The new Judge is a fine specimen of the well kept legal gentleman, and dispenses law with a readiness at once pleasing and satisfactory to litigants, while the scales of stice will be equipoised in his hands. appointment that should not have been made and an appointment that would not have been made if the President had been fully cognizant of all the facts. The appointment is credited to the county of Hyde, when in fact Mr. Wahab is not a citizen of the county and has not lived there for three years. He is a citizen of New Berne and has lived there and done business there and made that his domicile for three years. Now this substitution of Hyde for New Berne is a fiction and an acknowledg-ment that the appointment was due to There will be a game of baseball to the second, and is that from which played on the Fourth between the first played of the Fourth between the first and second nines of this city somewhere beyond End street.

The steamer Trent took a good crowd of young ladies and gentlemen down the river last night on a moonlight trip. Sorry we were unable to accompany them. Another party went out also South end of the District from which foundation is laid for two brick stations in the First Congressional district in the centre of it. Upon the our representative who is a young mem-ber and not supposed to have established the influence of older members of our delegation who it is said favored Mr. Wahab. We are not now discussing the appointment from the view of personal fitness. We understand there were applicants besides Mr. Wahab—

Stark, of Norfolk, Va., and others but there were doubtless many others from the central portion of District No. 6, and from the first Congressional District who would have been pleased to hold the appointment. To summarize, the appointment of Mr. Wahab was an cotten blosom and from the sprig unjust appointment, an inconvenient upon which it hung we think it of a appointment, a discourteous appointment, and an appointment that should which it hung we think it of a ment, and an appointment that should not have been made. We speak not of the qualification of the applicants. They were probably all qualified. But it is see good results.

There is another error in the matter of appointment. It is not a Presidential appointment but of the Secretary of the Treasury. We do not think the question of districts a material one except in the proper division of the offices and in that respect it certainly goes to the right district if it was not-deemed expedient to return the appointment to Virginia from whence it was removed after the death of Mr. Guthrie and where the appointment of Mr. Starke would have taken it.

When our esteemed cotemporary of the Economist becomes better acquainted with Capt. Wahab, he will doubtless see the injustice of imputing any unfair methods to him in his effort to obtain the appointment. And we are fully satisfied that no one will more readily grant it than our genial friend, Bro. Creecy. He was, as he should have een-if the facts that he supposed, had existed-warmed up a little, and in contending for his own district and the rather than find fault with him. But we think he will see that there is no ground for complaint, as there was nothing done but what was legitlmate and proper by either Capt. Washington, June 29.—Senator Gorman called upon the President today with Senator Vest, of Missouri, to certify to the democracy of a gentleman who is a candidate for an appointment in one of the Territories. It appears that appointment was not only inconvenient it, but simply for the honor that goes and unjust but it was discourteous to with it. Senator Vest is an ardent supporter of the applicant, and has on several occasions warmly indorsed him to the President. It appears that some one called upon the President and informed him that Senator Vest's friend was not a democrat, and therefore should not be appointed. As soon as the Missouri Senator heard of this charge he requested Senator Gorman to state to the President whether or not the gentleman was a Democrat. The Maryland Senator said to the President that as soon as this gentleman was in-formed that the presidential campaign would be close and exciting, and that a large fund would be necessary, he authorized the chairman of the National Democratic committee to draw on him for any amount up to $20,000. The allusion to prairie mud was in bad taste, but we leave the Western man to devise a plan of removing that from his boot heels, by a vigorous application of the toes to something about Washington, which he no doubt understands.

A lady had spread a table cloth upon the ground and had placed thereon a very tempting dinner for herself and a number of lady friends who appeared to be her guests. The food was rich and was her guests. The food was rich and was prepared with the care and taste of an excellent housewife. Among other eatables was a nice boiled ham, but fate decreed that it should not be for their eating, for while the attention of the ladies was called away for a moment, along came a long-need, flop-eared hog one of those regular Columbus county gazelles—and, without stopping to say with it. Chase was given to the thieving brute, but he could outrun any biped on the ground, and as he was one of those hogs that knew when he had a good thing he held on to the ham and escaped into the bushes.
