Complaint.

Several days ago we published an item concerning two cases that were tried before U. S. Commissioner W. J. John W. Saunders and G. W. Conoway, of Carteret county, were charged with "purloining money from a letter addressed to Thurber & Co. of the city of New York," and that the examination resulted in the release of Saunders and the binding Real estate mortgages and deeds and of Conoway over to the next term of chattel mortgages for sale at this office. the District Court. We did not hear the case, were not acquainted with the facts, hence we gave, simply as a matter of news, the case as it was given to us by the commissioner who tried it.

> Dr. Saunders writes us a letter that our notice was unfair to him because it eaves an impression that there was some cause for his arrest.

Plaintiff solemnly action on the part of the officers of the avows it to be his property, and he and law, but we sought to make no impression one way or the other, but simply gave the facts as we got them from the commissioner.

Since receiving the Doctor's complaint we have talked with the commissioner and Mr. L. J. Moore, who was his counsel, and they both tell us there was not a particle of evidence against Dr. Saunders. But didn't the item we are imperatively demanded for the republished, if not in the same words, lief of the people. We know our represtate as much? When we said the ex- sentatives are generally very anxious amination of the case resulted in the release of Saunders, surely this meant homage thereto, and that a stream of nothing more nor less than that there filthy lucre should be poured into the W. How to Spell It.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 31, 1885. EDITOR JOURNAL:-A friend asks me to write to you with reference to the dition. controversy as to the spelling of Newbern. The town was chartered and incorporated as "Newbern," which of course settles its legal name, and my impression is that the e was added during the war by new-comers to the city. Writing it as one or two words is a matdeath of the defendant and asked that ter of fancy or taste, but if we wish to his executor be made a party. Thompson ("H. H. T.") will be in charge of the business department of The American Angler, having realigned his position as Assistant Treasurer of the N. Y., L. E. & W. R. R. Co. for this purpose, an action contemplated by him for some time past. Mr. Thompsom has purchased an equal interest in that journal, and comes to his work with a love for it that insures an earnest co-operation with its editor in the field of angling literature, which seems to broaden as the days grow.

Trie, etc. In our own generation, when German nationality has asserted itself with so much vigor, the Germans have themselves re-Germanized, as it were, many proper names which had lost their national forms, and English scholars are adopting the German orthography for names of men and places. The historian Freeman, for example, writes Karl der Grosse; (or anglicizes it to Charles the Great) instead of Charlemage; Mainz, instead of Mayence, etc.

Undoubtedly usage justifies writing the old Bern with an e, but not the new one; and strictly speaking, it were as correct to adopt the German spelling "Geneve, as the French Swiss town Geneve, as the French Swiss town Geneve, as the French Swiss town Bern.

From Greenville to Seven Springs-Bad Roads-Moonshining, Etc.

SEVEN SPRINGS, N. C., Feb. 2. DEAR JOURNAL:—Your correspondent recently journeyed across the sountry from Greenville to this place. The farmers along the route are busy, and we saw many men and some women engaged in turning over the soil, preparing the ground for seed. They seem Clarke. We simply stated the fact that thing we thought did not denote thrift, and that is they had the worst roads in the State. We understand that an epidemic of this kind now rages over the two counties of Greene and Pitt, and one man has the names of thirteen overseers which he intends to present before the grand jury.

When we arrived at this rustic burg we found about the same amount of law, gospel and spring water being dispensed as usual. As to the first-as like the last-there is always an excess, and what our street loafers don't know about law you may be sure is not worth much. Court is on hand, and a few cvil-doers are busy defining the law, overhauling witnesses, and trying to importune every one who will take a dirty job to assist in perverting the ends of justice and pull them through safely. One man a few days since goes with an officer to claim a mortgaged hog. Near the place they met an old sow belonging to Capt. Bird, who never the officer lay chase till out of breath with no success. They give up the chase and go on and claim the next specimen, which happens to be enclosed in a pen. What the people here need is a new county, and faith they have set their faces that way, too. The people are obliged to travel twenty miles and over to court, which is quite a burden to many. As the masses become more and more dense every year such steps as to their own respective county towns, and consider that every one should pay coffers of the county town from all parts of the county. We hope no such selfish feelings may characterize our eral rejoicing that we are to have a Democratic administration they may deal generous, just and kind.

A revenue raid was made near here a bravery and true chivalry eclipses anything in the annals of historical warfare. The battle of Shiloh, Malvern Hill or Gettysburg are but dim circumgive the people of Greene a good paper.

Steamer Florence Sold.

The sale of the steamer Florence came off yesterday, as advertised, at the foot of Craven street, Watson & Street auction of the circumstances which is stances. As is usual in such cases, so we understand, a kindly warning was sent ahead to warn the proprietors of some moonshine stills of the approaching raid. When the revenue cutters appeared they with a flourish rode around for some time and swarmed about like bees trying to find a place to pitch in swarming time. One man was seen fleeing across the woods with his whiskey-still on his head and the worm around his body, which one of the cut-ters saw and declared to be the devil, as he had never seen anything like it before. A colored man with his numerous wife and children were encountered. all with jugs, leaving the revenue in-fested community. Each one declared he or she had been to the store for vinegar, and was allowed to depart. We doubt not the kindly warning sent out saved many valuable lives and the destruction of much valuable property. How humane it is to send warning! As it was, only one man suffered. The ad-monition had not struck him very deeply, so he loitered and waited. They very kindly took his still out of the smoke-house and broke it in pieces, very graciously appropriated all his bacon therein, and very gallantly poured his corn meal in the well and made gruel enough to last a month.

Mr. Editor, why can we not always have our revenue men of so obliging and generous a disposition that they will send word ahead when there is danger and prevent the disastrous MOONSHINER. things.
