The Judicial Districts Again.

For the last time we desire to enter our solemn protest on behalf of the people of Craven county against the action of the proposed legislation in the matter of redistricting the State. The bill prepared by the judicial reform committee is manifestly unjust to this county, and every consideration of fairness requires it should not pass in its present shape. What right has the Legislature to single Craven out from every other county in the State and place her in a district with counties the nearest nearly one hundred miles away, with counties whose people are strangers to us in inand we believe of any other State. That it is a hardship no fair-minded man will deny. We understand the by committee while conceding this under- hand. ground that it is necessary to prevent more than one Republican district. This would in our opinion be a poor excuse if it were true, the election of a solictor being the only thing involved, but there is no ground for the apprehension.

By substituting New Hanover for Craven this result will be avoided. Both counties give about the same Republican majority and their positions may be shifted without changing the political character of either district. And, as is well known, New Hanover has already a criminal court of general jurisdiction in which all the criminal business of the county is transacted, officered entirely by Democrats.

This arrangement will give both counties Democratic solicitors. The argument is unanswerable.

There are other reasons why Craven can ask in all conscience for the substitution, if it has come to this, that one or the other of these counties must suffer this great inconvenience.

In the first place the distance is about the same-with advantages in the mode of travel in their favor. And in the second place, this county has had no manner of recognition from the party since its supremacy in the State.

It has been steadily kept in the Black though every county adjoining it is nipulated manures. The amount of lican majority our neighbor of the Cape

THE INAUGURATION.

We lay before our readers this morning the inaugural address of President Cleveland. It was delivered in the presence of a vast concourse of people. The ceremonies were grand and imposing, and the address well received with the exception of that portion in reference to "Civil Service Reform," which, it is said, fell flat. As it is the first inaugural of a Democratic President since 1857, it will doubtless be read with great interest. The account of the ceremonies says:

At 12:40 p. m. Presinent-elect Cleve land arose and began his inaugural ad dress. He was clad in a full suit of black, Prince Albert coat, standing collar and black tie. In speaking he held his left hand closed behind and emphasized his speech him, gestures with his right He spoke without manuscript, of paper bearing notes of the heads of his discourse. His voice was clear and resonant, and he slowly enunciated his words and occasionally turned about and paused as if to note the effect of his remarks. He spoke as follows:

FELLOW CITIZENS: In the presence of this vast assemblage of my countrymen, I am about to supplement and seal by the oath which I shall take, the manifestation of the will of a great and free people. In the exercise of their power and right of self-government they have committed to one of their fellow citizens a supreme and sacred trust, and he here consecrates himself to their service. This impressive ceremony adds little to the solemn sense of responsibility with which I contemplate the duty I owe to all the people of the land. Nothing can relieve me from anxiety lest by any act of mine their interests may suffer, and nothing is needed to strengthen my resolution to engage every faculty and effort in the promotion of their welfare. Amid the din of party strife the peo-ple's choice was made, but its attendant circumstances have demonstrated anew the strength and safety of a government by the people. In each succeeding year it more clearly appears that our Democratic principle needs no apology, and that in its fearless and faithful application is to be found the surest guarantee of good government.

But the best results in the operation in of a government wherein every citizen has a share largely depend upon a proper limitation of purely partisan zeal and effort, and a correct appreciation of the time when the heat of the partisan should be merged in the patriotism of District, Congressional and Judicial, the citizen. To-day the executive branch of the government is transferred Democratic. #### Bound to Take His Seat.

The question whether or not Cleve land had taken his seat deeply concerned some of our colored citizens on the evening of the 4th. Some of them had news that he had not been seated and that much fighting was going on at Washington City. Moses Bryan warmly contended that the man had taken his seat. Said he, "the man was elected 27th, 1885: and he's compelled to take his seat.' A white man coming up said he didn't think the new President had taken his seat. Moses resumed the argument with increased vigor. "I tell you," said he, "you are wreng, the man has tuck his seat. He is bound to take it, if he wont take it no other way, the law will compel him to take it." He carried his point, and satisfied the crowd that Cleveland had sat down.

A Thing or Two to Remember.

Now "Henrico" wants to lease out the A. & N. C. Railroad in order to have his Northern mail brought every day. We get the Northern mail at New Berne every day when the Wilmington and Weldon train is on time, and very often the A. & N. C. train waits over for the Northern train. Wouldn't it be better if "Henrico" would try to get some one in charge of the W. & W. who would McGrath, Edward Clarke, Leon Daw; come up to schedule time as promptly as the A. & N. C.?

Now we haven't a particle of doubt but the President and Superintendent of the Road had just as soon wait over for the fast mail which arrives at Goldsboro at about 8 p. m., as to run the pres-ent schedule, provided, they thought it Ninth Grade—Annie Barrington, would give as general satisfaction as the present one. But they must look after the convenience of the traveling public as well as the rapid transit of the mails. If a traveler arrives in Goldsboro from the West and has to lay over four or five hours he will likely cuss out the A. & N. C. It must be remembered, too, that the travel on this short line will not justify running more than one enger train a day, and as there are cheap, pipe and all complete. two roads for it to connect with at Goldsbore, one with two trains per day, it is ble to make close connection with all.
