VOL. III.

NEW BERNE, N. C., SATURDAY, JANUARY 10, 1885.

NO. 242.

LOCAL NEWS.

Journal Miniature Almanac. New Berne, latitude, 35° 6' North, longitude, 77° 3' West.

Eggs made a sharp decline yesterday. The M. E. Church is being covered with tin.

The slating of the new court house is nearly completed.

The gates have been fixed to the new fence around the Academy Green.

No cases before the Mayor in two days. The police report dull times.

The auction sale of the personal property of Reel Bros. & Askins will be continued to-day.

The steamer Elm City arrived from Bayboro yesterday evening with freight and passengers.

The Shenandoah made her usual trip yesterday, taking out a good cargo of cotton and other freights.

A large number of hands were engaged in shucking oysters yesterday at Moore & Brady's packing house.

Four white shad were brought in by the fishermen yesterday. Hickories are coming in in good quantities.

Capt. Oaksmith is making extensive improvements on his building on the corner of Pollock and East Front streets.

A young man just returned from Richmond wants to know how long it takes to get over a champagne swell-head.

Mr. Edward Scott's gin house, near Quaker Bridge, Jones county, was burned yesterday. Particulars not given by our informant.

Col. McClure, of the Philadelphia Times, addressed the people of Raleigh on Friday night, touching in his remarks upon the character of Abraham Lincoln.

The Raleigh Chronicle says the meeting of the General Assembly always brings plenty of mud. We hope the present Assembly will find no time for throwing it.

The good weather for the last two days has caused the fishermen to venture out, and from the piles of hickory shad brought in yesterday evening they must be having pretty good luck.

The JOURNAL reporter asked Hon. C. C. Clark for an item of news yesterday evening, and the reply came: "Just state that I am not going out of town nor have I any business to attend to."

The meetings of the Evangelical Alliance are interesting and well attended. On Thursday night the meeting was held at the Presbyterian church and short addresses were made on the subject of family prayer by Revs. Mr. Vass, Dr. L. S. Burkhead and Dr. W. H. Barker, and on temperance by Rev. Mr. Bull.

Personals. Sheriff Hooker and W. H. Sawyers, of Pamlico, are in the city.

Mrs. S. B. Walker and family arrived from Beaufort yesterday morning.

Prof. M. A. George arrived on the Shenandoah yesterday morning and commences opening a music house in the city.

Capt. W. W. Carraway, of the News and Observer, was in the city after delinquents yesterday.

Legislative Proceedings. During the session of the General Assembly we intend to give the proceedings, in a condensed form, which we think will be of more importance to our readers than anything we can write for our editorial page.

Making laws for the government of a free people is of considerable importance, and the people for whom they are intended should watch the proceedings and keep their representatives informed as to their wishes.

Garden Peas. In conversation with Mr. G. W. Moore, of the firm of Moore & Brady, oyster packers, yesterday, he said he was willing to make contracts with our farmers for garden peas and pay them a living price.

If our truck farmers could make conditional contracts, or rather if Mr. Moore will agree to take their peas at living prices provided the Northern market does not justify them in shipping, many more peas might be planted and there would not be so much risk. It would be a good thing for New Berne if this packing house could be kept busy eight instead of four months in the year.

To any body who has disease of throat or lungs, we will send proof that Piso's Cure for Consumption has cured the same complaints in other cases.

JEWELS BUSY.

The Panel, alternating between sunshine and free fires, are having a busy time carrying on the Government. Just as the Legislature of this State was about to assemble, which will demand much attention, here comes the resignation of the Governor of New York.

The attention of the Panel was directed to a "Problem for the Jewels," printed in the JOURNAL, and while the high-sounding words adjectively applied to its proceedings has the smell of the midnight lamp, yet they feel disposed to dissolve the problem, and with accustomed chivalry rise to the defence of the fair sex—even of the dusky damsels of Southern Africa.

Their refer to be spit upon to being kissed is a grievous fallacy, and Thompson didn't say so. He says spitting with them expresses the greatest good-will. Now what has that to do with kissing? Nothing whatever.

He further says he had better spit upon her than to kiss her. Well, what of that? Suppose one should spit upon an accomplished European maiden, what would be easier than to beg a thousand pardons and be forgiven for it as an accident.

But should he kiss one, where could the accident come in to relieve him? What irate parent would accept the hypothesis? What would the infuriate lover say about it? How about the big brother department on the maiden's side of the question?

Thinking of the danger of treachery in the party kissed, who might deny consent either implied or otherwise; the danger of being arrested for assault with or without a battery, it strikes the philosophic mind of the Panel that even in enlightened America he had better spit upon her than to kiss her, and that's about the gist of the matter.

Evangelical Alliance. The Union Meeting, this Saturday night, January 10th, will be held in the First Presbyterian Church, on Neuse street. The topic for prayer: For Missions, Home and Foreign.

For the outpouring of the Holy Spirit and the spread of the gospel in all lands; for more laborers to be sent forth endowed with power from on high; for native Christians, that they may be established in the faith and become more earnest in seeking the salvation of their countrymen.

All are welcome. Seats free, and we hope there will be a full attendance.

An Editor's Experience. After trying numerous remedies for Rheumatism, but without permanent relief, I was advised to use S. S. S., which had given permanent relief to others suffering from rheumatism.

It is very seldom, indeed, that I recommend anything to the public in this manner, but I feel it due to your valuable preparation, that has given me such long desired and much needed relief, to state these facts thus publicly.

A Dream of Wycliff.

It was such a strange dream. The seven clergymen of our town—Episcopalian, Established, Free Church, Congregationalist, Baptist, Reformed Presbyterian, and United Presbyterian—sat together concerting measures for assisting the poor and the unemployed.

"Because," was the reply, "the other Churches in Scotland deny the binding obligations of the National Covenants; do not adhere to the testimonies of the faithful of former times; admit of hymns, paraphrases, organs, gowns, and other sinful innovations." "And what say you?" addressing the Baptist minister.

"And how do you account for your separation?" asked Wycliff of the United Presbyterian Church minister. "Because I gather from the Bible that the State has no right to intermeddle with the Church, either as to its creed, its organization, or its support."

"And what do you say, brother?" said Wycliff, addressing the Free Church minister. "Because I found it necessary for conscience's sake to separate from a Church which sanctioned an interference with the rights of the members that I thought unscriptural."

"How, then, can we heal our divisions?" asked several voices simultaneously. "By taking heed unto the Word," was Wycliff's reply. "From your own methods I learn that the differences lie more in the outward and minor matters than in the weightier matters of the day."

"But, father," said one of the ministers, "we cannot see our way to do without Creeds and Confessions." "Perhaps not," replied Wycliff, "for here you see in a glass darkly, and your efforts to make truth clearer or purer than the Word does are, and must be, all in vain."

"What traditions?" asked Wycliff. "Three or four of us here claim to be the true Church of Scotland; how can we settle that?"

"Which ever is most truly the Church of Christ has most honour to the Master, whatever its history. Every man must give an account of himself unto God. Love for tradition is right. Good King Hezekiah had it; he loved the brazen serpent, and it only quickened his faith; but when he saw the people worship it, he called it a piece of brass, 'Nehustan,' and broke it in pieces."

"Suddenly the chair was empty; I awoke as the voices of the seven ministers said Amen, and I have tried to recall the dream faintly. No one could describe the old man's face. May many catch the spirit of his words."

M. Everts.

Merchants, Bankers and Manufacturers SHOULD READ

BRADSTREET'S A Weekly Journal of Trade, Finance, and Public Economy.

Sixteen Pages every Saturday. Oftentimes Twenty Pages. Sometimes Twenty-four Pages.

FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR.

The foremost purpose of BRADSTREET'S is to be of practical service to business men. Its special trade and industrial reports; its weekly epitome of bankruptcies throughout the United States and Canada, and the summaries of assets and liabilities, are alone worth the subscription price; its synopses of recent legal decisions are exceedingly valuable. As commercial transactions, in the wider sense, are coming to be more and more conducted on a statistical basis, the information contained in BRADSTREET'S is of the first importance both to producers and middlemen.

The trade and agricultural situation throughout the United States and Canada is reported by telegraph to Bradstreet's up to the hour of publication.

SINGLE COPIES, TEN CENTS.
