Table with columns for Year (1885, 1884), Month (June, July, August, September, October, November, December, January, February, March), and various statistics.

The following is the comparative Liverpool statement for the dates mentioned in the preceding table.

Cotton in Providence is dull. Prices remain at 11 1/2 for middling uplands and 11 1/4 for middling downs.

Notwithstanding the war cloud which threatened England and Russia has disappeared, and the total receipts and visible supply of cotton are still below the figures given for last year, yet the cotton market seems to be dull and declining.

Washington, June 10. On no occasion has President Cleveland been more outspoken than when he was brought before the House of Representatives on the 10th inst.

Washington, June 10. The North Carolina Democratic politicians are greatly exercised over the reappointment of the Republican Collector of the Internal Revenue.

ators and most of the Representatives are alleged to be for another, and the word, from accounts, must have had some formidable strength.

There are not many Federal offices in North Carolina that are particularly desirable. Presidential appointments are few—scarcely a dozen.

The pending struggle, as the post of Collector of Customs at Wilmington, has been claimed by Mr. Robinson, who has the inside track.
