The Fair at Goldsboro will be at its best to-day.

Our market is bountifully supplied with fish and oysters.

Mr. W. H. Pearce is building a new fence on his lot on Pollock street.

Cosmopolitan Council No. 211, American Legion of Honor, meets to-night.

The burned wreck of steamer Defiance will be sold to-day at noon at the wreck.

A large king crab was on exhibition in front of Taylor & Smith's store yesterday.

Capt. Oaksmith is repairing his brick dwelling on the corner of Pollock and East Front.

Cleveland's majority in North Carolina without Hyde county is 17,687. Scales' is 19,857.

The festival to be held by the ladies of the Baptist Aid Society has been postponed until next Thursday night.

Wilmington has a jollification to-night. Our townsman, Maj. John Hughes, has been invited to make a speech.

It will be seen by proceedings given elsewhere that the Democrats of Pamlico are going to pay New Berne a formal visit on the day of her celebration of the Democratic victory. Let's show them what we can do.

"Rad." thinks the Republican office holders ought to step out manly and let the victors have the spoils. But he must remember that the Republicans will favor civil service reform more now than ever.

Governor Jarvis has issued his proclamation setting apart Thursday, the 27th day of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. In this document he appeals to the generosity of the people in behalf of the Oxford Orphan Asylum.

Judge Clarke gives notice that application will be made to the next General Assembly for a charter and act of incorporation for a City Transit Company, by horse cars or otherwise. Won't we be a sure enough city when we have street cars.

The jubilee at Beaufort on Tuesday night was a grand success. Over one thousand people were in procession. Speeches were made by Dr. Barker, Dr. Arendall, Mr. Doyle, F. M. Simmons, Esq., and Judge Thomas. The Silver Cornet Band of this city added much to the success of the celebration by their excellent music.

Turner's N. C. Almanac for 1885.

This popular almanac, "The Old Reliable" and Fireside Favorite, which for forty-eight years—nearly half a century—has been paying its annual visits to the homes and firesides of our people, has been received from the publisher, J. H. Ennis, Raleigh, N. C. As usual, it is full of important information to all classes, and especially to the farmer, gardener and housekeeper, to whom it is invaluable. A very valuable feature of Turner's N. C. Almanac is its Annual State Record, in which are recorded the most important events, which makes it very valuable for reference. The publisher proposes to print, free of charge, the business card of all merchants who sell the Almanac, on the outside page. For terms, etc., address J. H. Ennis, Publisher, Raleigh, N. C. Retail price 10 cents.

The First Annual Fair of the Eastern North Carolina Fair and Stock Association.

Capt. Matt Manly returned from Goldsboro on Tuesday night, and from him we gather a few notes on the Fair. Notwithstanding the disastrous fire on Sunday night, the people of the city are cheerful in their adversity and are determined to make the Fair a success. There was a small attendance on the first day, but the officers of the Association are all present and attentive to their respective duties.

There are a large number of horses present, among them some well known flyers. The races are well filled and carried on with spirit. The race on the first day between "Apple-jack," from Edgecombe, and "Palmetto," from Cumberland, was well contested. To-day (Thursday) there will be two interesting races for gentlemen riders and drivers which will no doubt draw a fashionable attendance. The track, though dusty for driving, is in excellent condition for running.

The display in Floral Hall is pronounced to be the best ever seen at a Fair in North Carolina.

Access to the Fair ground is by the W. & W. Railroad. The main entrance is within a few feet of the railway track. New Berne has been honored in the selection of Chief Marshall, Mr. Alpheus W. Wood, and we hope she will return the compliment by sending up a full delegation to see the Fair.

Arrested for an Attempt at Arson.

A young man of a very respectable family in this city, whose name is withheld by special request, and Aaron Bell, col., were before His Honor, Mayor Meadows, yesterday charged with an attempt to set fire to a building on Middle street just in rear of Mr. Boesser's furniture store, occupied by Brown Holly, col.

The young man was given a hearing first. He pleaded not guilty and was ably represented by Hon. C. C. Clark, and the State was represented by M. DeW. Stevenson, Esq.

Several witnesses were introduced on the part of the State, the substance of whose testimony was, that this young man had sent for Aaron Bell; that he and Bell prepared a bag filled with shavings and hay saturated with kerosene oil and crammed it under the house occupied by Holly, and that Holly, having waked during the time, overheard a conversation between them and hailed them as they were in the act of putting it under the house.

The defendant introduced no testimony. After argument by counsel, he was held in the sum of one thousand dollars, justified, for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court. His bond having been justified he was released.

Aaron Bell was then called for a hearing. He pleaded, "not guilty, so as you born I'm not guilty." Policeman Ketchum, who arrested Aaron, was sworn and gave Aaron's confession to him while on his way to the city. Aaron had no counsel. His Honor informed him that he could ask the witness any questions if he desired, or he could make a statement. He arose to make his statement, scratched his head, hesitated and "declared to God he didn't know what to do." Finally he started out by saying it was his great desire to make bread. He made a long story of it and finally admitted, substantially, the charge against him.

"I shall have to hold you Aaron in the sum of five hundred dollars for your appearance at the next term of the Superior court."

"Yes sir, yes sir, I'll meet you dar sho," replied Aaron, as if he thought the trouble was over for the present.

"But you must give bond," replied His Honor, "or we will have to take care of you until court."

"Oh my God!" I've never been on the books before Mr. Meadows. I go on the books for grub but for nothing else," replied Aaron, when he fully realized the situation. He was not so fortunate as to be able to give bond so he had to take quarters in Craven street hotel.

The North American Review.

The danger of incidental harm to the community, or to certain classes of people, from the increased use of machinery, the extension of public works, etc., is greatly diminished when those who make the laws, and especially those whose duty it is to interpret them, recognize that law is a progressive science; that it is a means, not an end; that when a state of things arises for which there is no precedent, a new precedent must be made. How the most enlightened jurists hold this principle constantly in view, and how the common as well as the statute law is thus made to keep pace with the general advance of civilization, is admirably set forth in the leading article in the North American Review for December, "Labor and Capital before the Law," by Judge T. M. Cooley, of Michigan. To the same number, William K. Ackerman contributes some suggestive "Notes on Railway Management." Dr. Schliemann tells us what he found in his excavations of the ruins of Tyrris, in Southern Greece, and Principal Shairp supplements his scholarly article on "Friendship in Ancient Poetry" with one on "Friendship in English Poetry." The other articles in the number are, "The British House of Lords," by George Ticknor Curtis, and "Responsibility for State Roguery," by John F. Hume.

Meeting at Bayboro.

An enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Pamlico county was held in the court house on Tuesday night, Nov. 18, for the purpose of making arrangements for the people of Pamlico to meet with a grand jollification in New Berne on Thursday, Nov. 27.

W. T. Caho explained the object of the meeting and named B. F. Mayhew as chairman.

Mr. Mayhew, in a short but eloquent speech of about ten minutes took the chair and declared the meeting ready for business.

On motion of W. T. Caho a committee of thirty was appointed by the chairman to make all necessary arrangements and to secure as large attendance as the Tammany of Pamlico to be present with the young Democracy of Craven as possible on the day of the grand demonstration.

Eloquent and patriotic speeches were made by George H. Brown, of Washington, C. Manly and W. W. Clark of New Berne, J. W. Blount, Solicitor, and W. T. Caho, after which the following committee were announced by the chairman, and meeting adjourned.

James W. Dawson, chairman; Festus Miller, W. E. Hooker, Henry A. Rue, Henry H. Barrow, Chas. F. Brinson, John B. Martin, R. B. Harrison, W. H. Jacobs, Jas. M. Caroon, Jas. O. Baxter, Wm. Potter, Jr., W. H. Rawls, Jesse F. Sawyer, Chas. H. Fowler, H. H. Dowdy, Thomas Campen, R. L. Ireland, Thomas R. Lupton, Robison Campen, James Potter, William Mayo, John C. Muse, Noah F. West, Benj. McCotter, Lawrence Miller, W. H. Sawyer, Chas. A. Flowers, S. W. Ferebee, Jas. S. Lane.

Accepts the Situation.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Having been for some time a well-wisher of your paper, though of different political views, please allow me to correct some errors which our colored friend, Moses Bryan, has made, viz.: the hopes of Republican officials holding offices under Democratic administration. I think Mr. Bryan can rest at ease in regard to civil service reform, or more properly speaking, as conducted in the South, SNIVEL service reform. I would have known from the reading of his communication that some poor, scared Republican official wrote the communication without his signing it.

Now, Mr. Editor, it is a farce for any good citizen, after looking around, and seeing who are filling the offices in this and other Southern States, to say that the reform which Mr. Curtis and other Independent Republicans believe (or profess to believe) in was carried out. I for one don't believe in the so-called civil service, as I don't believe it will ever be carried out by those in charge, and if any one can show me the necessity for a good accountant, fit to fill the postmaster or collector of customs' office (or any other position in our city in the gift of the President of the United States) knowing if King Alfonso, of Spain, is a true descendant of the old Bourbon ruler of Europe, or giving the names of all the Kings and Queens who have sat on the throne of Great Britain since it became a Kingdom, etc., away with such nonsense. There are plenty of Democrats—yes, bushels of them—capable of filling any office in this or any other State, and Republicans are fully aware that it is so.

Now, sir, I am a Republican, one who did not expect any office from Mr. Blaine had he been the successful candidate, therefore I expect nothing from Mr. Cleveland except a good ruler of the people, and have no doubt but what my expectation will be realized; I also believe that he will give to the country the reform which Mr. Blaine, had he succeeded, would have given, and as a Republican I accept cheerfully the verdict of the people, that is as cheerfully as one can feel after having been beaten. As far as the colored people are concerned, those that are not holding government positions, in six months will hardly know the difference, as we all know that free tariff in this country is a humbug; as collecting revenue to run the government by tariff is the least objectionable of the two, and will still be enforced, though perhaps a reduction will be made on a great many things; all the difference I can see at present, though I may be mistaken, will be the rascals out, and put the rascals in, for they deserve to go in, having made such a gallant fight, and having waited so long, and to the victors belong the spoils; what I say and those of my party who have held office for 20 years or more, may prepare to step down and out and do it like men, not like cringing, weak-minded boys, and they will be thought more of by all classes. As for our colored friends, my advice to them is to go to work, like all good citizens of both races and try to make the country prosper, not like some, hang around political officials and borrow 50 cents from first one then another with the intention of never repaying.

Mr. Editor excuse politeness, what I desired to say was for the benefit of cringing Republican officials, not Democrats, as I am aware they can take care of themselves and pox 'em if they don't, from the manner in which they cleaned us up in the last campaign. So brother office-holder prepare to vacate; lessen thy hold on a public seat, and remember that you are servants of the people, not that the people are yours.

Bye-bye, RAD.

Seven Springs Items.

Dry weather and dust. Jesse Grainger cleaned up Trent township.

Gov. Jarvis and his excellent lady are sojourning at the Springs.

Our Republican friends are in deep mourning since the election.

Possum hunting is the order of the day, or rather of the night. Tank Ivey caught six in one night.

It seemed very appropriate that next under the paragraph announcing the success of Cleveland, we find President Arthur's proclamation for Thanksgiving.

We witnessed the calisthenic exercises of the school at this place, conducted by Z. J. Whitfield, which shows thorough training on the part of the teacher. Mr. Whitfield is a young man of excellent character, much energy and seems to have a thorough knowledge and a tact of imparting knowledge to others.

Joe Allen had a flag up at his store on Sunday that represented several industries. A whiskey barrel represented the hand of the staff, a wine cask next, then a flour barrel, then a lime barrel and then a roll of cotton bagging standing on end with a staff many feet long sticking from it. Some crank told Joe to get mad and he tried to do so although the white flag of peace was waving from the top. Caro not, Mr. Allen, for the innocent sports of youth.

Apples. Fine Matamuskiet apples for sale by W. P. Burrus.

Kinston Items.

Cotton continues to pour in. Cool, dry, dusty, smoky—Indian summer.

Hens are laying again, the strike having ended.

We have seen several apples recently, of the second crop, this season.

He is a plucky man now that dares name "that little bill" to a debtor.

The last Republican has surrendered to the inevitable 219 for Cleveland.

Candidates for positions under Cleveland are getting to be like "leaves of Vallambrosa."

The snow birds have made their appearance. They sojourn during the summer in the high mountains.

We sympathize greatly with our sister city, Goldsboro, in the distress occasioned by the fire of Sunday last.

Miss Lizzie Biddle of Craven, Miss Lon Moore and Miss Clara Faircloth of Greene, are visiting friends in Kinston.

Neuse river is so low now that it does not know its head from its mouth, and has concluded to run back up the country and look for its springs.

We are very glad to see Rev. Israel Harding again at home, after a long stay in St. Luke's Hospital, New York city. His health is greatly improved and his very many friends are rejoicing over it.

Prof. John R. Harding, who was, during the last session, one of Dr. Lewis' assistants in Kinston College, is now studying for the Episcopal ministry in the General Theological Seminary, New York.

On Saturday night last, at a late hour, a house near the corporation boundary, occupied as a residence by Mr. Everett Brinson, was fired by an incendiary and burnt to the ground. Mr. Brinson, wife and children, barely escaped with their lives, having everything in the house destroyed. On Sunday night the congregation of the Episcopal Church took a collection for the sufferers and raised eight dollars besides provisions and clothing. Other citizens, on Monday, assisted also, and placed the family in comparatively comfortable circumstances. The dwelling burned was the property of Mr. Street, our hotel proprietor.

Notice to Mariners.

Notice is hereby given that on December 1, 1884, the characteristics of the lights named below will be changed as follows:

BRANDYWINE SHOAL LIGHT.

This light will show red between the following compass-bearings taken from the light-house: N. N. W. 4 W. around towards the N. E. and S. by E. 4 E., embracing about 187 degrees of arc. Throughout the remainder of the arc the light will show white, as heretofore.

CROSS LEDGE LIGHT.

This light will show red between the following compass-bearings taken from the light-house: N. W. by N. around to the N. E. and S. to S. S. E., embracing about 192 degrees of arc. Throughout the remainder of the arc the light will show white, as heretofore.

SHIP JOHN SHOAL LIGHT.

This light will be changed from a fixed red to a fixed white with red cut. The light will show red between the following compass-bearings taken from the light-house: N. W. 4 N. around towards the N. E. and S. to S. S. E. 4 E., embracing about 185 degrees of arc. Throughout the remainder of the arc the light will show white.

SAILING DIRECTIONS.

Vessels bound up Delaware Bay are clear of all danger on the east side of channel so long as Brandywine light shows white until within 1 mile of this light, but should approach no nearer Brandywine Shoal. When clear of Brown Shoal, vessels should run for the light-ship at Fourteen-foot Bank, or, in case she should be off her station, then run towards Cross Ledge light, keeping both Brandywine and Cross Ledge lights white until abreast of the light-ship or about midway between Cross Ledge and Brandywine lights, thence keep Ship John Shoal a white light until within 3 miles of this light, at which point both Ship John Shoal and Cross Ledge lights should show white, thence pass Ship John Shoal, keeping the Cross Ledge light white, thence run for the Port Penn ranges, keeping Ship John Shoal white.

In coming down the Bay, keep the Port Penn ranges on and Ship John Shoal white until within 3 miles of this light, then keep Cross Ledge white until 3 miles below Ship John Shoal, at which point both Ship John Shoal and Cross Ledge should show white, then keep Ship John Shoal white until abreast of Cross Ledge, then steer for the light-ship or Brandywine, keeping the latter a white light until abreast of light-ship or midway between Cross Ledge and Brandywine, then keep Cross Ledge white until 1 mile below Brandywine, then run in the white light of Cape Henlopen and Brandywine.

By order of the Light-House Board.
