THE JOURNAL.

NEW BERNE, N. C., DEC. 12, 1884.

A True Story, But it Leaves the Issue in Doubt.

"Yes," said old man Sapphira, dragging a box up to the stove in the country store, and loading in a fresh chew of tobacco, "yes, Jeemes Darby wuz a powerful Injin fighter. You know, in them days it wuz fashionable among the redskins to roast a feller at the stake, an' they hed it in fur Jeemes of they ever kotch him. He fit around fur nigh onto five year, an' killed about two dozen uv 'em, an', uv course, that didn't make 'em love Jeemes any better. Finally, one day, they slipped up on him, and after a lively scrimmage they took him in. They wuz the gladdest set uv redskins you ever see, an' they made a bigger hullabaloo over Darby than folks does now over a Presidential candidate. Jeemes wasn't no coward, an' he tuck his misfortin' az cool az he could under the circumstances, an' watched 'em gittin ready. He knowed it wuz goin' to be a picnic an' barbeque an' he wuz goin' to be called on to furnish the meat, but it didn't skeer him much. When they wuz ready they yanked Jeemes up to the post an' hitched him to it tight an' fetched on their kinalin' wood. Then they lit it with some leaves an' powder Uashed on to 'em an' the blaze began to shoot up purty lively. Jeemes scrunched, an' struggled, 'cause fire is hot even on a brave man's legs, but he never hollered. In a few minutes the blaze was creepin' up one side uv him an' the other wuz not much hurt. Jeemes noticed it, an' just ez if he wuz at a Delmonico dinner, he sung out:

"Look h'ar, yer skulkin' heathen; stir up the fire on 'tother side. Jeemes Darby never did like rare meat, an' he don't want it half done now."

"That wuz what I call heroism boys, an' Jeemes orter had better luck than to be cooked fur a redskin picnic."

"You don't believe that story, do you?" asked one of the listeners.

"In course I do. Jeemes told it to me hisself, an' Jeemes wouldn't lie."—Merchant Traveler.

Sweet Gum and Mullein.

The sweet gum, as gathered from a tree of the same name, growing along the small streams in the Southern States, contains a stimulating expectorant principle that loosens the phlegm producing the early morning cough, and stimulates the child to throw off the false membrane in croup and whooping cough. When combined with the healing mucilaginous principle in the mullein plant of the old fields, presents in TAYLOR'S CHEROKEE REMEDY OF SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough and Consumption; and so palatable, any child is pleased to take it. Ask your druggist for it. Send two-cent stamp for Taylor's Riddle Book, which is not only for the amusement of the little ones who will gather around your knee to hear the puzzling questions, but containing information for the health and welfare of every home.
