pleasure and suspense to the Democrats of this city. The first bulletins received in the morning were favorable to Cleveland's election. Private telegrams all through the day confirmed this, and some of the Republicans in the city began to waver in their faith of Blaine's "Westconstant" is heard from and election. So confident were the Democrats that they chartered the old canon on the Clyde wharf, drew it up, and planted it at the junction of Craven and Pollock streets and prepared to give a genuine welcome to the news. Our colored friends are very much down in the mouth on the election of Cleveland. They were so in 1876 when Vance was elected Governor. But they learned afterwards that instead of hav-Ing their rights abridged in any particular, the Democratic State Government done more for their material advancement than the Republicans. They need have no fears of a Democratic administration of the National Government.

The JOURNAL office was honored on Thursday night by several enthusiastic speakers, who congratulated themselves and the JOURNAL on the election of Cleveland. One of them, "actuated by the purest motives," surprised himself as an orator. The speaking rather con-fused the proof reader, but we believe we had fewer typographical errors in next morning's issue than usual. It is the first occasion of the kind that the boys have ever had to celebrate, so we have no complaint to make.

Malarial Polson.

ROME, GA., May 23, 1883. In 1880 I came from the North to take charge of the gas works in Rome, as superintendent, and after the overflow, which occurred in the spring following. I was very much exposed to malarial poison, and in 1882 found my blood so contaminated with the poison that I was forced to give up business. I was treated by the Rome physicians without relief, they advising me to go North, which I did. The doctors North told me The following private despatches were that my only hope was to return to the milder climate, and accordingly I came back to Rome, completely broken down Clement Manly, New Berne-Cannon and nearly a skeleton. My trouble booming for Cleveland. No further finally determined in an abscess of the liver, and nearly every one (myself in-cluded) thought I was doomed to cie within a few days. In this condition I was advised by a friend to take Swift's Specific, and I took it just as a drowning man would catch at a straw, but as soon as my system got under the influ-ence of the remedy, the abscess came to a point and burst, passing off without pain. In fifteen days after this I was up at my work, and have since enjoyed excellent health. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.
