We have received a printed copy of Senate bill No. 159, entitled "an act to provide for the adjustment and satisfaction of a portion of the State debt and for other purposes." Our school is increasing.

Mr. Wm. McCosley died a few days ago with cancer. He lived just across the river, in Carteret county. At R. H. Jones' vendue corn sold from 2.60 to 2.75; cattle sold high also. I saw one single cow bring $20,50, cash sale; hogs sold cheaper. The schooner Packet, Capt. Bloodgood, arrived from Wilmington, N. C., last week and cleared again Saturday for New Berne with turpentine for A R. Dennison. A few hog killings this week, which we reckon is the last this season, except Mr. A. F. Farnell, sr. He has about 20 fine ones to kill yet. I saw some of his 12-months-old hogs that weighed 230 pounds.

Mr. John Dudley killed himself last week while out hunting. He was found a cherry answer of "all right" rang by his wife dead, with gun in one nand by his wife dead, with gun in one hand posed he was walking, gun in hand, and the hammer caught in the bushes, causing the accident. He was shot through the bowels, and death must have been instantaneous.

The schooner Gold Leaf seems to have all bad luck: Capt. Mattocks failed to get to sea last week with his load, so concluded to give her up as a bad job as Captain. Now the Gold Leaf has changed captains again. Capt. Edward Hill now commands her and he went to sea Friday, bound for New Berne with naval stores for A. R. Dennison, and cotton for David J. Sanders and others. March, Mr. Wm. Bell, near here, accidently shot himself Friday with a pistol while trying to shoot a cat. The ball lodged in his left hand, causing a painful but not dangerous wound, Dr. Blount probed for the ball, but did not succeed in finding it. Result of carelessness on the part of Bell. Now we don't like cats much, but when we want to kill, we get something else to kill them with. Loughlin has a new way of killing chickens when he wants to eat one. This is the way: He catches his chicken, ties him on the fodder or peastack pen and presently a hawk comes along, strikes the chicken and kills it, but is so ashamed to find the chicken tied fast, that Mr. hawk flies away in disgust, and Loughlin goes quietly and individual who had nothing to do with it, says that from what he love to kill chickens themselves, but could see, that crowd had sworn to don't talk when eating time comes.

"Literary pursuits," replied the ex-cashier's wife to her Canadian neighbor up near Montreal.

"He was a famous writer was he?" went on the Canadian encouragingly.

"Oh, yes," said the wife; "he made all his money by writing." But a caller or something else prevented her telling her friend that her husband's writings had consisted of forging his employer's checks .- Yonkers Statesman.

There is a feature of the B. & O. Red Book wholly different from any of the other political text books issued, and that is the comparison of results one year with those of previous years. In some text books there are columns of returns of different years side by side, but in none of them but the Red Book are the calculations of losses and gains and other comparisons carried out so that the story of the contest is learned at a glance. This, as all who study returns know, is a most valuable feature, and it has never been more successfully maintained than in the special edition of the Red Book just out. The fields of the recent contest are covered in a strikingly complete form, and if the publication is an advertisement of the B. & O. road it is such hardly more than in name, and the intrinsic merit of the book is of a value largely in excess of the little trouble of forwarding address, with stamp, to C. K. Lord, Baltimorefor a copy. Not only should the political student have it, but those contemplating a trip to Washington in March will find the inauguration data given to be invaluable.

The New Bank.

We desire to call special attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Green, Foy & Co., Bankers, which appears in this issue. This firm is composed of our most substantial business men; they are young, energetic and are well qualified for the transaction of the business in which they have engaged. Their affice on South Front'street, near Craven, is nicely fitted up and conveniently ar-ranged for our merchants and others doing business with them; in easy dis-tance of the Cotton Exchange and steam-boat wharves. Our friends will find them clover gentlemen to deal with.

On Monday morning about 1 o'clock, Wm. Colligan, jr., who has a store near the railroad depot, and dwelling ad-joining, was aroused by his wife who ght she heard some one in the store. Henring the noise Mr. Colligan raised whidow, when he saw some one run in the store.
