Festival to-night at Stanly Hall.
Rebecca will be at the well at Stanly Hall to-night.

We must not let the funds be raised after the unveiling of the Statue, but raise it now.

Mr. Geret Vyne was up in his steam yacht Surprise from Havelock yesterday.

All who fish at Stanly Hall to-night will catch something.

We give a few shillings to perpetuate their memories. They gave their life's blood for our defence. Hand in the contributions.

Let the Statue fund come right in. Don't wait to be called on. The boys whose services are commemorated went early to the front.

A ticket to Stanly Hall to-night will entitle the holder to cake and ice cream, chicken salad or other dishes.

We have only a week in which to raise the money, but a week's time took many of the soldiers to the army when the tocsin sounded.

The Silver Cornet Band will be at the festival to-night, and good music may be expected.

Steamer Trent is on Howard's ways undergoing thorough repairs and the company are putting all their boats in good order for the spring excursions and picnics.

Upon the authority of a late medical almanac, it is asserted that the first newspaper in the now United States was published one hundred and eighty-one years ago to-day.

A pleasant evening will be enjoyed at the festival to-night.

J. K. Willis is at work getting the Statue ready for its position on the monument, which by the way, he does without charge, as he only estimated for the cost of the work in Italy, freight and actual outlay to erect it on the mound at the cemetery. This liberality on the part of Mr. Willis is meeting a noble response from our citizens in their contributions, which are rolling in handsomely, and must be highly gratifying to the noble band of ladies who have so long struggled for the consummation of their hopes. Let the good work go on! Read the list of contributors in this morning's JOURNAL and see if your name is there, and if not, have it put there to-morrow morning by all means.

Removals.

Messrs. Dail Brothers yesterday moved into their two stores just below their former stand on Craven street. They propose to keep a full supply of goods in their line, as will be seen by reference to their "ad." in this paper.

Messrs. Thomas Gates & Co. have moved into their store, former stand of Dail Bros., corner of Craven and South Front street.

Throwing Rocks.

A colored boy was before one of our J. P.'s yesterday on a charge of rocking the house of the plaintiff, a colored woman—that is, throwing rocks at the house. The Justice thought the shortest way out of the case was to let the plaintiff take the defendant to the river and give him a "ducking" which she did to the satisfaction of everybody but the boy and his mother who turned up a little too late to prevent the execution, but in ample time to make a few remarks upon the subject. It may be that she did not want him washed this early in the week as it would be to repeat on "tub night."

Personal.

L. T. Ogleby, Esq., of Carteret, called to see us yesterday. He is one of the few farmers in Eastern Carolina that raises wheat every year and reports his crop looking fine this spring.

Mr. Harvey Kehoe has returned from the Commercial College at Lexington, Ky., and is looking well.

Mr. T. B. Hyman, of the firm of J. Strauss & Co., of Goldsboro, was in the city yesterday. The firm is turning out first-class work at their sash, door and blind factory, and builders should give them a trial.

D. R. Walker, of the News and Observer, was in the city yesterday. He ran down from Lenoir court at Kingston and goes from that point to Raleigh on Saturday and will move for Louisville on Monday. He reports the business outlook good and a new boy baby at home.

The Confederate Statue Fund.

Yesterday there were more contributors to the Statue fund than on the first day, but the amount sent in was not quite so much. Twenty-seven persons have contributed so far, but there are many others who kindly remember the Confederate soldier, and we hope they will send in their contributions at once. The following were the contributors yesterday:

J. V. Williams, $1.00; Mrs. E. B. Roberts, .25; Edward Faison Roberts, .25; Bessie Roberts, .25; Martha Roberts, .25; Ivey Roberts, .25; Isaiah Wood, .25; J. J. Tolson, .50; W. P. M. Bryan, $1.00; Maj. W. L. Palmer, $1.00; L. T. Ogleby of Carteret, .25; E. M. Daguid, $1.00; P. M. Agostine, $1.00; J. A. Bryan, $1.00; Howard & Jones, $2.00; Ex-Mayor Thos. S. Howard, $1.00; Col. Jno. N. Whitford, $1.00.

Received yesterday, $13.25
Previously reported, 12.50
Total, 25.75

Remember the entertainment at Stanly Hall to-night. The ladies having the matter in charge is sufficient guarantee that it will be a nice affair

Reply to "H."

The Wednesday issue of the Goldsboro Argus published a communication from "H" which starts out as follows:

GOLDSBORO, N. C., April 21, 1885.
For the Argus]
The New Berne Journal of this date in its editorial columns says: "Some of the arguments advanced against the lease of the A. & N. C. R. R. to the W. & W. R. R. are simply ridiculous," and then goes on to advocate the lease.

Upon this "H" appeals to the citizens of Goldsboro to stand together and vote for the $50,000 appropriation to the Goldsboro, Snow Hill and Greenville railroad. There never was a more wilful perversion of facts than the words, "and then goes on to advocate the lease," used by "H" in the above extract. Here is the way we advocated the lease, (we begin where "H" left off):

We can see very well wherein a lease to that road might to some extent damage this section, but there is no sense in the idea that they want it for the purpose of crushing the people along the line of the A. & N. C. Railroad. If the people along the line of the road prosper the road will prosper; if the road crushes the people it will crush itself. The natural ally for the Atlantic road is the North Carolina road. It ought to have been a continuance of the North Carolina road and not a separate one, and since the one to which it properly belongs is in the hands of a foreign corporation we think the proper thing is to extend the A. & N. C. to the Yadkin Valley, and we so urged while the General Assembly was in session. By the use of convict labor and the earnings of the present line this road could have been extended to Fayetteville or Sanford, and eventually on to Salisbury, thus giving several counties in the State railroad facilities where they now have none and making a new outlet for our corn, fish and oysters.

What we said in regard to the lease was simply to remind the opponents of the measure that absurd arguments would accomplish nothing, and we are inclined to think "H" so understood it. The advocates of the $50,000 appropriation must see that their cause is waning when they undertake to deceive the people by such gross misrepresentations. In order that the people of Goldsboro may know how we "advocated the lease" we request the Argus to publish this article.

Kinston Items.

Court week.

The picnic season is close at hand. Quite a crowd of people in town this week.

For a wonder, no rain first three days of court.

Kinston is one of the best insured towns in the State, both against death and fire.

The English sparrows have become quite a nuisance. They eat up the young vegetables badly.

Though the Adjutant don't sing a song like the News and Observer man, yet he can "join in the chorus."

Mr. Robert Rountree, son of Dr. F. M. Rountree, arrived in Kinston Monday night from Texas. He has been sojourning for a year in the Lone Star State.

The Confederate monument mound has been put in nice order by Mayor Moses and it is now in order for the ladies to organize a Memorial Association and decorate the graves of the fallen braves.

There was a jolly lot of newspaper men on the court green Tuesday. They had a centre table filled with sample papers, around which they sat and sang, now and then drawing an unwary subscriber. They jested merrily with each other on the hard times. Verily, these Bohemians take life easy.

Pleasures of picnics: Long ride—rain or heat, probably dust—all manner of disagreeableness—troubles—trials—ever present restless boy—cold victuals—dough biscuits—acid pickles—torn clothes—all this. But fashion has decreed it, the small boy wants it, and the parent rubs his hands complacently and turns over the fidgety young hopeful with a pleasant smile, feeling assured of one good, glorious day of quiet at home.

A. & N. C. Railroad.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—Understanding that I am being willfully and persistently misrepresented to stockholders whose proxies I hold, it gives me pleasure to say that I shall cordially and zealously support Governor Scales in carrying out the policy of the State in regard to the Atlantic Road, which policy, I take it for granted, will be made public at the proper time and place.
Yours truly,
WASHINGTON BRYAN.

From New River to Florida.

ON BOARD OF NORTH CAROLINA, OFF PILOT TOWN, ST. JOHN'S RIVER, April 18th, 1885.

DEAR JOURNAL.—I have been waiting to see some of Florida before I would write to your paper. I left New river the last of February and took March on the coast, which is considered the most dangerous month in the year, though it proved an exception to the rule, and I had a very pleasant passage, with the exception of one night on Frying Pan Shoals, when I had rather been ashore. It reminded me of the predictions made to me by my friends, that it would only be to meet an untimely grave to go to sea in my boat in March. My passage was a little tedious, owing to head winds, though I spent my lay days in hunting and fishing, which kept me supplied with game and fish; so I made it profitable as well as pleasant.

I stopped in at Charleston, S. C., four days. The city has improved very much since 1869, when I was here before. Everything I noticed there has undergone a change except Fort Sumter; that looks about the same old pile of ruins. I won't detain you long on Charleston, but I wish North Carolina had one or two such business cities.

I passed on to Beaufort; that is about the size of New Berne, perhaps not so many inhabitants. From there my next stopping place of St. Johns river, Florida. I went up the river 200 miles, to Sanford; that is almost the head of navigation for steamers of any size. Sanford will be quite a city at no distant future. Then there is Enterprise, Astor and Deland, growing little towns.

A place will build up here very quick. When they start, the first thing they do is to lay off a town and build a hotel and store. There is more of the two houses than any place I have ever traveled in. Everything you buy is dearer in stores don't think they are making any profit if they don't sell at 100 per cent, as there is so many engaged in the mercantile business, they have to sell high to live. Same with the hotels; the fare you get at the Gaston House for $2 or $2.50 per day, you have to pay $4 for here. I don't include Jacksonville; you can do better there than any place I have struck yet. I will get down to Jacksonville after awhile.

I left Sanford and came down on Lake George; it is quite a sheet of water, 10x30 miles. I stopped four days hunting on the lake; killed a few ducks and caught lots of fish. I lay with my boat in Little Silver Spring, one mile up the creek from the lake. This spring, I was told, was sister to Big Silver Spring, near Ocala, as it is on the same range. The Big Spring is on the Ochlawaha river. The Little Spring was a sight to me; you can see the bottom 40 feet; you could see a 10 cent piece on the bottom. I thought our Alum Spring, in Onslow, was quite a spring, but I don't think I would find it alongside of this one with the natural eye. It would afford water for five or six miles.

I left the lake and dropped down to Palatka, a town of 3500 inhabitants. From here I took the Florida Southern Railroad to near Ocala; went through Marion county to Levy county. There I found the Onslow colony that came out two years ago, composed of Padrick, two of the Murrill boys, James Hill, Jones Barber, Wm. Humphrey and Ed. Montfort, son of Dr. Montfort. I took them by surprise; I found them all well and doing well; I think they are satisfied with the change; they are going ahead putting out groves and making long staple cotton. They almost persuaded me to stop with them, but I haven't seen enough of Florida yet to settle down. I stayed with them three days and felt like I was in Onslow. It seems like the people of Onslow produce a different feeling on me from any other; it may be a notion.

I left the Gulf side and came back to the Gate City—proper name for Jacksonville. You don't get into Florida until you pass through the city of Jacksonville. It is the head-center of railroad and steamboat transportation of passenger and traffic, with the Malory Line direct from New York. You can buy as cheap here as in North Carolina, with her meats from the West by rail. Jacksonville is quite a business place.

From there I went down to the mouth of the river, and am waiting to get to sea for St. Augustine.

A Grand Rally.

There will be a "Rally" at the First Baptist Church (Cedar Grove), on the first Sunday in May, 3d day, 1885, for the purpose of raising funds to build a new church.

Rova C. A. Jenkins, pastor white Baptist church, Dr. L. S. Burkhead, of white Methodist, and C. L. Brown, of Shaw's University, Raleigh, will preach on the occasion, as follows: At eleven o'clock a. m., at three o'clock p. m., and at half past seven o'clock p. m.

These worthy "messengers of God" are all, more or less, well known to the friends and citizens of New Berne, and therefore they know that to miss the able and rich discourses which they will present, will be of too much value to be lost.

All are cordially invited to attend these interesting exercises. Please come out and help us on the first Sunday and we will thank you and God will bless you. Other ministers of the city are invited to participate. A grand time is anticipated.

Most respectfully,
L. T. CHRISTMAS, Pastor,
S. J. Cox, Clerk.
