complaints.

We again have complaint, from Bayboro and Stoneham, that the JOURNAL fails to reach there regularly. Sunday's issue arrived there on Tuesday evening, and Tuesday's issue on Wednesday. Our mailing clerk assures us that he put it in the office in time.

The Graded School Entertainment.

The entertainment will begin promptly at half past eight o'clock on Friday night; doors open at eight. Tickets will be on sale on Thursday and Friday at Meadows' drug store at the usual prices, 50 cts. each, and 25 cts. for children. Seats can be reserved without extra charge after 9 o'clock Friday morning.

Curlew Bugs.

Our Mr. C. C. Taylor arrived yesterday afternoon from Bayboro, bringing twelve hundred curlew bugs in a pocket book.

This is a new use for the bottle and we suppose also for the bug, but he is an inventive genius and learned during the war to make many substitutes for a soldier's comfort, and it may be that he is now devoting his ingenuity in the interest of travelling newspaper men.

As it is well known that these gentlemen have but little use for bottles, if one of them should be seen in possession of such an article, it may be readily supposed that he is in search of bugs. We will endeavor to keep these bottled and not let them stray among the farmers.

Poultry Raising.

We give an interesting article on poultry raising in this issue from the American Agriculturist. If our farmers would give a little more attention to such small industries as this, there would be less demand for mortgaging the homestead and the growing crop. Eggs and chickens always bring a good price here, especially during the fall and winter. As these prices are obtained from shippers, there is not much danger of overstocking the market. The prices in New York and other points North, where the consumption is large, govern the prices here. So any farmer can safely calculate on getting well paid for a little extra attention to his poultry yard.

Persons.

Capt. H. D. Stowe, of Mecklenburg, was in the city yesterday. He owns a farm near Havelock, in this county, and has recently purchased property in the city. Hope he will soon become one of us. The Captain was here on the day that this city was captured by General Burnside, and among the last to leave. He was on the staff of the lamented Col. C. C. Lee, of the 37th N. C. Regiment.

Rev. Mr. Hines, of Kinston, is in the city attending in the meetings at the Baptist church.

The News and Observer announced the presence in Raleigh of Dr. A. B. Tunstall, of Lake Landing, and Dr. W. H. Tolson, of Swan Quarter, on their way to the Medical Convention, at Durham. They are both now in the city on their way home, and their friends in Hyde will doubtless welcome them with their new diplomas.

Lieut. B. B. Burks, civil engineer, who was some time ago engaged on our river and canal surveys, has returned to the city and will in a few days go down to the harbor improvements at Swanport, as assistant to Gen. Ransom.

Logan Elected.

SENATORSHIP, ETC., May 19.—In joint assembly today the Legislature elected John A. Logan United States Senator. This is the end of the big struggle for this position, which has been in progress for some months.

THE GREAT REVIVAL AT NASHVILLE.

Rev. Sam Jones, the Georgia Evangelist, stirs up the People.

The Georgia evangelist, Rev. Sam Jones, of the M. E. Church, is conducting a series of meetings at Nashville, Tennessee, which is attracting the attention of the country. His services are conducted in a huge tent prepared for the purpose and thousands flock there to hear him every day. As will be seen from a telegram to Rev. Dr. Burkhead, of this city, given elsewhere, he has had twelve hundred conversions since May the 10th, five hundred of these in two nights. Full accounts of these services are published daily in the Nashville papers, and every other interest seems to have given way to Rev. Sam Jones' revival. The Daily Union gives the following account of the great preacher:

As a secular newspaper, looking at the religious phenomenon which the appearance of a strange man in our midst has produced, like everybody else we think and speculate. Usually the work of an evangelist, at least in modern times, affects only emotional people, and the social fabric, as it has been erected, is no more impressed than the fabric of the State would be by the clever amenities of neighbors. But there is in our midst now a man whose work—judging from the past—may make a new map for social and religious life. This is now probable, and hence thinking citizens are watching with intense interest his movements and their effect. Religious revivals are often emotional, and come from emotional and to some extent sensational preaching. These emotional revivals do not arouse thinking men, nor do they even wake up a drowsy church. Society remains the same; the vices are not abated.

A genuine old-fashioned revival of religion in Nashville, based not upon emotional appeals, but based upon a victory over evil in high places as well as low, may make for the city's new social organism.

This strange preacher walked into our city and attacked the vices and immoralities of social life and the evil practices of church members like a frontiersman would fight a fire that threatened his fences and barns. He spares nobody; he palliates nothing because respectable people do it. Social amenities and a growing friendship between the church and people with doubtful practices are held up and exposed as the devil's handiwork.

If less than one week he has brought all the churches together and for the time, at least, made the preachers forget the social evils that beset the land. While he makes religion so inviting that the husband and wife join hands and accept it, the children fly to it as to the playground, men of many vices turn to it as a relief and as a resting place. This strange man, by an electric current which he creates between himself and his audience, and by imparting the spirit of love to everybody, gets so near the hearts of all his hearers that he makes friends of the last one of them, even in telling them of all the mean things they ever did.

He dashes to pieces all the theories of the politician and the demagogue; he proves moral cowardice to be itself a humbug, and stands out every minute as a living witness that truth is the best policy.

Looking at him alone from a temporal standpoint it is well for the people of Nashville to hold up his hands. As a teacher of life's virtues, as an example of moral courage, he will long be remembered by the young men of our city and surrounding country. To speak or not to speak the whole truth is often a question of policy. Under the teachings of public and political life the young man debates the policy of telling the truth. Mr. Jones is proving to the young men of the county that policy goes to pieces before truth, and that with a good motive and a friendly feeling, the severest condemnation of a wrong gives no offense. To be a coward before an audience and pander to a vicious public sentiment is weakness, and when it becomes common it is a calamity.

There can be no hope for a people whose public men are cowardly. We do not wish to be understood as sitting in judgment on the courage of the pulpit. We mean simply to say that Mr. Jones is displaying sound judgment and great courage, and at the same time a truly Christian spirit, in telling people plainly and bluntly of their shortcomings.

The people in this country are omnipotent in one sense, and their united voice properly expressed in law, but the people at large or the church may get wrong, and if public men and Christian teachers are all cowards a wrong will not soon be righted.

If this brave preacher had come into this city with a faltering step and then preached against the popular vices as he does he would have been run out of town. His courage and his honest purpose gave him the victory, and now the good women of this city are prepared, if not to fight his battles, at least to stand between him and all danger.

Courage to tell the truth to the public, and to the people, and about the public is a high virtue.

The Twentieth of May.

Yesterday is a red-letter day in the calendar of North Carolina. It was upon the 20th day of May, 1775, that the patriotic sons of the then colony resolved to break the shackles of British dominion, and in convention at Charlotte adopted a series of resolutions much in the tone, and of singular resemblance in words, of that famous declaration made by Congress at Philadelphia a year later, that is July 4th, 1776. However much doubt there may be in the minds of some, there has been sufficient evidence of this occurrence to thoroughly satisfy some of the first men of the State, the ablest scholars and most profound thinkers, of the genuineness of the claim of North Carolina to this distinguished honor. And it is to be regretted that it should be permitted to pass unnoticed by our people generally.

It has been declared a State holiday and as such is observed by some portions of the State, and we think should be so observed by all.

The Great Revival.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—On Sunday, May 10th, Rev. Samuel P. Jones, the Georgia Evangelist, commenced a meeting in Nashville, Tenn. The services are held in a tent which will seat about 4,000 persons. This tent has been crowded from the first. At many of the services as many as 10,000 persons have been present. I have just received the following telegram:

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 19th.
REV. L. S. BURKHEAD.—Five hundred conversions past two nights. Twelve hundred in all. W. C. DIBBLEL.
Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists all participate heartily in the great work. L. S. BURKHEAD.

Kinston Items.

Chicken thieves are active.

The last of the clergymen left on Monday.

Our truckers are sending forward their "sassa" by every train.

Messrs. Haakitt & Davis made an assignment to R. B. Taylor, Esq., on Monday.

Kinston College Commencement will be held in Loftin's opera house this year.

Strangers who visit Kinston express their admiration at the beauties of our Riverside park.

Stick-whittling has commenced on the streets—a sure sign of hard times, at least of dull times.

Five young ladies and six young gentlemen were confirmed by Bishop Watson on Sunday night in St. Mary's Church.

The baseball fever has broken out here. A club has been formed, and practice has begun. The fever is generally short, in this locality. The boys will have had plenty of the fun by the first of June.

As the season for school closings approaches, the milliners and dry goods merchants have a brisk trade. A merchant in Kinston told me, last year, that he had sold one thousand dollars worth of goods to be used mainly for commencement purposes.

Mr. Chas. F. Harvey has removed to Asheville. He is now engaged in the bakery business of that thriving town. We miss his cheerful face and genial greetings. He carries with him, into his new field of operations, the good wishes of his numerous friends here.

Many of his former parishioners and friends were glad to see Rev. E. M. Forbes while he was attending the meeting of the recent convention. On Friday morning he gave the students of Kinston College a very instructive, impressive and entertaining lecture. His great interest in education has not abated.

To the State Press.

The undersigned begs all members of the North Carolina Press Association who propose to attend the annual meeting to be held at Smithville, June 17th, to inform him at once of their intention, together with the routes they will take, in order that passes may be secured for them. The time in which to do this is short. Prompt action on the part of all is therefore absolutely necessary. (State papers please copy.)

Frederick Douglass's Church Pew.

Washington Letter, May 17th: Dr. Sunderland's church, where the President attends, is usually crowded. Standing room in the aisles even is at a premium, and when recently the pew immediately in front of the pew occupied by the President became vacant, there was naturally unusual anxiety on the part of several prominent attendants of the church to secure this sitting. This morning the congregation was a good deal excited to discover that Frederick Douglass, colored, the recorder of deeds of the District, and his white wife were the occupants of the coveted sitting, and it was then made known for the first time that they had rented this pew. After the service many of the members of the congregation met to discuss the incident, and there was a considerable show of feeling. The meeting in fact was one of indignation, and it is said that Dr. Sunderland will be asked to have Mr. Douglass give up the pew. The matter is exciting much attention, and the members of the church are especially annoyed that Dr. Sunderland, after to-day's services, greeted Mr. Douglass with apparent cordiality.

Rambling Notes.

Mr. T. Moffett has gone to Virginia.

Hahn, the music man, was at Swan Quarter.

Mrs. H. C. Wilson of Norfolk is visiting her husband at Pungo.

Large and frequent rains are putting farmers behind in their operations.

Mr. Henry Wahab is to do business at Germantown again, in the report.

Mr. J. O. Gorham (near Washington) had a child fatally burned recently.

Mr. Ira Gaskins (another aged man) died at his residence near Nebraska several days ago.

On the 4th inst., near Bath, a lady, a daughter of Mr. B. Skittlehorn, was fatally burned.

The dredge in Lake Landing canal has reached the lake, and is digging towards the sound.

The schooner Grace Watson sailed from Beech Ridge mills on the 18th with lumber by D. C. Way & Co.

Mr. D. C. Way has gone to Harrodsburg, Ky., for his daughter, Miss Katie, who has been attending Daughter's college.

R. D. Harris, Esq., has improved the appearance of his place at O'Neals Fork by building an engine house, and a liberal use of whitewash.

Curlew bugs (ku-klux as some call them) are doing some damage on Pungo swamp. Rice birds are troublesome in several sections.

Mr. J. Holtzschieder, late engineer of steamer Washington, has patented a most complete self-fastening bolt for store or warehouse windows.

Died, at Beech Ridge Mills, May 12th, at about 5 o'clock, a. m., Mrs. Ellis Pickles; buried on the 6th at St. James, Rev. Aug. Latham officiating.

R. Allen, of Beaufort county, has a four year old dog that weighs 120 pounds, and has honey enough to sweeten—well, a good many things.

Gaylord Davis Spring Co. propose to increase capital stock to $20,000, and are putting in saw and necessary machinery to make plank as well as shingles.

Mr. Wm. Wallace, Mate of steamer Washington, is visiting his family at Morehead. Miss Phenix Lanier accompanied him. Miss Stella Wallace is visiting friends near Lee'sville.

Eld. D. W. Topping preached at the Head of Pungo on the 9th and 10th insts. and immersed two ladies on Sunday morning. Mr. Marshall Davis and Mrs. David Carter, nee Tooley. Eld. A. T. Paul preached at night.

Mr. Whitehouse, of the firm of Whitehouse & Hay, lumber manufacturers, is gone home (Eastern Shore) on a health visit. The firm has two mills located on Pungo creek, Beaufort county, and do much business.

Married, Wood, the photographer, to Mrs. Wright. They are to go South soon. Quite recently Fenner B. Stickney and Miss Lizzie Garland. I hope she has done as well as he in marrying. The groom is a grand son of the late F. B. Satterthwaite, and the bride a grand-daughter of the late Ira H. Topping.

The sale of the State lands was postponed to Tuesday, 18th inst., I suppose to wait for some prospective purchaser. The land on Alligator and Pungo canals is open; nearly all of the growth is killed off by fires, except such as run up and mature during one season; there is no soil, and when it becomes dry it burns down to its moisture. One of the Hyde Park settlers had his hut burned by fire smouldering under the surface for some time, which blazed out while he was away. He felt, he said, because he "could not stay in a place where he is so near the top as to break through and burn things down in that way. The cattle range on that land is generally good, but stock is very apt to run wild in the immense wastes. Later.—The land was not sold at all.

Superior Court at Swan Quarter convened on the 11th, Judge Shipp presiding. Seventeen lawyers in attendance, and returns not all in. True bill against the negro who killed his wife. Mr. Brock was on hand to sell a horse, or to trade. Messrs. Long, Randolph or Warren wanted to furnish the buggy and harness, and whips, etc. Several peddlers were anxious to sell us combs, shears, etc.; the buyers would have the buyer. Mr. F. Sadler with a blacksmith's shop on his wagon was ready for business; the Messenger was stoutly represented, the Gazette legally and actively, the Economist will not be left when the very courteous head is on hand, the Journal was present with an eye to business and the shakels—long may it flourish. Washington sent a large delegation: Silley & Silley, Richardson, Swindell and others. I saw Roads, Cason, Winfield, Latham, Carpenter, Barber and Lowe. Dr. Credle, Weston and Windley. Prof. Heritage was on hand to shave or cut hair in the latest style. The steamer Margie left on Monday to return to Washington, and will be at Swan Quarter on Friday for an excursion to Pamlico lighthouse. I had neglected to say I could purchase tobacco, cigars, etc., from Mr. Brown of B. F. Baker & Co., and shoes and boots from Mr. Sol. Hecht. What an opportunity to buy or sell, but "no money" made business dull; but Dr. Barker was ready to examine our "bumps" and tell us what we were cut out for. Yours truly was cut out for a lawyer, so he said, "would do for a preacher in a few years, when you get ready." The negro who killed his wife becomes a boarder at the State hotel for fifteen years.

To any body who has disease of throat or lungs, we will send proof that Pico's Cure for Consumption has cured the same complaints in other cases. Ad. Dress, R. P. HANCOCK, Warren, Pa.

Beware of Mercury and Potash.

Mercury is more destructive to human health and life than war, pestilence and famine combined. So said a distinguished writer many years ago, and it is as true today as then. The poor victims of Blood Disease are drugged with Mercury to cure the malady, and then dosed with Iodides to cure him of the Mercurial Poisoning; but instead of any relief, the first breaks down his general health and makes him a cripple, and the other ruins his digestive organs. Mercury and Potash are dangerous even when administered by directions and under the eye of a good physician, and when put up in nostrums, often by incompetent persons are apt to produce evil consequences. Be careful of these poisonous mixtures or you may regret it. Swift's Specific is entirely a vegetable preparation, and should not be confounded with the various imitations, non secret humbugs, "Succus Alterant" etc., all of which either contain Mercury and Potash, or are composed of old remedies which have long since been discarded as of no value in the treatment of Blood Diseases, and none of them contain a single article which enters into the composition of Swift's Specific. There is only one Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) and there is nothing in the world like it. Be sure to get the genuine.

Inflammatory Rheumatism.

I have been afflicted for nearly fourteen years with the severest form of inflammatory rheumatism. For a large portion of the time was confined to bed, and suffered the most excruciating pain, my legs badly swollen. My case was thought incurable by the physicians, and I have often hoped that death would ensue and relieve me of pain. Last month I secured, at the suggestion of a friend, one dozen bottles of Swift's Specific, and after using about six bottles I am entirely free from pain, the first time in nearly fourteen years. My joints are becoming more supple and the swelling gone. I am ready to answer any inquiries as to the facts in the case. G. W. ST. CLAIR, Cabot, Ark., April 19, '84.
