BUSINESS LOCALS.

PROF. EOLI will remain in the city for another week. His work in turning pianos and organs is giving entire satisfaction. Those desiring his services will find him at the Central Hotel. Orders left there will receive prompt attention.

WANTED—A good shoe maker. Apply to W. J. McSweeney, near corner of Middle and Pollock Sts., New Berne, N. C.

ICE CREAM GARDEN—On Middle St., second door North of Dr. Chas. Duffy's office. Delivered in any part of the city by ESSEY ANDREWS, Jun 19th.

Trent Council No. 411, Royal Arcanum, meets tonight.

Two cases before Mayor Meadows—Lighting—$2 and coat; one jailed in default of payment.

The JOURNAL acknowledges the compliment of a hearty cheer from the returning "braves" as they passed the office last night.

The drays were busy hauling potatoes to the Old Dominion wharf yesterday. Over five hundred barrels were on the wharf before dark.

Mr. J. L. Rhem dug four hundred barrels of potatoes yesterday, and expects to make the lot up to 800 barrels for the boat this afternoon.

There were three funerals in Cedar Grove Cemetery yesterday. An unusual occurrence in this city. Two of the deceased were children and the other an elderly man.

The steamer Elm City came in last night with the colored "braves" excursion from Washington, who doubtless had a good time during their visit to this hospitable town.

The excursion party coming around from Washington had a right good rocking on the deep "chairs" crossing the sound, which furnished only such damages as are incident to one out a le mal de mer.

Excursion to Morehead City.
An excursion train will run from this city to Morehead City and return next Sunday. Accommodations for ladies will be provided. The train will reach Morehead in time for church.

Personal.
John W. Hinsdale, Esq., of Raleigh, is in the city.

Washington, D. C., returned last night from Raleigh.

Rev. Father Moore, of Wilmington, is in the city, having been summoned here to attend a burial service in the absence of Rev. Father Reilly, Rector of St. Paul's Church, who is away on missionary duties.

A Chick Sign, taxidermist, has gotten up a sign struck striking, unique and attractive. It consists of a well-mounted alligator—a youthful one—of about 10 inches in length, poised upon a tussock, with paint pot and pencil in hand, as if about to sign the name and business of the firm painted above him. This, we are informed, will take quarters at the Atlantic Hotel, Morehead City, for the summer, where that firm will be engaged in filling orders for work in their line.

Another Inspection Talked Of.
Some of our citizens are talking of getting out an inspection against the county commissioners to prevent them from making unnecessary expenditures of money to carry on legal proceedings where there is no real business, but little, if any, advantage gained by the county in the matter. These people say the county is taxed enough on account of heretofore legal proceedings, and advise something very promising of an improvement in its value, no further disbursement that account should be made.

When they refunded the county debt at this value and interest added, the point of indignity was reached and the taxpayers seem to think that they are sufficiently amused with that matter, and still a reduction of that burden is begun when they want no more railroad debts of any kind whatever.

They further say that there are many private stockholders largely interested who would have certainly taken legal proceedings if such a course was necessary to protect their interest in the road, and that the county commissioners of an already over-taxed county should be so busy in executing legal proceedings.

Condition of the A. & N. C. Railroad.

General W. G. Lewis arrived in the city yesterday evening on a hand-car from Goldsboro. He is on a tour of inspection of the A. & N. C. Railroad. A JOURNAL reporter called on him at the Gaston House last evening and found him in a good humor, though tired after an arduous day's work.

"Have you any objection, General, to explaining the object of your visit?" asked the reporter.

"No, I am examining the condition of the A. & N. C. Railroad."

"Well, how do you find it?"

"It is greatly improved, since I examined it before."

"What amount of improvements do you think has been put on the road since it was recovered from Best?"

"That is right hard to answer. For it was run down to nothing then."

"Has it improved ten, fifteen, twenty or fifty per cent?"

"I don't know as you would miss it were you to say a thousand per cent. I find the cross-ties now pretty good; indeed there are but few wanting to make it perfectly good in that respect. The section nearest to New Berne—12 miles up the road—needs not more than one hundred cross-ties now, while, if I remember correctly, it needed about three thousand when Best gave it up. The culverts and trestle-work between here and Goldsboro are in excellent condition. Some work was needed on the bridge across Neuse river, near Kinston, but that is being done now. The iron is in fair condition considering that it is old iron, and the section next to New Berne is as good as any section on the W. & W. Road."

"By whom are you employed to make the examination, General, if it is a fair question?"

"By the Company I suppose, at least Col. Whitford directed me to inspect the road and report its true condition, which I expect to do. So far as I have seen, the rolling stock has greatly improved since my last inspection of the road."

The General will proceed with the examination this morning in company with Capt. Sam Howard, and will make a thorough examination of Trent river bridge the first thing.

Allen's Forty Lessons in Double Entry Book-Keeping.

Book-keeping is an art that every person who has any business, trade or profession, no matter whether he be a farmer, mechanic, merchant or lawyer, should have sufficient knowledge of to enable him to always know exactly how his business stands. Many books have been written on the subject, but the one of study heretofore marked out by different authors is so complicated that no one except those who intend following book-keeping for a livelihood can afford to spend time and money enough to master it. Without a correct knowledge of book-keeping, no one can claim an ordinary business education. Yet few of our boys and girls who attend our public schools to prepare themselves for usefulness and citizenship can acquire a correct knowledge of this most useful art, because they have neither the time nor the money to take a course in a business college.

A series of lessons that will present the whole subject in a clear, concise, simple and comprehensive manner, so divided that the boys and girls of our public schools can at once grasp it, without interference with the other studies has been a long felt necessity.

Allen's Forty Lessons in Double Entry Book-keeping, of which we have sixteen special lessons before us, appears to be what is needed. The author bases these lessons upon actual experience in business for many years; he has labored long to perfect it, eliminating all superfluous matter calculated to confuse the mind, and leaving it down to such a degree of simplicity that one of his daughters has been able to teach it very successfully to scholars in the New Berne Graded School during the past year. His pupils not having the aid of the book, using the black-board alone.

It ought to be adopted as a text-book in our public schools. Any teacher can prepare himself in a very short time to teach book-keeping correctly by the use of these lessons. The whole subject is presented, as it were, in a nut shell, and only requires one lesson per week during a session of forty weeks to master it. Let the boys and girls be taught to keep accounts correctly. Mr. Allen has proven that it is not a mysterious and complicated art, but one of common sense.

What Is It?
Judge Lewis Coleman and Hon. Henry D. Hyde, of Boston, and Messrs. H. W. T. Balknap and Henry T. Pringle, of Jersey City, are here on matters of importance connected with the Atlantic & N. C. Railroad.—Next and Over.

Prison Day.

EDITOR JOURNAL—The following beautiful article was sent to me with request that I should have it published. It did not reach me in time, or in the press of other duties I overlooked it. It was sent to me by Mrs. Laura A. Winston, whose whole soul is awake to the "Prison Day" cause, which is the cause of "God and home and native land." At this late day please publish the following and send a copy of your paper containing the article to Mrs. Laura A. Winston, Belvidere, N. C., and oblige yours truly,
L. S. BURKHHEAD.

Prison Day Cometh.

MY BELOVED FRIENDS—The 9th of June is heralding her approach, and we must see to it that we are ready with the message God has sent us for the prisoner.

"See to it first, that we have our feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace," and then that "whatsoever our hands findeth to do" in systematizing our department we may do with our might.

"Flower mission prison day" last year must have planted many seeds that must show growth this year, unless indeed our faith be in vain, and ought to yield fruit for such harvest.

We trust our gospel of love and temperance may be carried to dozens of prisons and reformatories in each State where it reached but one last year. Our national secretary, Miss Gertrude Ferguson, will send each State superintendent several prison day plans.

There were a large number of these plans left over from last year, and believing there is no need for alteration we concluded to use same general plan this summer. We have just had printed twenty thousand text-cards for use in our work, and hope the department will send to Miss Ferguson, W. C. T. U. Rooms, Polytechnic Building, for as many as needed. They can be bought at same prices, $1.25 per thousand, postage extra, or at the rate of $1.50 in smaller lots. Your superintendent selects every text and finds much pleasure in the thought that she knows the words of the message you carry to the unfortunate and sick. Printed slips of text for "Prison Day Use" in the religious services held at prisons, can be had of Miss Ferguson. We would be glad to order ten thousand for circulation in each penitentiary visited in the length and breadth of our land, but our old cry of no means will limit the supply unless our women call for more.

They are the same texts we read last year, and which we want read every year, everywhere. It has seemed to me this may be a tie to bind, as the Episcopalian service binds, as the old doxology, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow" stir memories, and quickens hearts, so these words of our Father beginning with "Cast thy burden on the Lord, and he will sustain thee," and ending with the sweet assurance "Lo, I am with you always," falling year after year on our national day, upon the ears of both workers and prisoners, will bring God's blessings.

Throw your best selves into the flower mission department and determine you will take strong hold of these text-cards, requisites for success in any God-given work—trust in God, devotion to your work, and doing your very best for the best sake every time. "Whatever ye do, in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus," "with good will doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men."

By the grace of God I am your servant for Christ's sake.

The Recent Family—Order of Cincinnati.

EDITOR JOURNAL—We have seen Mr. J. D. Myers' communication respecting the birth-place of his ancestor, Major Reading Blount of the Continental Army. It is a matter of little consequence in what county he was born; he was a North Carolinian and we are proud of his record. He was a good citizen and discharged his duty to his country well and faithfully in the dark hour of her history. Though he and his excellent wife have been long numbered with the dead, their many virtues have been transmitted to their posterity for several generations. It is a very laudable desire on the part of Mr. Myers to revive the order of The Society of the Cincinnati, but unfortunately, owing to the second article of the constitution of said Society, Mr. Myers cannot become a member; that honor belongs only to the oldest male descendants.

The article second reads as follows: "To perpetuate therefore as well the remembrance of this vast event, as the mutual friendships which have been formed under the pressure of common danger, and in many instances cemented by the blood of the parties, the officers of the American Army do hereby in the most solemn manner associate, constitute and combine themselves in this society of friends, to endure so long as they shall endure, or any of their eldest male posterity, and in the failure thereof, the collateral branches, who may be judged worthy of becoming its supporters and members."

In order that your numerous readers may know something of this ancient society, I will briefly relate its origin. It was first suggested by the fertile brain of Major-General Knox, and Gen. Washington acquiesced in the proposal, with the hope that their long cherished friendship of the officers of the army might be perpetuated. The third article reads as follows: "The officers of the American Army having generally been taken from the citizens of America, possess high veneration for the character of that illustrious Roman, Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus, and being resolved to follow his example, by returning to their citizenship, they think they may with propriety designate it the Society of the Cincinnati."

The army was then on the verge of disolution, as proposals for peace had been made and accepted. It was organized in 1783 at the house of Sam'l Vanplank, near Fishkill landing on Hudson river, the headquarters of Baron Steuben, who presided at the meeting. George Washington was its first President. He was succeeded by Alexander Hamilton, who was killed in a duel in 1804. In the year 1848 Gen. Dearborn was the eighth President.

[From N. C. Teacher]
The North Carolina Chafanqua.
FIFTH DAY.
MONDAY, June 15, 1885.
The regular work was resumed promptly at 10 o'clock, President Lewis in the chair.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Prof. D. L. Ellis, of New Berne.

The question for consideration this morning was announced from the black-board as "How to Keep the Little Ones Busy," and the discussion was opened by Mr. W. F. Talley, of Asheboro. He said that the best plan which he had ever tried was sending the little people to the board as soon as they had finished their lessons. Let them spend the time in drawing simple objects, the teacher giving them occasional hints in the right direction.

Miss Rachel Brookfield, who teaches the primary class in the New Berne Graded School, said that she depended greatly upon the black-board, and found it very useful.

Miss Fannie Cox, of Winston Graded School, said it depends largely upon how much preparation the teacher has given to this work. The teacher should have a bright, happy disposition, and her enthusiasm will be reflected in the children. She has found that calisthenics will aid the teacher very much in keeping the little ones at work. Put them to drawing some animal on the board, and encourage competition in skill and they will keep themselves busy.

Miss Mamie Caldwell, of Greensboro Graded School, specially endorsed the "drawing idea" and recommended White's drawing books as best adapted to the purpose, in connection with the plates which accompany them.

Miss Clara Whitaker, of Enfield, said that the little ones must be complimented and encouraged in their work to make them most attentive to it.

Rev. A. E. Morgan said that it was well to make the children proud of themselves and ashamed to be called a bad boy or bad girl, and they would then try to keep constantly improving.

Dr. A. N. Van Dael, of Burlington, Vermont, being introduced to the Assembly, was cordially welcomed to all its privileges and pleasures. The Assembly, then enjoyed a familiar and most delightful talk from this elegant gentleman. He specially emphasized the connection between the English and other languages. His words were attentively listened to, and his manner attracted to him every member of the Assembly. His regular course of work begins on Wednesday by a series of lectures upon the "Natural Method of Teaching Languages."

The discussion of the morning was a good one, and threw light upon a subject which has perplexed teachers more than any other part of school-room work. The result of the discussion seemed to centre on the idea that the little people must not be pushed in their work, but every means should be employed towards making their study appear to them as play, thus fixing their attention and laying the basis of future application.

Adjourned till tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

The commissioners with the magistrates proceeded to elect a board of education for Onslow county. The following named gentlemen were put in nomination: E. H. Sandlin, George E. W. Ward and Charles Gerock, Jr.

A Little One Was Spent.

Mr. Z. A. Clark, of Atlanta, Ga., in speaking of the above amount was spent in a fruitless effort in finding relief from a terrible Blood Poison affecting his body, limbs and nose—presenting ugly running ulcers. He is now sound and well, having been cured by the most speedy and wonderful remedy ever before known, and any interested party who may need a Blood Purifier will learn from him that three bottles of B. B. restores his appetite, healed all ulcers, relieved his kidneys, and added twenty-one pounds to his weight in thirty days.

Scrofula.

I have had hereditary scrofula broken out on me for eight years. My mother and one sister died with it, and I, supposing that I would go as other members of the family had, had despaired of life. The treatment of mercury and potash seemed to aggravate instead of curing the disease. In this condition I was pressed to use Swift's Specific. After taking six bottles the fearful ulcers on my neck and arms disappeared and the scars only remain to remind me of my sufferings. Had I taken S. S. S. at first, I would have been a well man long ago. FRANK GILCHER, Danville, Ky.

Eczema.

I was affected for nearly four years with eczema. The doctors called it at first erysipelas. I was treated by physicians. I used about thirty bottles and have had no trouble with it since. I refused to take it, even after it was recommended to me by others, for some time—such was my prejudice to the name of it; but having tried it myself, I now believe it is the best blood purifier in all my knowledge. It did another thing for me. I had suffered from piles for many years. Since taking this medicine I have been relieved, and believe it cured me. E. H. JONES, Cartersville, Ga., Aug. 25, 1884.

My daughter, seven years old, has been afflicted with eczema for two years, and after trying other remedies in vain, I gave her Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), and one and a half bottles cured her sound and well. It is the best blood remedy in the country. MRS. M. S. JUDKINS, Cedartown Mill, July 23, 1884.
