Better than a Dagger.

They sat on opposite sides of the street car, and he settled himself quack for a long stare at her. He began at the feather in her hat, and had got as far down as her throat when she could stand it no longer.

She didn't ring the bell and leave the car in a huff; neither did she change her seat to avoid his impudent gaze. She had already paid her fare, but she felt for her purse, took from it a silver dollar, and extending it to the fellow she sweetly asked:

"Will you please pay my fare?"
"Aw—oh—certainly—with pleasure," he replied, and he shoved the dollar to the driver.

Driver shook his head.
"Change!" said the man.
"No good—that's a counter-feit!"

The man turned red and green and blue and crushed strawberry. He inspected the dollar and saw that the driver was right. After a painful moment he slipped it into his vest pocket, fished out a dollar bill, and when the change had been given him he handed the lady ninety-five cents and retreated to the back platform to swear.

"I will send it to some charity," whispered the lady to her left-hand neighbor. "The object was to get rid of his impudent presence. It is an experiment that never fails."

MEDICINAL ITEM.—Dr. Duffner, of Dallas, is a young physician who has just established himself in that city. He has very little practice, but he likes to brag. One of the older physicians, meeting him on the street the other day, asked him how he was coming on.

"I've got more than I can attend to," was the boastful reply. "I had to get out of my bed five times last night."

"Why don't you buy some insect powder?" asked the old doctor.—Texas Siftings.

TRUTH IS MIGHTY.—"Hubby, did you mail my letter?"
"Yes, my dear. Had to run like fury to catch the mail."

"Why, here it is in your pocket now?"
"Hey! Um—a—yes, so it is—no, this isn't your letter; this is—that is, this isn't the one you wrote; this is the one you were going to write and forgot—"

"John Henry!"
"No, 'Mary, I did not mail your letter."
"Well, I'm awfully glad. I want to add a postscript."

JUST A LITTLE TOO SMART.—A student at the University of Texas being short of funds wrote to his father in Galveston: "Send me a hundred dollars by return mail. He who gives quickly gives double."

The old gentleman replied by the next mail enclosing $50, with the remark that as he had responded promptly, the fifty dollars enclosed were equivalent to the desired $100.

WHERE A FIFTEEN FRANC ROAST LOOKS BEST.—Dumas, the elder, had an enthusiastic but expensive cook, whose beef and bills were the delight and despair of his life.

"That was an extraordinarily fine roast of beef we had last night at dinner," he said one day. "What did it cost?"
"Fifteen francs."

"Very good; it was excellent; but don't have any more. A fifteen-franc roast of beef is only seen at its best on somebody else's table."

MORTGAGE SALE.

Under a power conferred upon me by virtue of a certain mortgage executed to me by Wm. Colligan, Sr., bearing date the 5th day of August, 1884, and recorded in the records of Craven county, Book No. 29, folios 438 and 439.

I will sell at Public Auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, at the court house door in the city of New Bern, on Wednesday, the 25th day of February, 1885, at 12 o'clock, M., the following property as described and conveyed in said mortgage deed—

All those certain lots or tracts of land situate in the said city of New Bern, on the corner of West street and Scott's Alley, known and distinguished in the plan of the said city of New Bern, as lots Nos. 85 and 86 on said West street.

This 25th day of January, 1885.
PAUL JONES,
Mortgagee.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

In obedience to an execution in my hands in favor of Willise Cuthbert against Emmet Cuthbert, I will sell at the court house door, in the city of New Berne, on the first Monday in March (being the 2d day of said month), A. D. 1885, at 12 o'clock, midday, all the right, title and estate of the said Emmet Cuthbert in and to the following lands situated in said Craven county, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Part of lot No. 326, corner of Hancock and Johnson streets; one acre more or less adjoining the land of Penny Bell and others on Jack Smith's road.

Terms of sale, cash.
This 27th day of January, 1885.
M. HAHN, Sheriff
Craven County.

ST. NICHOLAS
FOR YOUNG FOLKS.

ATTRactions FOR 1884-5.

No printed periodical can take the place of parent, pastor, or school-teacher; but a good magazine can supplement their work and influence to a wonderful degree. In view of this, it is not extravagant to say that—instead of "Can we afford to take St. Nicholas?"—the question of every earnest household in English-speaking countries, to-day, should be "Can we afford NOT to take St. Nicholas?"

The magazine, during its eleven happy years of existence, under the editorial charge of MARY MAPES DODGE, has grown familiar to hundreds of thousands of young readers; and their interest and intelligent enjoyment have constantly inspired the editor and publishers to fresh effort. To-day, its strength in its wholesome growth, its sympathy with young life, its hearty recognition of the movement of events, and its steadily increasing literary and pictorial resources. The following are some of the good things already secured for future numbers of St. Nicholas:

"His Own Fault," a serial story for boys, by the popular author, J. T. Trowbridge.

"Personally Conducted," illustrated papers on famous places in Europe. By Frank R. Stockton.

"Historic Girls," a companion series to "Historic Boys," by E. S. Brooks.

"Ready for Business," suggestions to boys about to choose an occupation,—based on personal interviews with prominent representatives of various trades and professions. By G. J. Mannox.

"Driven Back to Eden," a serial. By E. P. Roe.

"Talks for Young Folks," a series of popular papers, by E. M. (Eben Jackson).

"Among the Law-makers," reflections of a boy-page in the U. S. Senate,—containing much political information, both instructive and amusing. By Edmund Allen.

"Davy and the Goblin," a very funny serial story by a new writer, Chas. Carryl.

Short Stories by Louisa M. A. Hunt.

"The Progress of Invention," descriptive papers, by Chas. E. Bolton.

"Art Work for Young Folks," papers on decorative handicraft, by Chas. G. Leland.

"Sheep or Silver," a story of Texas life. By the late Rev. William M. Baker.
