SOLDIER'S HOME.

A substitute has been offered in the Senate branch of the General Assembly of North Carolina for the bill pensioning disabled Confederate soldiers that has passed the House. This substitute proposes to establish a home for disabled and indigent soldiers to be known as the "Confederate Soldiers' Home of North Carolina."

This is not the relief the disabled soldiers want and need. There are very few who could accept aid under this substitute without submitting to the hardships of breaking family ties and associations which few would do. Better pay them the money if it is but five dollars per annum. A large number of these disabled soldiers have families. They cannot leave their families to go to a Soldier's Home no matter how comfortable and well kept it may be. A small pension, if it be but a few dollars, will greatly relieve them in the cares and burdens of supporting their families. The establishment of a Soldier's Home would be a mistake. The most worthy of the needy ones whom it is intended to benefit could not accept relief in this manner. If the State is not able to pay them a small amount of money annually, let the thing drop.

THE SPECIAL TAX BONDS.

The Raleigh correspondent of the New York Times holds out the idea that there is a growing sentiment among influential Democrats to secure an adjustment of the special tax bonds that have been justly repudiated by the State. It is suggested, says this correspondent, that 20 per cent of the $16,000,000 of special tax bonds would be a fair and just compromise; thus adding to the new debt now funded into 4 per cent bonds, $3,200,000. We would like to know the names of these "influential Democrats" who favor such a proposition. If they are members of the Legislature, we think it only necessary that their names should be known, and the places that know them now will know them no more forever. Our sentiments on this question can be found in an editorial from the Raleigh Register, which we copy on the first page of this paper.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SENATE.

February 24, 1885.

The Senate met at 10:20 Lieutenant-Governor Stedman in the chair.

The following bills passed third reading: To give a stock law for Vance, Grauballe, Lincoln and Person counties; for the support of the institution for the deaf, dumb and blind; to make it unlawful for physicians to disclose information lawfully given them by their patients; to authorize the commissioners of Jackson county to pay certain school claims.

The bill for the relief of disabled soldiers was taken up and the Senate went into committee of the whole. Mr. Troy in the chair.

There was quite an extended debate on the bill, in which Messrs. Bower, Todd, Guder, Bond, Poole, Thompson, Thomas and Moore took part.

Pending the discussion the committee rose, and the Senate went into executive session and confirmed the following appointments: Criminal court of New Hanover and Mecklenburg—O. P. Meares, judge; B. R. Moore, solicitor; John W. Dunham, clerk; at Wilmington; George E. Wilson, solicitor; T. R. Robertson, clerk, at Charlotte.

NIGHT SESSION.

The following bills were introduced and passed third reading: To declare valid the registration of certain deeds and mortgages in Duplin and Lenoir counties; supplemental to and amendatory of an act authorizing inferior court clerks to probate deeds (bringing in Pitt county); (resolution) that the State treasurer be instructed to refund the excess of charter tax to persons and corporations.

The Senate adopted a resolution that from and after this date no Senator shall speak more than ten minutes, or more than twice the same day.

The following bills passed third reading: To appoint an inspector for the city of New Berne; to amend sections 218 and 2156 of the Code; to make appropriations for the insane asylums and to complete the Western insane asylum; directing the State librarian to arrange the records of the General Assembly; to exempt train dispatchers from jury duty; to incorporate the Pamlico Improvement Co.

HOUSE.

At 10 a. m. Speaker Holt called the House to order.

The following bills passed their third reading: For the relief of the landowners of Cleveland and Gaston counties.

The school bill was taken up and the House went into committee of the whole on its consideration.

An amendment was proposed to allow county school boards to fix the compensation of county superintendents, in their discretion, at not more than $3 or less than $2 per day. This was adopted.

An amendment to limit the compensation of county superintendents to three per cent of the school fund was adopted. This vote was, however, reconsidered, 42 yeas to 40 nays, and the committee rose.

The House adjourned till 8 p. m.

NIGHT SESSION.

At 8 p. m. Speaker Holt called the House to order.

The special order, the bill increasing the number of directors of the penitentiary from five to nine, came up on its third reading and passed.

The following bills passed third reading: To exempt Carteret and Onslow counties from provisions of section 1116 of the Code, so far as same are concerned; to incorporate the town of Leaksville; to give Chatham county an extra week of court, in March; correcting the Code; to give Buncombe county the stock law; to incorporate the Davis school, La Grange, Lenoir county; in relation to the penitentiary's lease of the Powell farm, giving the directors authority to carry out such lease, and to ratify it; (the lease is for ten years with the option of purchase at $12.50 per acre.)

The following bills passed second reading: To authorize Wilmington to subscribe not to exceed $250,000 to capital stock of C. F. & Y. V. R. R. (committee substitute adopted); to give Marshall township, Madison county, the stock law.

WASHINGTON NEWS AND NOTES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23, 1885.

The dedication of the Washington monument on Saturday last was a memorable affair. It was a National event, and I may say the whole nation united in expression of joy and gratitude over the completion of the memorial for the ceremonies brought to the Capitol military and civic organizations from every part of the country. It is a consummation which, ten years ago seemed not likely to occur during the present century. To-day it is a perfected structure, piercing the sky, the highest monument ever raised by human hands, and it will be a wonder and delight forever, to all who gaze upon it.

The dedicatory programme was admirably carried out, both at the monument and at the Capitol. The procession presented a splendid appearance on the smooth, cleanly swept floor of Pennsylvania Avenue, and a finer military display has seldom been seen, even in this city of memorable pageants. At the head of the line, mounted on a fine black horse, and enveloped in a large black cloak, rode the General of the Army, "Little Phil. Sheridan," followed by four Aids. General Ayers marshalled another division of the procession, and General Fitz—Hugh Lee, on a large bay stallion brought up another. President Arthur followed about midway in the procession. He was in an open carriage, the only one in the line drawn by four horses. He was cheered and jeered along the route. One unaccounted individual shouted, "Hello Chet, old boy, I am sorry I can't go fishing with you next summer." The sun shone upon the celebration, but the winter wind was piercing. The crowds on the streets hugged the lee-side of the buildings in their efforts to keep comfortable, and seemed far more desirous of witnessing the military display than the ceremonies. The programme at the base of the monument comprised a prayer, remarks embodying a history of the monument by W. W. Corcoran, the first Vice-President of the monument society, Masonic ceremonies, remarks by Col. Casey, the engineer of the Commission delivering the monument to the President of the United States, and the dedication of the monument to the name and memory of George Washington by the President. Senator Sherman presided and prefaced his introductions by saying no one was expected to take off his hat, not even the speakers. The wind came to the monument from every point of the compass; from Virginia, across the frozen Potomac on one side, and across icy Babcock lake on the other, and the crowd seated on the grand stand kept their feet moving to get warm. At the close of President Arthur's speech, the assemblage broke into cheers, and at a signal from the Chairman, Senator Sherman, the military wheeled into line, the civic bodies and distinguished participants in the proceedings of the day sought their carriages, and the pageant proceeded to the Capitol. There it was reviewed by the President from the east front and dismissed. The procession was an hour in passing a point, there being about five thousand persons in line. The programme at the Capitol was as follows: Prayer by the pastor of Porick church, near Mount Vernon; oration by Hon. Robert Winthrop, of Massachusetts, read by Representative Long, also from Massachusetts; oration by Hon. John W. Daniel, of Virginia, and benediction by the chaplain of the House of Representatives. Among the favored two thousand who were invited by ticket to these proceedings, were the surviving kindred of Washington, thirteen of whom bear his name. They came in a body together, and naturally attracted curious observation.

NOT DEAD YET.

Atlanta papers are giving the public some curious and wonderful cases that are quite interesting. It seems that a young lady of Atlanta has been reported as dead, but it came to the ears of the Atlanta Journal that she was still alive, and being on the alert for news, a reporter was sent to the residence to learn all the facts. Miss Belle Dunaway, who had been pronounced dead, met him at the door, stoutly denying that she was dead. She said:

"For four years, rheumatism and neuralgia have resisted physicians and all other treatment. My muscles seemed to dry up, my flesh shrank away, my joints were swollen, painful and found in weight and for months was expected to die. I commenced the use of B. B. B. and the action of one half a bottle convinced my friends that it would cure me. Its effect was like magic. It gave me an appetite, gave me strength, relieved all pains and aches, added flesh to my bones, and when five bottles had been used I had gained 65 pounds of flesh, and I am to-day sound and well."

IS IT A LIE?

Some one said that Potash was a poison; who makes the assertion except those who desire to mislead and humbug you? He who denounces other remedies as FRAUDS, is quietly offering a vile compound of his own—be wary of all such.

Ask your physician or your druggist if Potash produces all the horrors claimed for it by those who are compelled to trust other preparations in order to appear respectable themselves.

We claim that Potash properly combined with other remedies makes the grandest blood remedy ever known to man, and we claim that B. B. B. is that remedy.

If afflicted with any form of blood poison, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Old Ulcers and Sores, Kidney Complaints, Female Diseases, etc., the B. B. B. will cure you at once. Send to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for a copy of their book FREE.
