

AYER'S Aguie Cure

contains an antidote for all malarial disorders which, so far as known, is used in no other remedy. It contains no Quinine, nor any mineral nor deleterious substance whatever, and consequently produces no injurious effect upon the constitution, but leaves the system as healthy as it was before the attack.

WE WARRANT AYER'S AGUE CURE to cure every case of Fever and Ague, Intermitting or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Malaria, Bilious Fever, and Liver Complaint caused by malaria. In case of failure, after due trial, dealers are authorized, by our circular dated July 1st, 1882, to refund the money.

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists.

An Arctic Song-Bird.

It has often been remarked that there is no music in nature's solitudes of ice. Mr. W. H. Gilder, who accompanied the sledge expedition of 1879 through Great Fish River and Hayes River regions, alludes with some feeling to the one little scrap of living song that he met there, and the struggle it cost him to lay violent hands on the only species of Arctic creature that has a tuneful voice.

I shot two of an apparently distinct species of snipe (he says), to preserve their skins for the Smithsonian Institution Collection. One of them was distinguished by a sweet, simple song, somewhat similar to the lark's, its silvery tones gushing forth as if in perfect ecstasy of enjoyment of sunshine and air; at the same time rising and poising itself upon its wings.

It seemed almost inhuman to kill the sweet little songster, particularly as it was the only creature I saw in the Arctic that uttered a pleasant note. All other sounds were such as the scream of the hawk and the gull, the quack of the duck, the yell of the wolf, the "ooft," "ooft" of the walrus, or the bark of the seal—all harsh and unmelodious, save the tones of this sweet little singer. Nothing but starvation or scientific research could justify the slaughter of one of these innocents.

I believe I shut my eyes when I pulled the trigger of my gun, and I know my heart gave a regretful thump when I heard the thud of its poor bleeding body on the ground. —Schneek's Search.

FOND OF WAGNER.—"Do you know why that lady is so enthusiastic in her expressions of admiration for the 'music of the future' of the great 'German master and prophet' etc., and why she is so earnest in declaring that his language speaks to her soul as no other could, and so on, and on, and on?" "I don't know, unless it is because she is fond of Wagner music." "Not at all; it is simply because she is fond of Wag'n'er tongue."—Boston Transcript.

Holmes' Sure Cure Mouth Wash and Dentifrice is an infallible cure for Ulcerated Sore Throat, Bleeding Gums, Sore Mouth and Ulcers. Cleans the Teeth and keeps the Gums healthy and purifies the breath.
