268 bales.

A Highly Respected Man Gone.

By a telegram received by his nephew, Mr. G. F. M. Dail, we learn that Mr. John R. Dail, of Snow Hill, died yesterday at 9 o'clock a. m., after a linger. ing illness. Mr. Dail was a prominent citizen of Greene county, and had for several years past resided at Snow Hill. He was about 70 years old and highly respected by all who knew him.

The Graded School.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the New Berne Academy, held on Friday avening, it was decided to open the school for the First, Advanced First, Second and Third grades on the 15th of September, and for the higher grades as soon as the new building is so far completed that it can be used.

Prof. David L. Ellis, a graduate of the Tennessee Normal College and Principal of Falling Creek Academy last session. was elected to fill the place of Professor O'Neal.

Campaign Funds.

We publish on our editorial page to day an excellent article on "Money in Campaigns." We hope our Democratic readers will read it carefully and act is accordance with their feelings. But if, as is suggested in this article, the expenditure of money is a good test of sincerity, we are bound to confess that there was not much sincerity in the Craven county Democrats two years ago. But the argument that every man who honestly believes his party is in the right and the other party is in the wrong thould be willing to assist by financial contributions in furtherance of the cause to which he has allied himself, is a very strong one, and when the necessity for such contributions can be shown, is a test of sincerity.

The Central Cleveland and Scales Club of this city has a committee to solicit contributions, and, if they properly understand their duties, will approach the Demosrats in the different wards of the city pretty soon and test the sincerity of their Democracy.

SCALES AND YORK.

The Two Candidates Cross Swords at Salisbury.

Special Dispatch to the News and Observer. SALISBURY, August 28.

To-day the candidates spoke here. Salisbury looked its gayest, and great enthusiasm was shown. The speaking was in the grove where stands one of our historic buildings, Andrew Jack-son's law office. There were no less than 2,500 persons present to hear the speakers. The demonstration was of such a character as to cheer every Democrat. Gen. Scales led off in the debate. His speech, vigorous and lucid, produced a happy effect and drew con-tinual applause. He spoke half an hour and I regard his speech as one of the most effective I have ever heard.

York's reply was strong and adroit. Gen. Scales, in reply to York's oft re-peated reference to "Scales and his Secession Democracy," mentioned that in 1861 he was not a secessionist, but that when called on by the State he entered the ranks as a private and received a severe wound.

Alluding to this, York in the course of his rejoinder said Scales was wounded in the back of his leg. Up to this moment the crowd had been a remarkably quiet and orderly one, paying par ticular attention to the speakers, but these words of York's preduced great excitement in an instant. The indigna-tion was intense, particularly among the large number of old soldiers present some in market next week. Who will who in by-gone days had served with Scales.
