Death of an Old Citizen.

Mf. F. S. Duffy, whose death was announced yesterday, was one of the old and respected citizens of this city. He came to New Berne when a young man, together with his father and brothers, Doctors Charles, Walter, Thomas and James, and Mr. Richard N. and Samuel

S. He entered at once into the drug business, in which he was continuously engaged up to his death. Mr. Duffy was a steady, straightfor ward man in all the relations of life. Quiet and retiring in his manners he was most liked by those

BELL'S FERRY, LENOIR CO.,

May 1st, 1885. EDITOR JOURNAL :-- My attention has been called to an editorial correspondence of the Asheville Citizen, dated Raleigh, Feb. 7th, 1885, and reproduced in the columns of the Messenger (by request) on the 13th of March last, in which the writer must have been laboring under an acute attack of dyspepsia court that furnished a basis for argu- and an over quantity of bile in his stomment before the jury, and the attorneys ach, or under the painful hallucination that he was created especially by God engaged made good use of it. The to criticise all men's features, acts,

Hence I say the article was unfortunate in more respects than one. It is no purpose of mine to now reopen this much vexed question of stock law, but in justice to those who advocated its repeal I desire to state that it never once entered their minds that the question would be decided by the number going to Raleigh or by spread-eagle oratory there to be dis-played. Had they thought so the number that would have attended with their fine oratory favoring the repeal of the law would have shocked the tender sensibilities of the frenzied editor of the Asheville Citizen.

But sir, if this poisonous shaft which he has hurled with so much malignity at the heads of these five honest and respectable citi-zens misses its aim and slays him in its rebound, then it will be his funeral and not theirs.

Had this virulent editor in his zeal to heap odium and contumeliousness upon the heads of these five "shock-headed, fossil" farmers of our county, remembered the old maxim of "the pot should not call the kettle black," and viewed himself in a mirror after penning his scurrilous article, no one is so insane as to believe for one moment it would even have found its way in print. It would also have taught him the important les-son that the beauty of his own features are by no means calculated to break the heart of any fair maiden.
