Moon rises at 6:19 a. m.

The market dock was full of boats yesterday.

Mr. S. H. Fowler, of Bayboro, died yesterday morning.

Cosmopolitan Council No. 211, American Legion of Honor, meets to-night.

The Methodist Advance will resume publication at Goldsboro, N. C., next Wednesday, January 21st.

The schooner F. E. Waters, Capt. L. S. Fall, arrived from Baltimore yesterday with a cargo of salt and kainit for F. Ulrich and others.

Charles Dickson, a colored youth of about twelve years, who has been repeatedly before the court for petty offences for which his mother would appear and thrash him, was taken to the police station yesterday under the charge of stealing a watch.

The lynching of the two negroes, Davis and Smith, near Clayton some time ago has turned out to be a hoax, notwithstanding there were eye witnesses to the tragedy other than those engaged in it. The fact has been ascertained that they are both alive. Did they rise from the dead?

The trial of an assault and battery case by Justice Brinson attracted some attention yesterday on account of the able counsel employed on both sides, who made, we should judge, about twenty-five dollar speeches. Three young men named Price, living on the north side of the river, were up for an assault on a young man by the name of Thomas. Hon. C. C. Clark appeared for the defendants and F. M. Simmons, Esq., for the prosecution. The court adjudged the defendants guilty and imposed a small fine, when they appealed to the Superior court.

The Schooner Melvin Aground.
The Melvin, after discharging her West India cargo at Beaufort, sailed for this port by way of Core Sound. On Monday information was received that she was aground at the Straits. The cutter left for Portsmouth yesterday, and will assist her if possible to get to her.

Graded School Work.
Four hundred and seventy-five pupils are now enrolled in the Graded School of New Berne. Prof. Thomas informs us that there is more regularity in the attendance now than at any former time since the school opened. The pupils are making steady progress and becoming thorough in their studies. We can safely commend this school to parents living in the surrounding country. Tuition is low, discipline good and the teaching first-class. A child can obtain a good business education here with as little cost as anywhere in North Carolina.

Mayor's Court.
Joe Rayner, colored, was arraigned before the court yesterday for throwing a brick and striking a brakeman on the train as it was passing through the city Tuesday morning, and for resisting the officer who went to arrest him. He was bound to the Superior Court.

Ben Spicer, col., was up for jumping on the train and taking a ride through the city, contrary to the city ordinance. He was fined $3.00 and cost, and in default of payment, was sent to jail for thirty days.

A dryman who had neglected to pay his license tax was called up and required to comply with the law and the proceedings closed.

Lighthouses, Beacons and Buoys.
The steamer Violet, buoy tender, Capt. R. McInnis, is in port and brought Lieut. John Hubbard, U. S. N., Assistant Inspector of Lighthouses of the Fifth District, who is on a tour of inspection of Lighthouses and paying the keepers for the last quarter. He went down to Cape Lookout yesterday to visit the lighthouse there and will return to-day. The Violet goes from here to Hatteras to replace three buoys that are gone, and for the purpose of inspecting the other lighthouses at the Cape. She will then go to Washington for buoys and instruments for Beaufort Inlet and Core sound.

The Fifth District extends North to Baltimore and South to Beaufort. Capt. McInnis informs us that he will finish up all the work in the North Carolina sounds before he leaves this end of the District. Two beacons were replaced in the Neuse river below the city yesterday, the one at Hanging Point, No. 12, and one at Lower Green Springs, No. 14, with new ones.

The Captain is a clever gentleman and very kindly gave us information in regard to the service in the North Carolina waters.

Lieut. Hubbard, whom we have not seen since the year 1878, was accompanied by Mr. J. W. Smallwood, Sec'y.

Hall Robbery.
The United States Commissioner, ex-Judge Wm. J. Clarke, was occupied during the last week, and partly this week, in trying the cases of the United States against John W. Sanders and G. W. Conaway, of Carteret county, charged with purloining money from a letter addressed to Thurber & Co. of the city of New York, in December, 1883. The examination resulted in the release of Sanders, and binding Conaway over to the next U. S. District Court, to be held in this city the latter part of April next. Mr. Conaway is an old gentleman, and has heretofore sustained an irreproachable character, and his case has called forth great sympathy; though no censure is attributed to the government officials.

Willoughby Reads.
The well known humorist, Willoughby Reade, will be in New Berne on Friday night and will entertain an audience at the theater with an entirely new programme. Those who have heard him will testify that as a reader he has no superior in the country. Those who have never heard him should not miss this opportunity. His pieces are always the best and purest English, containing nothing gross or offensive in the least.

The entertainment will be given under the direction of the Trustees of the New Berne Academy for the benefit of the public library at the Graded School. This library is growing in usefulness as in size almost every day. Very many of our citizens are taking advantage of the opportunity there presented to get and read, free of charge, a great many of the best books in the language. Let our citizens help in this worthy undertaking by going to the theater Friday night. They will enjoy two hours of hearty laughter, hear the best elocutionist in the country, feel doubly paid for their time and money, and feel that they have helped in a good cause.

North Carolina Waterways.
Major W. A. Hearne makes a strong appeal, through the Goldsboro Messenger, to the North Carolina delegation in Congress in behalf of our waterways. Speaking of the New Berne and Beaufort Canal route he says:

"But the crying need of the hour is the opening of the approaches to the New Berne and Beaufort Canal, a work already feebly and ineffectually begun. Common justice and ordinary fair treatment demand that proper attention and appropriate aid be given to this work at once. The New Berne and Beaufort Canal is an old State work of more than fifty years ago. The effort to deepen and enlarge it to a ship channel, placing New Berne within forty miles of the sea, against eighty at Hatteras inlet, and avoiding the greatest dangers of Hatteras, is the work of the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal Company and associated private capital. Work on the canal proper has been under way for over three years, and some $50,000 have been expended in prosecuting it. The canal is now ready to admit vessels of five feet at low water, seven feet draught at high tide. But it is useless, practically worthless. The New Berne and Neuse River approach to the canal is through an estuary, improperly designated by our forefathers a creek—Clubfoot Creek. The Beaufort and Newport River approach to the canal is also an estuary, called Harlowe Creek. From these the old work took its name—Clubfoot and Harlowe Creek Canal. But they are not creeks in the ordinary sense of the term; only mere estuaries of Neuse and Newport rivers. Aversion to making appropriations for mere creeks has led to Congressional neglect and contempt of this great public work. It now remains for our Representatives in Congress to present this matter to the Congress in its true light and importance. A large section of country and the greater proportion of the shipping of Pamlico Sound are vitally interested in the opening of this short water route from lower Neuse River to the sea. Clubfoot and Harlowe estuaries require the application of a Government appropriation to bring them up to the present capacity of the canal work, and only $10,000 (not yet applied) has been allowed. The Canal Company has done its part faithfully and well, and it is driving away to make a ship channel of eight or ten feet draught and seventy feet wide. If the general Government shall fail on its part to open the Neuse and Newport River approaches to the New Berne and Beaufort Canal, a great wrong will have been inflicted upon a private company of energetic capitalists, and an outrage upon the people of this large and important section of country in withholding from them the aid necessary to their commercial well-being and industrial existence."

Notice to the Fire Department for the Month of January, 1885.
At the first alarm of the fire bell, which will be sounded in the usual way, the New Berne Company will at once repair to the fire. When the second alarm shall be given, which will be known by the fire bell striking twice, at short intervals, the Atlantic Company will move promptly to the scene of action. They will get ready to move, however, at the first alarm.
The Mechanics Hook and Ladder Company will move promptly to the fire at the first alarm.

THE JEWELS X TENDING.
The Panel was advised that the question had been asked through the public prints if it would allow women to become members and be enrolled among the Jewels, and it was thought best to meet the impending crisis at once. Woman has ever been aspiring, and gradually working herself up to social equality—so to speak—with men. Only a few years ago they wanted to be doctors and doctors they are. Then they wished to be lawyers and they are lawyers. The other day there was one who wanted to be President, and now they want to step still higher and become members of the Panel and sparkle among the Jewels.

"What are you going to do about it?" was the question running highest in the minds of all.
A vote is the American panacea for all political troubles, and naturally suggested itself in this.

At the present sitting there were four bachelors—not of arts, but of schemes—three widowers, three benedictines and two independents. The outlook was very favorable to a defeat of the measure. The old bachelors were supposed to be solid against it, which united with the benedictinal strength assured defeat. The widowers were solid for admitting, which with the independents would still pull them through with a respectable minority.

Whispering, winking, shaking of heads, and like demonstrations showed plainly that a mental cyclone was about to strike, when up rose a usually quiet member, and asked the Panel in a solemn and deliberate tone: "Members! will you have woman to be a member of your Panel; to live together as Jewels; to love, cherish and honor her in sickness and in health, not forsaking all others." "I WILL!" sounded on all the keys of the gamut, from highest treble to deepest bass.

The bachelors said it sounded so much like matrimony that they thought they were about to take unto themselves a better half, and had always practiced to say I will on such occasion if it ever presented itself.

The Panel wish to say, however, that the vagrant rules are very rigid, and that matrimonial traps had better stand off, whether male or female.

Meeting at Bell's Ferry.
Pursuant to call, there was a meeting held at Bell's Ferry on January 10th, 1885.
On motion, C. M. A. Griffin was made chairman and E. J. Brooks requested to act as secretary.

The secretary was requested to state the object of the meeting.

J. D. Murphy, A. F. Pittman and Moses Spivey were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the object of the meeting.

During the absence of the committee, E. J. Brooks and A. G. Coward were each called for and each responded in short speeches.

The committee submitted the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, We have viewed with pleasure the impetus given to the business throughout the eastern section of North Carolina by the work heretofore done for improvement of the navigation of Neuse, Trent and Moccasin rivers, and noted with pride the growth of towns and villages along said streams, and

Whereas, We recognize the urgent necessity of having cheap and convenient transportation facilities for the vast quantities of cotton, corn and rice produced on the fertile lands along Moccasin river, and

Whereas, We are aware that the work already done on Moccasin river is insufficient to render it navigable at all times. Therefore, resolve,

1. That we earnestly request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use their influence to secure an additional appropriation of forty-five thousand dollars for the further improvement of Moccasin river.

2. That we request the press of the State to aid us in forwarding this important enterprise.

3. That the thanks of our citizens are due to our Senators and Representatives in Congress for the zeal they have displayed in promoting the wants of internal improvements in our State.

Stonewall Items.
Johnny, aged about 12 years, son of the late John Deems, died Monday morning a few minutes after six o'clock a. m. Only a fortnight since his sister Lucy died; both of hemorrhagic fever. Sad affliction on Mrs. Deems, who has been three children and her husband buried in less than nine months. Truly the sympathies of the whole community are with her.

The hemorrhagic fever is almost an epidemic with us; Mrs. Rufus Baxter is very low with it; three of R. H. Lewis' children are down with it; all in our little village.

Mrs. Kate Baxter, wife of Rufus Baxter, died Monday night about 8 o'clock. She leaves an infant child 8 months old, a husband and a large number of friends to mourn her loss.

Mr. S. H. Fowler, of Bayboro, died at 2 o'clock Monday night after being confined for sometime with paralysis. He leaves two little daughters and many relatives and friends, with whom all who knew Steve sympathize.

Jas. H. Miller, Clerk of our Superior Court, is very low with bowel consumption. Very little hope of his recovery.

Mr. S. H. Fowler, I learn, made an assignment to Jas. O. Baxter. Mr. C. H. Fowler is one of his preferred creditors.

Obituary.
Died, at his home, Cedar Point, Carteret county, N. C., Friday morning at 3 o'clock, Dec. 26th, 1884, of hemorrhagic malarial fever, Robt. H. Jones, in his 45th year. He had a congestive chill on the morning of the 17th inst., which so paralyzed his liver and kidneys that they never again recovered their normal action. The fever that followed the chill soon subsided, and the cheerfulness which succeeded gave strong hope of Mr. Jones' speedy recovery. His cheerfulness continued up to a day or two before his death, so that he entered freely into conversation on the various topics of conversation introduced by his visiting friends. But the disorganization of his liver and kidneys was complete and the day before he died he grew rapidly worse, and at 3 o'clock Friday morning, the 26th, his spirit's frail tenement surrendered the life to Him who gave it. He leaves a wife, four children, and numerous family connections and friends to mourn his departure.

It is painful to have to record the death of such an excellent man as R. H. Jones, but pleasant that he had so many excellent virtues to mention. It was true in its fullest sense that none knew him but to love him. With the highest and purest consciousness of what was due to others, and a just sense of the proper relationship of man to man, Mr. Jones was an upright man in all his dealings; without a reproach in all his relations with his fellow-man—a just and honest man—God's noblest work. A true and steadfast friend, he was a devoted father and a faithful and affectionate husband. He was a close observer of men and character, which, with his wide reading and general information, made him a wise and safe counsellor for his associates. Modest and reserved in pressing his opinions on others, yet when duty demanded it, no man maintained his convictions with more firmness and complacent courage. Practical, he spoke in plain and unmistakable language—his candor winning for him the esteem and confidence of all with whom he came in contact. He built no air castles to end in smoke, nor dealt in doubtful language to his fellow-man. None were slower to resent an injury; none more readily forgive encroachments on his rights. In every department of life—whether as a Confederate officer, battling for Southern rights—or as a legislator of the 9th Senatorial district of North Carolina, or as a private citizen, R. H. Jones maintained the same high standard of character, and won the spontaneous praise and love of all who knew him.

To his afflicted family we offer our sincere condolence, and hope their bleeding hearts may be staunch with the Divine assurance that "all things work together for good to them that love the Lord." A husband and father, and five little angels have already passed over to the other shore—there watching and waiting for those left behind. How it loosens earthly ties, and makes us contemplate with delight the time when all shall again be reunited on the blissful shores of the eternal world.

A good man has died. Peace be to his ashes and green be his memory in the hearts of his surviving friends.

Sweet Gum and Mullein.
The sweet gum, as gathered from a tree of the same name, growing along the small streams in the Southern States, contains a stimulating expectorant principle that loosens the phlegm producing the early morning cough, and stimulates the child to throw off the false membrane in croup and whooping cough. When combined with the healing mucilaginous principle in the mullein plant of the old fields, presents in TAYLOR'S CHEROKEE REMEDY OF SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN, the finest known remedy for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough and Consumption; and so palatable, any child is pleased to take it. Ask your druggist for it. Send two-cent stamp for Taylor's Riddle Book, which is not only for the amusement of the little ones who will gather around your knee to hear the puzzling questions, but containing information for the health and welfare of every home.

The Latest News.
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 13.—A special from Collinsville, Alabama, gives details of a terrible cyclone in Alabama Sunday night. The residence of Noble Galbreath, about four miles west of Collinsville, together with all his farm-houses, located at the base of Sand mountain, were completely demolished. His youngest child was instantly killed by flying timbers, its body being terribly mangled. A young man living with the family was seriously and probably fatally wounded.
No other member of the family received any injury. Three miles further off two other residences were completely blown away. One of them contained 13 occupants, all of whom were more or less injured. But no one has yet been reported as fatally hurt. Great damage is reported to have been done to farm property generally. Owing to the high water it is impossible to obtain accurate information as to the extent of the cyclone and the damage by it, but enough has been ascertained to make it certain that it was by no means such a terrible scourge as the cyclone which passed through Cherokee and Calhoun counties, last spring. During all of yesterday and the greater part of last night a tremendous heavy rain fell, flooding all the lowlands and making it almost impossible to travel or gain further information.
The cloud which accompanied the wind was seen from this place and it looked terrible indeed. There was a continuous roaring sound like distant thunder for about thirty minutes before the storm passed. One family, becoming frightened by the approach of the storm, fled to the house of a neighbor a short distance away, and the house to which they fled was blown away while their own house remained standing. The track of the cyclone was about two hundred yards wide.
