MORE ABOUT THE RICE QUESTION.

The New York importers of "rice meal or granulated rice," are not satisfied with the recent decisions of the Appraiser of the New York Custom House and of Assistant Secretary FAIRCHILD. They have been to Washington and presented their claims, but not obtaining any satisfaction, are now making an effort to get in more testimony on the subject before the collector at New York. That our readers may thoroughly understand the nature of this case and see how it affects the rice growers in this section, we have taken some little trouble to examine it and have arrived at the following conclusion:

By a decision of the department in 1883 rice meal or granulated rice, sifted from the whole rice or ground into meal, and which is used by brewers in the manufacture of beer was admitted at 20 per cent ad valorem as an unenumerated manufactured article. Under this decision broken rice began to be imported, mixed with the meal, which was sifted out after the duty had been made and put upon the market along with other broken rice. By so doing, they pay 20 per cent ad valorem on what they should pay 24 cents per pound. To be plain, they import broken rice in such a way as to pay a duty of one-half cent per pound instead of two and one-quarter as the law requires, thus enabling them to sell this imported broken rice at a less price than our home production can be made. Furthermore, the practice has caused closer screening of rice so as to separate every particle of broken rice if possible from the whole. Every rice miller knows that it is to their interest to allow all the broken rice to go in with the whole that it will bear as the value of the broken is thus enhanced. But these importers, so long as they can bring in the broken rice as meal and pay only 20 per cent ad valorem will screen it as close as possible and by this means lessen the duty on that which is admitted as the cleaned rice of commerce.

The duty on rice was levied, we presume, not only for revenue, but to protect and encourage its production in the United States. The manner in which it has been evaded is robbing the producers of this country of their rights as well as the government of its revenue. Every farmer in this section that makes a bushel of rice to sell has been robbed by the manner in which this duty has been collected. The Department is trying to correct the error and the farmers should unite and demand its correction.

But why should the present Collector at the port of New York hesitate longer to enforce a law so plain? Why stop to hear testimony why rice which under the law should pay 24 cents per pound should be admitted at one-fifth that rate. Is he not bound to obey the law? Is there any reason for further testimony when the Department at Washington has construed the law and made it so plain that he who runs may read? Assistant Secretary FAIRCHILD has clearly set forth his views to the Collector of Customs; what more is needed!

THE COTTON MOVEMENT.

From Remittance.

The market during the week showed a distinct rally in the values of options generally, but especially on the months of the old crop year. The very low point to which the latter months' options had been sold last week caused a sort of nervous feeling to arise which induced heavy buying and a consequent heavy advance in the months named. The advance began on Tuesday and the values continued in rapid upward motion till Friday, when a reaction set in. The course of prices is best shown by following the course of July futures since last week. This month's delivery closed at 9.96 last Friday night. On Monday it had fallen to 9.32, but rallied to 10.01 on Tuesday. On Wednesday it advanced to 10.28, and Thursday showed a further advance to 10.37. On Friday a reactionary feeling exercised some influence, and it receded to 10.20, closing at that price Friday night. The advance from the closing prices of last Friday to those of this week were on July and August fully 33 points. A sympathetic advance was shown by September of 17 points, but the rest of the new crop year advanced an average of about 5 points.

Spot cotton showed an advance, closing at 10c. for middling uplands, against 10 1/2c. last week. The total future sales this week were 574,200 bales, against 480,200 bales last week. Spot sales amounted to 4,082 bales, against 5,250 bales last week.

The receipts at ports this week were 2,194 bales, as against 1,972 bales last week, and 2,739 bales the same week last year. The total receipts since September 1 were 4,696,493 bales, as against 4,749,533 bales at the same time last year.

The following comparative figures are given to July 24:

|                          | 1885.     | 1884.     |
|--------------------------|-----------|-----------|
| Visible supply           | 1,646,045 | 1,978,201 |

The Philadelphia market has ruled quiet but closes steady on a basis of 10c. for middling uplands.

Bradstreet's New Orleans special says: "Although the favorable condition of the growing cotton crop has continued a heavy weight in the situation, nevertheless the squeeze in August at New York imparted considerable business to the New Orleans future market during the past few days, August advancing 23 points from the lowest figures touched this week and going 10 points higher than last Thursday week. Septembers also went up in sympathy 8 points, and Octobers, Novembers and Decembers 5. Spots are unchanged and firm. The general movement was small."

"Why is it that such persistent anathemas should all at once be hurled against the use of 'Potash and Soda'?"

Those who insist that Potash is a poison do so because that is the way they have of fighting it. B. R. is the latter contains potash properly combined.

Opium, morphine, strychnine, acetate, whisky, etc., are all deadly poisons, and are daily destroying the lives of people, and why do not these men cry out against them? It is because there is no money in it to them so, because that is the way they have of fighting it. B. R. is the latter contains potash properly combined.

ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 20, 1885.

DR. BRADFIELD: Dear Sir—Some fifteen years ago I examined the recipe of Female Regulator, and carefully studied authorities in regard to its components, and then (as well as now) pronounced it to be the most scientific and skillful combination of the really valuable remedial vegetable agents known to science, to act directly on the womb and uterine organs, and the organs and parts sympathizing therewith, and thereby providing a specific remedy for all diseases of the womb, and of the adjacent organs and parts.

Yours truly,
