THE JOURNAL.

NEW BERNE, N. C., APRIL 1, 1885.

Anna Eichberg. In the June of 1879 two stories were published simultaneously, "The Story of Lesken" in the Century, or rather in Scribner's, and "The Professor of Dellingen," in Lippincott, and to both of these stories was appended the new name of "Anna Eichberg."

"The Story of Lesken" told of a violin player who in his youth, mad with music, forgot his appointed wedding day, in the excitement of going to hear a great musician play, and the bride meantime married the young musician's father, and then Lesken came to America and wedded music, and played, and lived, and died and was forgotten.

It was one of the notable stories of that season's Scribner's. Everybody asked "who is Anna Eichberg?" and she proved to be a girl barely out of school, the only daughter of the distinguished musician, Julius Eichberg, the director of the Boston Conservatory of Music.

From that time Miss Eichberg's welcome into literature was assured. "Brown's Retreat" was one of the ablest stories ever published in the Atlantic Monthly—the tale of a convict, who kept a strange little shop, over the door of which he had put in a grim jest "Brown's Retreat."

Those who know Miss Eichberg well are aware of certain unpublished poems which prove her gifts to be not alone those demanded for good prose. She wrote the words of the well-known national hymn "O Country Great and Free," to which her father composed the music.

Carry down your broken glass and crockery and have them cemented together by Dr. Scott. Also send and get fresh parched peanuts for 6 cts. per quart at Scott's, on South Front street between Hancock and Middle streets, New Berne, N. C.
