MR. PEARSON'S APPOINTMENT.

How His Nomination is Received.
Henry G. Pearson has been renominated for postmaster of New York. He is an out and out Republican, was assistant postmaster under Mr. James, and when the latter gentleman was appointed Postmaster General by President Garfield, he became postmaster. It is said that his retention in the office was urged by both Democrats and Republicans, especially the Independent Republicans. We copy below from the Washington Post, to show to some extent how the nomination is received throughout the country:

"The surprise which the nomination occasioned was unbounded. It was doubtless expected, for a 're-appoint' of the President's action' was made public soon after the nomination. This stated that the reappointment of Mr. Pearson was made after a most patient examination of all the facts connected with the charges against him and his answer to the same, which was submitted on Monday and read by the President, and that the appointment might therefore be considered a complete vindication of the postmaster. It further stated that the reappointment of Mr. Pearson would constitute a notable exception to the course which the President may be expected to pursue. The New York postoffice is the largest and most important in the country, and of interest to all the people, and especially to the vast business enterprises centered in the metropolis. It is to-day considered a complete illustration of the successful application of civil service reform principles to an immense governmental establishment. 'This condition,' said a person near the President, 'has been brought about very largely by the intelligent effort of Mr. Pearson, and he is thus identified in the closest manner with this example of the successes of the reform. To retain him insures faith and confidence in the movement, which would receive a shock from his removal. His retention was earnestly requested by a large number of business men of the city—both Democrats and Republicans—and very generally by the Independent Republicans, who did such good service in support of the Democratic candidates in the last campaign.' It was further authoritatively stated that this act of the President must not be regarded as indicating that in other cases those opposed to the party of the President will either be appointed or retained after the expiration of their terms of office. In answer to the suggestion that the reappointment of Mr. Pearson might cause great dissatisfaction in the ranks of the party, the President was represented as saying: 'The Democratic party is neither hypocritical, unpatriotic nor ungrateful.'"

In the "mugwump" wing of the Republican party the nomination was most enthusiastically received. The Democrats were divided in their opinions, some approving the President's action and some expressing their regret. Senator Beck is reported as saying that for one he would not vote for Pearson's confirmation. Senator Ransom said that "the country and the party are safe in trusting this appointment to the good sense of the President, whose knowledge of New York State affairs is comprehensive and reliable. The Independent Republican element is entitled to recognition, and Mr. Pearson's appointment is a proper concession to it. I consider that the President's action will subserve the best interests of the country, and enlightened public sentiment will accord him a generous indorsement." Senator Van Wyck thought that there would be no trouble about confirming Mr. Pearson or any other nominee. Congressman-elect Heard, of Missouri, approved the nomination and believed that no objection would be offered to it by fair-thinking, conservative men. Representative Ketchum, of New York, expressed his disfavor of the nomination because Pearson kept his postoffice open on election day, and in this expression ex-Secretary Belknap coincided. Representative Cox, of North Carolina, thought that Mr. Cleveland knew what he was about, especially with two New York men in his Cabinet, and his consideration of the matter was more mature than that of those Democrats who were "raising a howl about this appointment." Senator Colquitt said that the appointment was not subject to criticism unless some fact should be developed to excite political distrust. Representative Oates, of Alabama, said that he could not understand it. As a party measure he deemed it impolitic, and believed it would materially affect the Democratic vote in the next Presidential election. Of Western politicians here Col. John G. Priest, of St. Louis, believed that wise Democrats would acquiesce in the President's action, while Chairman Oberly, of the Illinois State Democratic Committee, expressed his position in the words "I am an administration man." Mr. Roberts, the new minister to Chili, who approved the nomination, added that neither Mr. Thompson nor Mr. Grace had anything to do with it.

ALBANY, March 31.—The reappointment of Mr. Pearson as postmaster of New York created much excitement in political circles here. The Republicans seemed pleased, but the Democrats to a great extent were angry and disappointed, especially New York and Brooklyn members. Several Democrats expressed the belief that the appointment would give the State to the Republicans next fall.

The Largest and the Smallest.

Col. Jno. D. Whitford was presented the largest shad on yesterday by Mr. D. Bell we have ever seen in this market. It was a roe and weighed seven and a half pounds. He also had one of the small fry presented by Major Harvey. It was about six inches in length, and was doubtless less than a year old.

The McSorley Boot.

Our shoe and boot maker, Mr. John McSorley, has made and forwarded a pair of boots to Maj. Coats of New York. The Major likes the McSorley boot because he makes them "to fit the hollow of the foot and yet give room over the instep," which he says the makers in New York City seem unable to do. Having recently had a pair of the McSorley shoes put up, we can bear testimony to their being a perfect fit.

Journalists.

Miss Mamie L. Hatchett will begin, at Henderson, N. C., not later than June 1st proximo, the publication of The Southern Woman, a semi-monthly woman's journal. The prospectus says: "The tendencies of the paper will be of a highly moral and healthy character, our object being to counteract the popular taste for the sensational impossibilities and horrible tragedies that adorn the pages of our average newspaper, by elevating that of our readers to a more chaste and loftier standard. It will be devoted, for the most part to the interest of Southern women; by which we do not mean that we shall advocate 'woman's rights,' but we do acknowledge and maintain her right to a definite position in the world—her right to be independent and to exercise her God-given faculties in any field to which duty summons her, and for which her inclinations and capabilities best qualify her. We know that in this we shall awaken a responsive chord in many a true and womanly breast, especially of those who through choice or necessity, have essayed to claim their places in business ranks side by side with their more fortunate and favored male competitors. In this respect our Northern sisters are far ahead of us, and the want enterprise and united effort—a disposition to look with disapproval rather than encouragement on home industries—has long been a shame and a reproach to the land dear to every loyal Southern heart. It is an oft repeated charge, and a just stigma upon our national honor, that we have no literature of our own, but, with untold intellectual treasure in our very midst, we leave it buried 'in obscurity, while we clutch greedily the refuse coins of foreign mints.'"

Each number will contain one or more chapters of a serial story by some talented Southern authoress; biographical sketches of distinguished women; critiques upon modern works of art, literature, and music; news items of general interest—religious, social and dramatic; home decoration; useful hints to housekeepers, fashions of the day; female industries; poems, sketches and miscellaneous readings. Nor are the little ones forgotten, one department being appropriated exclusively to their entertainment and instruction. We will publish as a serial in our initiatory volume, the new and thrilling novel entitled Myra, by a young Virginia authoress, published in July last, by J. W. Randolph & English, Richmond, Va.

All persons sending us their names and address will receive a sample copy FREE, thus receiving the opening chapter of "Myra," which will be commenced in the first issue. "To do greatly we must dare greatly," and The Southern Woman dares to raise her voice above the vociferous multitude, calling upon all those of her sisters who love their nation's weal and their country's glory to uphold and aid her in this their common work of reform. Price $1.00 per year. Published by The Henderson Publishing Co. Mamie Lamkin Hatchett, Editress.

DEED.

On Wednesday, April 1, Richard Smith, Funeral will take place to-day at half-past 2 o'clock, at St. Andrews Chapel. The remains will be interred with honors of Newbern Golden Link Lodge No. 1634, G. U. O. of O. F., the deceased having been a member of that lodge.

General Grant.

NEW YORK, April 1.—At 5 p. m. Gen. Grant was still comfortable. No special change since last report.

Col. Fred. Grant came out of General Grant's house at 5:45 p. m. He said that the General was much worse than the physicians cared to say. The following bulletin was issued at 6 p. m.: "General Grant bears up nobly. Within the last half hour he has coughed considerably, on account of accumulated secretion. He suffers some pain in his throat which has been somewhat relieved by gargles." (Signed) GEO. S. SHRADY, M. D.

At 7:15 Gen. Grant was very low and believed to be sinking.

8:30.—General Grant is resting on his bed. He has taken his usual nourishment without inconvenience. The pain in his throat and his cough are relieved. (Signed) J. H. DOUGLAS, M. D.

GEO. S. SHRADY, M. D.

NEW YORK, April 1.—About 6:30 p. m. Col. Fred. Grant sent the following dispatch to a friend in Washington: "Father is sinking rapidly."

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The President sent the following nominations to the Senate to-day: A. Leo Knott, of Maryland, to be second assistant postmaster general; Macon Bonner, postmaster at Washington, N. C.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The following dispatch from Commander Kane, of the Galene, has just been received by the Secretary of the Navy: "Aspinwall is in ashes. It was burnt by the insurgents to escape capture by the government troops. The Pacific mail dock railroad property on the north end of the island, and the canal property at Oropeso, are the only buildings saved. Shipping is safe. I have all my force on the shore protecting the property. My ship is crowded with refugees. Thousands are destitute and without shelter."

Rheumatism.

Although a practitioner of near twenty years, my mother influenced me to procure B. B. B. for her. She had been confined to her bed several months with Rheumatism which had stubbornly resisted all the usual remedies. Within twenty-four hours after commencing B. B. B. I observed marked relief. She has just commenced her third bottle and is nearly as active as ever, and has been in the front yard with "rake in hand," cleaning up. Her improvement is truly wonderful and immensely gratifying. C. H. MONTGOMERY, M. D. Jacksonville, Ala., June 6, 1884. For sale in Newbern by R. N. DUFFY.

Skin Diseases.

I have a little daughter seven years old, who for the last four years has been afflicted with a peculiar skin eruption on the face and one hand. I have tried seven or eight physicians, among them the best in California and in this province, but to no purpose. The child kept growing worse. Fortunately, I saw a statement in a St. Paul Minn. paper of a cure of a disease similar to that of my child. It was affected by Swift's Specific. I secured six bottles and commenced giving it to my little girl. In less than one week this terrible disease, which had baffled all the known remedies within reach, began to disappear. She has been taking it three months—is perfectly well, and her skin is as clear as wax. G. A. SMITH, Trenton, Ontario Province, Canada. March 28, 1884.

What a Minister Says.

Extreme weakness and general debility, produced by exposure and overwork attendant upon my duties, were gradually developing into an utter prostration of my system. Adopting the suggestions of intimate friends, who had experienced relief in similar cases by taking Swift's Specific, I now find myself restored to a perfect condition of health and strength. Accept my fervent wishes for your continued prosperity in your well chosen and successful method for relieving those who suffer. Rev. E. STOCKTON, D. D., Stillwater Place, Stamford, Conn. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free. The Swift Specific Co., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga. For sale in New Berne at HANCOCK BROS.

THE BEST BUILDING LIME IN THE WORLD.

The undersigned being satisfied that CARSON & SON'S CENTENNIAL MEDAL LIME is the best known in the world for building purposes, have accepted the sole Agency for New Berne, the line of the "A. & N. C. R. R." and the territory tributary thereto; and are prepared to furnish it to builders, consumers and the trade at prices far below what it has ever sold at before in this market, either by the car load at points east of Best's on the "A. & N. C. R. R." or in lots to suit at New Berne. Gen. Meigs and Professor Baird place this Lime above all others; and from its purity (being absolutely free of magnesia) and the extra large size of its barrels, it is warranted to go one-third further than any other, thus making it the best and cheapest Lime ever sold in this market. Special freight contracts enable us now to offer this Lime very low. OAKSMITH & CO., Foot Pollock street, New Berne. mh31 dwtw
