FOR SALE CHEAP.—A first-class Soda Fountain. K. R. JONES.

Beans and Irish potatoes will be next in order for shipment.

Ex-Mayor Howard has Irish potatoes large enough for the table. We saw one from his garden yesterday as large as a turkey egg.

A. M. Baker has changed his advertisement and offers something new to our readers. Don't fail to read it; if you do you may lose a bargain.

The Roberts building on the Academy Green, formerly used by the Graded School has been thoroughly repaired and repainted, and is now offered for sale or rent. See "ad."

The daily truck train on the A. & N. C. Railroad has been discontinued, and the regular schedule for the freight resumed, leaving New Berne on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Justice Hancock was trying a case yesterday at police headquarters of State vs. John Fulcher, for removing mortgaged property. C. C. Clark appearing for the State, Moore & Clarke for the defence. Sent on to the higher court.

L. H. Cutler offers hardware and other goods in his line, suitable for the season. He is at the Odd Fellows' building nearly opposite the old stand, is always in a good humor, and will sell goods at such prices as to put his customers in good humor.

Picnic.

Miss Emma Dissenway's dancing class walked out yesterday on a picnic. No doubt a good time was enjoyed.

New Berne Rice Mills.

We have had inquiry from a gentleman recently in regard to the prospects of milling rice in New Berne, he having seen the mill here advertised for sale. In reply we can say that we know of no point North of Charleston with more advantages for milling upland rice than New Berne. Not more than one-third of the rice grown in this section is milled here, although the mill is running constantly during the season. If there is money in buying the rice in the rough here and shipping it to other points to be milled, there is evidently more money in milling it here, if proper and adequate machinery is used. New Berne is the market for a large rice growing section and we would consider the purchase of the mill here a good investment.

Power of the Press.

We often see the power of the press illustrated for both good and evil. Here is a case in point. Since the shipment of peas began we published, as near as we could ascertain, the number of boxes of peas sent forward on shipping days. When we had done this a few times the shippers came to us and said we were playing the wild with the market; that the bears in Baltimore and New York got our paper with shipments reported before the peas arrived, and being thus informed in advance of what was coming would "bear" the market. It was on Friday that we received this information, so we did not publish the number of boxes sent forward on that day in Saturday's issue, and before night we were informed that peas had advanced to two dollars. Under these considerations we cannot report how many boxes the Shennock will take out this morning.

CONVENTION OF THE DIOCESE OF EAST CAROLINA.

THIRD DAY—EVENING.

Convention met at 4 p. m., Bishop Watson in the chair.

On motion, the following delegates were excused at their own request: Revs. Messrs. H. G. Hilton, Sweetland, Gabriel Homes and Mr. H. G. Smallbones.

A substitute for the report on Episcopal residence was made by Major Jno. Hughes.

Mr. F. A. Boyle reported on scholarship in General Theological Seminary. Rev. V. W. Shields reported concerning University of the South.

Committee on Time and Place reported: Time for next meeting of Convention, fourth Wednesday in May; place, Goldsboro.

Bishop Watson read a letter from the presiding Bishop of the General Convention with an appended letter from the Scotch Bishops.

On motion of Mr. Calder, the house went into committee of the whole to consider the Canons.

Rev. Dr. Hughes was called to the chair.

The committee also considered the Constitution. After rising, the committee referred the Constitution, with amendments, to the house.

The report of the Executive Missionary Committee was read by Rev. Israel Harding, chairman.

A resolution was offered and adopted that 750 copies of the Convention journal be published, and that the parochial reports be tabulated, together with whatever remarks may be made in Convention concerning them.

The standing committee, with the others, was then elected by ballot, as follows:

Standing Committee.

Rev. Dr. Husko, Rev. T. M. Ambler, Rev. Dr. Hughes, Dr. A. J. Dalrosset, Major Jno. Hughes.

Executive Missionary Committee.

Rev. N. Harding, Rev. V. W. Shields, Mr. Geo. H. Roberts, Mr. E. S. Hoyt, Mr. John S. Long.

Church Building Committee.

Rev. R. B. Drane, Rev. L. Eborn, Rev. T. B. Horton, Mr. F. A. Boyle, Mr. W. G. Lamb.

Education Committee.

Rev. T. M. Ambler, Mr. William Calder and Mr. H. G. Smallbones.

Trustees of the Diocese.

Hon. George Davis and Col. S. L. Fremont.

Trustees of University of the South.

Rev. V. W. Shields, Rev. Wm. Lattimer and Rev. W. B. Sheppard.

The Convention endorsed the Church Messenger.

On motion of Col. S. L. Lamont, the thanks of the Convention were given to the Rector, Wardens and Vestry of St. Mary's Church, and to the citizens generally for their kind hospitality.

Rev. R. B. Drane read the report of the committee on the "State of the Church."

A motion was made and carried that the Convention adjourn after religious exercises.

The "Gloria in Excelsis" was then sung, Bishop Watson offered a prayer and the Convention adjourned sine die.

The reporter would say here that the presence of the delegates with visiting ladies and gentlemen has added much to the pleasure of the citizens of Kinston. New friendships were formed, pleasant acquaintanceship made, to leave behind most kindly remembrances for the future.

The Transcript Messenger.

Mr. J. A. Bonitz has issued an extra edition of The Transcript Weekly Messenger to celebrate the occupation of his new building that has been erected since the disastrous fire last fall. It contains portraits of President Cleveland and Cabinet, Vice-President Hendricks, Gov. Scales and Lieut. Gov. Steedman, Senators and members of Congress of North Carolina and Minister Jarvis. It is a mammoth sheet of sixteen pages and contains much reading about Goldsboro, the Messenger, and also about Kinston and a number of Eastern counties. It is evidence of enterprise on the part of the editor and very creditable to Goldsboro. Thanks for an extra copy.

$500,000,000.

A California paper loaned us by a friend gives a long account of a fortune now in England, to which there are a number of heirs in this country. We are glad to see quite a number of our New Berne people named in the list of descendants; among them Mrs. C. C. Clark see Howard, who is in the direct line from Sir Francis Howard—Lord Effingham—who owned large estates at Corby. Also Mr. A. T. Jenkins, Charles Slover, Alexander Sears and others connected through the Lawrence branch of the wealthy deceased. It would be well for these persons to get on good terms with Minister Phelps, as he might spring another Emma mine on the English people.

Our Cemeteries.

A short drive around the cemeteries yesterday revealed a most gratifying state of careful attention at each.

At Cedar Grove the blooming flowers and neatly cleaned lots render it a most enjoyable place to visit when wishing a release from home duties and the cares of life for a few hours.

Greenwood, the colored people's cemetery, is now undergoing improvements such as laying off walks and placing of shrubbery, under the new sexton's supervision, and looks well.

The National Cemetery is a lovely spot. Evidence of care and attention marking everything there, while the grove of maples are beginning to reach a size that makes them show to advantage, and the rare plants, shrubbery and flowers, together with the neatly trimmed grass, shows the effect of careful culture.

The Jewish Cemetery is neatly enclosed, and while the interments there have not been numerous, yet shows that it is under a careful custody and vigilant protection.

What Others Think of Us.

The letter which we give below was probably not intended for publication, but the writer will pardon us for using it to show our citizens what impression they have made upon a visitor. He is right in his supposition as to how we obtained the poem alluded to, and we assure him that many of our readers appreciated it very much.

TRENTON, N. J., May 10, 1885.
H. S. NIXON, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I have a number of times been about to pen a line to you to acknowledge the pleasure I have in perusing your ably conducted JOURNAL, which comes to me regularly and on time.

Though not a New Bernian, I must confess to a lively relish, mentally speaking, in reading the local news contained in your well-filled WEEKLY, for, notwithstanding I only visit your interesting old town occasionally, I have met with so many, and become well acquainted with many of these very genial and exceedingly courteous residents of New Berne that I quite feel like reading home news while thus occupied.

I was quite started at seeing, in your issue of 7th inst., the speculative poem on Genesis 1-1, entitled "The Creation," a poem written by Wm. J. Allison, a near relative of mine under whose influence I was thrown in early life—and my wonder was how you could have gotten hold of this, a favorite poem of mine, but it at once occurred to me that during one of my very pleasant social chats with a distinguished citizen of your city, Judge C. R. Thomas, I recited to him, from memory, those lines, and at his request, I had one of my clerks copy same from the manuscript (which was given me by the author, and which I have carefully retained these many years) and mail it to the Judge. Am I not right in thus accounting for its appearance in the JOURNAL?

If your readers have derived as much profit and satisfaction from its reasonable speculation as I have, I am sure they feel paid for its perusal.

Hoping you are in good health, and asking your pardon for desecrating at such length upon this poem, believe me Sincerely yours, &c.,
D. COOPER ALLISON.

Collapse of a Large Brick Building on Trade Street, Charlotte—Damage Over $30,000.

CHARLOTTE, May 14.—The three story brick building on Trade street, occupied by Hammond & Justice, hardware dealers, fell in a mass of ruins at nine o'clock this morning. The disaster was caused by weakening the foundation of the west wall by excavating a cellar for a new building on the site of one recently burned. The cracking wall gave timely warning, and no body was hurt. The adjoining building, owned by W. J. Yates, editor of the Home Democrat, is in danger of falling, but may not have to come down. Its present damage is estimated at $1,000. The fallen building was owned by Dr. J. H. McAden, whose loss is $7,000. Hammond & Justice's loss on stock is $25,000. They are insured for $11,000. The ruins caught fire, but the flames were soon got under control.

Chicago Current.

"Anti-Revolutionary Verso" is the subject of a short series of papers by T. C. Judkins, begun in the The Current of May 16. He gives many curious excerpts from the poetry of the colonial period, and his review of this phase of early American literature is highly interesting for the glimpse it gives of the early beginnings of the national literary evolution.

THE DEAD AND THE LIVING.

Pettigrew and Ransom.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—The very excellent Memorial address by Capt. Hamilton C. Graham, which you have printed in your paper is a most valuable contribution to the literature of our State. It should be published in more enduring form and find a permanent place in the public and private libraries of the country.

The name of Pettigrew is one to be cherished in North Carolina; it illustrates the annals of a State. They who have borne it were exemplars of that character which ennobs a race, their lives such as lend renown to a people; that give lustre to a civilization.

Gen. Johnston Pettigrew was a typical Carolinian. In reading him we realize what we lost by the war. Our loss was not of property or political prestige, but in men. Immeasurably greater than all the other ills of the war was the destruction of lives. What would not North Carolina be today could she have aroused from the dead battle fields, at the close of the war, her sleeping sons!

There were two young lives whose lines ran parallel—Pettigrew and Ransom. At the State University they were able rivals in learning and accomplishments, the distinguished leaders of respective followings in the school. They graduated with equal distinction, each the favorite of his faction, and entered upon the work of their lives splendidly equipped for the achievement of high honors and great renown.

It will not be deemed invidious to the living statesman to suggest that the dead soldier was, perhaps, the finer scholar, the better student, the abler man.

JAMES JOHNSTON PETTIGREW—MATT WHITAKER RANSOM.

What these names now suggest for contemplation! The story of the short and brilliant life of one has been well told. That of the other is being read in the history of the times. The life of one was taken for a sacrifice upon the altar of country, the other left to illustrate how great the sacrifice was.

That peace hath victories no less renowned than war is well exemplified in Ransom. For while his career and services were brilliant and valuable throughout the great struggle, it is in the period of peace that his name is most illustrious. We shall probably never duly appreciate the great service of Matt Ransom to the people of North Carolina and the reunited country, for he has served his section as few could have done. Richly endowed by nature, and with rare opportunities, he has filled the measure of a great public man.

Improvement of Cedar Grove Cemetery.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Without taking any part in the controversy in reference to the donation of the late Mrs. Gooding to Cedar Grove Cemetery, I wish to offer a suggestion to the committee who have charge of those sacred grounds.

It has been intimated that the Trustee of the fund above alluded to thinks that a mortuary chapel would be a fit subject for the expenditure of the money; while that plan is met with the objections, first, that there is no ground which can be appropriated to such use, and further that such a building is not needed.

Now my suggestion is, that a structure may be erected useful, ornamental and at the same time answer all the uses we should likely have for a mortuary chapel, and on ground not necessarily changed from its present use.

As you enter by the main avenue at the crossing of the first avenue running east and west, just where the venerable sexton used to sit on Sunday afternoons, there are four cedars serving the double purpose of corner-post and shade trees; let the trees be removed and four columns either of brick, stone or iron take their places, and arches sprung over each of the avenues with proper ornamentation on each and a handsomely constructed roof thrown over the whole, and at such an elevation in the center as in no way to obstruct the view of either avenue; let appropriate seats or benches be placed there, and we have at once a place of refuge from sudden showers, a highly desirable place for fatigued and wearied persons to rest after a stroll through the grounds, and if the necessity should arise, the services be held here as it would be in a chapel built expressly for such use.

The roof might project several feet beyond the columns and desirable seats so arranged as not to interfere in the slightest with the passage of the hearse or carriages, and yet afford a much-needed retreat from the rain or sun, and a great comfort to aged and feeble persons who visit the sacred resting place of their loved ones.

All who have noticed such structures in the public parks and pleasure grounds in the North, will readily comprehend the style I have attempted to describe, and such as have not, can gather it quite easily by viewing the tomb of Mr. William Shepard, just up the avenue from the spot mentioned, as it is there well illustrated in the marble columns and canopy. The floor might be the simple gravelled walk, as now, or paved if desired.

Willacochee

Is the name of a flourishing village in Coffee county, Georgia, on the line of the Brunswick and Albany railroad.

Mr. D. E. Gaskin, a well-known citizen of that village, writes under date of December 22d:

Soon after my marriage, about four years ago, my wife was stricken with some trouble peculiar to her sex, which broke down her general health. In this condition she was soon after attacked with inflammatory rheumatism of such a severe type that it made her a cripple. She was reduced in flesh to sixty-five pounds, and came very near losing her life. She was attended by three good physicians who treated her with some benefit, but the swelling in her joints never left her. Last summer the rheumatism returned in a still more severe and painful form, which seemed to defy the skill of all the doctors. She would almost go frantic with pain, and would lie and scream all day. A friend of mine, who is an engineer on the Brunswick & Albany railroad, suggested that I should use Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), which I did. After she had taken one small bottle she was up and able to walk over the house, and after taking the six small bottles she is now able to do any kind of house work; the swelling has gone, all the pain has left her, and she is in better health than she ever was. The treatment before using Swift's Specific cost me between $350 to $400, and the six bottles of S. S. S. cost me six dollars.

It is certainly the most wonderful medicine and the best blood purifier in the world. The proprietors should let the world know about it.

NOTE.—The S. S. S. Company wish to caution purchasers in regard to the numerous imitations of their goods. Some carry the lie on the face, purporting to be vegetable remedies, when, in fact, they are really strong solutions of poisonous minerals—as Mercury, Potash, etc. Be careful to get the genuine. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.
