The hot wave is still here. The Lodge hopes to begin manufacturing ice by Saturday.

The schooner Sarah Mudgett and Havana are on Howard's ship railway.

The crowd at Ally Baker's store every evening makes it resemble a fashionable summer resort.

A boat load of extra fine watermelons was at the market dock yesterday. They were from Swift creek.

The recent rains have laid the dust and made the streets of New Bern pleasant drives again.

Four cases of disorderly conduct before the Mayor yesterday. They were discharged on payment of cost.

Crab fishing is a favorite pastime on the wharves now. Occasionally some very fine soft crabs are taken out.

We notice several barrels of Irish potatoes on the Old Dominion wharf—an indication that our truckers are still shipping.

Several of our young men attended a reception at the Atlantic Hotel on Tuesday evening, given by our townman Jas. A. Bryant, Esq.

The Democrats of Virginia met in convention at Richmond yesterday to nominate a candidate. Elizabeth Lee, John H. Saylor, and Phillip W. McKinney are the prominent names before the convention.

A gentleman in the city took a ride into the country some ten or twelve miles a day or two ago and says it is really astonishing to see how the crops have improved during the hot wave. Corn and cotton are clean and growing rapidly.

Good crowd for Morehead City last night. We noticed among them Sheriff Tomnell and daughter of Hyde, Miss Credle, Bill Humphrey and Charles Hollister of New Bern, J. A. Honahan and wife of Pat county, J. W. Millard and Dr. J. L. Nicholson of Richards, Onslow county.

Personal.
A. W. Haywood, Esq., of Raleigh, and B. O. Burton, Esq., of Halifax, were in the city yesterday on professional business.

Mr. Geo. H. Roberts has returned from a visit to Buffalo Bill's Buffalo, Va. and was in his place at the National Bank yesterday, looking much improved and in his usual good humor.

Messrs. B. L. Francks, J. W. Mills and Dr. J. L. Nicholson, of Onslow county, were in the city yesterday. They say the crops have improved very much lately, and we consider this news very reliable, as neither of these gentlemen want goods on time. Mr. Francks tarried in the city while the other two went down for a bath.

The Pullman car.
When the train arrived from Morehead City yesterday morning Conductor Rutherford took a JOURNAL reporter through his car and showed the convenience and comfort they give which are well nigh to perfection. The car is run on six trucks with paper wheels and there is not the slightest jolt to the passengers while it is in motion; indeed, one enjoys as much ease and comfort while traveling in this car as if he was in his own private parlor.

These ladies and gents' dressing rooms, comfortable lodgings, electric bells, a linen closet, in which are kept the towels and sheets, not one of which is allowed to be used more than once before being washed, a heater, danger cords, etc.; in fact there is every comfort that one would wish even as his own home. In one end of the car is a private drawing room handsomely furnished and large enough to accommodate four persons. This is so arranged that persons passing to the main room of the car do not have to pass through it as there is a passage-way at one end.

It is hard to conceive how passengers can be made more comfortable than in one of these cars. By their use traveling has been made a pleasure, and what is better there is a seat in one of these cars for one cent as much as one elsewhere. Only twenty-five cents extra from Morehead City to New Bern, and 50c. extra from Morehead City to Goldsboro.

Conductor Rutherford says the business so far this season with his car on this road has been satisfactory.

MURDER IN JONES COUNTY.

On Monday evening last Alex. Simmons, colored, was found dead in Mr. J. B. Banks' cotton field in Jones county, about twelve miles from this city. His body was found in front of and about half a mile from Mr. Banks' house in the field. The coroner was notified and an inquest was held, the jury returning a verdict that he came to his death by wounds from a shot gun in the hands of some unknown person.

Simmons is supposed to have been killed on Sunday evening about dark, as the report of a gun was heard and the flash seen in that direction. He was missed on Monday morning, but no alarm was given until his body was accidentally found by some one passing on Monday evening. Lot Murrill, a colored man living about half a mile from the place of the murder, has been suspected, arrested and lodged in jail. It seems there was some difficulty between him and Simmons about Murrill's wife.

NEWS FROM GOV. JARVIS.

MOUTH OF THE AMAZON RIVER, June 26, 1885.

We are now ascending the mighty Amazon and in about three hours we will be at the city of Para, where I will mail this. We have had a most delightful trip, a fine ship, a polite, skillful captain, a smooth sea and a number of agreeable passengers. Mrs. Jarvis has stood the voyage splendidly and I am glad to say she had almost absolute exemption from that terrible sea sickness which she anticipated. Instead of the burning heat I expected, we have had it cool and all the time pleasant. The sun is now far to the north of us. We have passed under him and have left him far behind us and still we have experienced no weather that was at all uncomfortable. In fact, I am sure we have been more comfortable than you have been in Raleigh, for there has not been a moment of our time when we felt like taking off a coat or vest to make us more comfortable, and I doubt if you can say this. I dwell upon this fact because it has been such an agreeable surprise to me. So cool was it last night when we crossed the equator that some of the passengers got their overcoats and wraps. Think of a man with an overcoat on at the equator! It is contrary to all of my preconceived notions of the equator. Last night was a beautiful moonlight night and our splendid ship glided over the bright moonlit waters with a grace and a majesty that was enchanting. The Southern Cross stood before us, high up in the heavens, in all its beauty and brilliancy. I walked the deck of our gallant ship and thought of home and friends, of State and country. May heaven's choicest blessings be with them all.

I mentioned we have crossed the equator. If you will look at the map of South America you will see that Para is about one degree south, and so is the south bank of the Amazon, along which we are now sailing and steaming at a good swift speed. We are not more than two or three miles from the land to the south of us. Out to the north of us the river stretches away for a hundred miles and more before land can be seen except here and there a few small islands, which stand out in the river. So the great empire of Brazil is now in full view and in a few hours I shall stand upon its soil and shall hope that my four years' stay within its borders will be pleasant to me and profitable to my country. We will probably leave Para about night and point our prow oceanward again. We stop at three other places in Brazil before we reach Rio, and those stoppages, together with our long distance ahead of us, will keep us on our journey for two weeks more. Para is about eighty miles up the river, and from Para to Rio is about twenty-two hundred and fifty miles. This will begin to give you some idea of the vastness of this great empire. While we have quite a distance to travel, the worst of the journey is over, for we will soon be running along the coast and making frequent stops at large and interesting cities. We have been wonderfully blessed during our whole voyage with delightful weather and a smooth sea, but the captain tells us his rarely ever has any worse than this trip has been. If this be so, our sight-seeing people could not take a more pleasant and interesting trip than this. We ran for two days just along the West India Islands in the Caribbean sea, within a few miles of the islands, and there too I met with a great surprise. Instead of the low lands we are accustomed to on islands, the lands on these are from one to five thousand feet high. While passing along by these islands the water was so placid as a lake, while up from this placid sea shot these mountains, clad in perpetual verdure. Nothing could be more wonderful or beautiful. Truly, Tros. J. JARVIS.

BRINGING MAXWELL BACK.

St. Louis, July 26.—Detectives Tracy and Badger, who went to Auckland for Maxwell, who murdered his comrade here and pitched the body in a trunk, left New Zealand with their prisoner on July 21, and are now homeward bound on the steamship Zealandia. The trial, which will take place at the fall term of the Criminal Court, will be very interesting. Already a number of the most distinguished lawyers in the State have volunteered to defend the prisoner, and are of the opinion that he will not be hanged.

AN EPISODE OF THE WAR RECALLED.

An Order from Gen. Grant which Secretary Stanton Dared Not Disobey.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Senator Morgan, of Alabama, this evening, in speaking of the magnanimity of Gen. Grant, related the following, of which he was personally cognizant: Clement C. Clay, said he, was appointed by the Confederate Government as a Diplomatic Commissioner to Canada. He was afterwards taken, and carried, I believe, to Fortress Monroe, where he was imprisoned. He was dying at the time, it was thought, of asthma, and his wife came here to ask his release on giving the required bond. She went to President Johnson, and he gave her the necessary order, which she took to Secretary Stanton. Stanton read the order and, looking her in the face, tore it up without a word and pitched it into the waste basket. The lady arose and retired without speaking; nor did Stanton speak to her. She was filled with despair. She saw her husband, in whom her life was wrapped up, dying in prison and she was unable to help him.

Shortly after she met a gentleman, I think Mr. Garland, the present Attorney-General, and told him how she had been treated. "Your husband was commissioned by the Confederate Government a Brigadier General," said Garland. "I was present at the time. I know that he duly qualified and received his commission. That brings him within Gen. Grant's parole to the Confederate Army. You go to him and tell him the story." Mrs. Clay went straight to Gen. Grant's house, but was told that the General was just about to leave for New York. She asked to send in word to him, and the servant took her name. In about a minute Gen. Grant appeared, gripsack in hand, and told her that he had but time to catch the train.

"Then I will walk with you, General," the lady said.

"No, no," said Grant, "let's hear what you want to say."

"Then I must make my statement short," said Mrs. Clay. "My husband is in prison and will die if he stays there. President Johnson gave me an order for his release on bond. I carried the order to Secretary of War Stanton. Mr. Stanton tore the paper up before my eyes and cast it away."

Grant rung his bell and Badeau entered. "Have you a roster of the Confederate army?" said he.

"Yes, sir," answered Badeau.

"Is there a Gen. Clay?" he said, as he took the roster.

"Clement C. Clay. Is that your husband?"

"Yes, sir."

Gen. Grant sat down and wrote as follows: "Gen. Clement C. Clay, of the Confederate Army, is included in the parole of that army granted by me at Appomattox. It is my order he be released on giving the proper bond, and I shall see that this order is carried out."

"U. S. GRANT, Gen. U. S. A."

Grant handed the order to Mrs. Clay and bade her good-by. The lady went to Mr. Stanton and presented the order. The Secretary tapped his bell and, handing the paper to his aid, said: "Have that man discharged."

Gen. Grant to be Buried in Riverside Park, N. Y.

Mt. McGREGOR, July 28.—The day broke bright and on the mountain passed without event until 10 o'clock, when the train arrived at the summit. Col. Fred. Grant was one of the passengers upon it. He proceeded at once and alone upon his arrival to the cottage, his brother Jesse having remained behind. The Colonel immediately repaired to his mother's apartments, where the family gathered to hear the result of the Colonel's trip to and conference in New York. He detailed his movements and explained that there seemed to be reasons for the choice of a burial spot in some other than Central Park. Riverside Park had, at the time of Gen. Grant's death, been suggested as the spot of interment, and it seemed best to the Colonel, after seeing and hearing all, to change the place of the sepulchre to Riverside Park. The matter having been thus presented to the family the conclusion was reached in accordance with the Colonel's suggestion, and he at once dictated the following dispatch:

Mr. McGREGOR, July 28.
To W. R. Grace—Mother, take Riverside Park. The temporary tomb had better be at the same place.

F. D. GRANT.
Mr. McGREGOR, July 28.
To Gen. R. McFeely, Washington, D. C.:—Mother today accepted Riverside Park. She wishes me to thank you for the tender of Soldiers' Home.

F. D. GRANT.

Fire Bags in Russia.

LONDON, July 26.—The incendiary fires which have become common in Russia appear to have a deeper significance than usual. Four of these fires occurred in Moscow yesterday and last night. They were all started in such places that the wind would invariably carry the flames over a large area. The buildings selected for destruction were mostly warehouses filled with dry goods and furs. The fires were very effectively fought by the Moscow fire department, which is primitive in its methods and apparatus. The loss by the fires was enormous, and the additional damage by smoke and water amounts to millions of rubles.

These fires, like most of those that have recently started in Russia, began in unoccupied warehouses or in business places where all lights and fires had been extinguished for hours. But few arrests have been made, and the most careful investigation has failed to find the evidence usually left behind by incendiaries. The officials are convinced that this wholesale arson is a new terrorizing movement by the Nihilists, ## and that they have invented some new combustible which will spread fire quickly. The police say the Nihilists have adopted this new plan because it is attended with less danger to the culprits than their old plan of murder, and is equally effective in spreading terror among the people.

The householders of Moscow are now in nightly terror. Many families appoint one member to watch all night, and to give the alarm to the rest on the approach of a conflagration. Almost every one provides a bucket of water or some other appliance for extinguishing an incipient fire before going to bed. The police are baffled thus far, but they say they have confessions from some of the arrested culprits, which will enable them to trace and crush the conspirators.

NEWS FROM THE OLD WORLD.

LONDON, July 26.—An article in the Moscow Gazette, reported to have been inspired by the Czar, declares that Russia has reached the furthest limits to which she desires to go, and that the Government considers its ventures in Central Asia at an end. Russia, the Gazette says, fears nothing so much as the condition and growth of an unwieldy territory. The Czar is anxious to secure a solid frontier, within which progressive works of civilization may be carried on. A Russian commercial commission has been appointed to study trade movements and means of communication between Trans-Caspian territory and Afghanistan and Persia.

LONDON, July 26.—A fearful wave of heat now extends over the whole of the United Kingdom. In London the effects of the long spell of torrid weather are appalling. Every one is more or less affected. Children are dying by the hundreds, scores of men are prostrated by sunstroke each day, and the roads are often blocked by horses suddenly falling dead. A new terror is added by the prevalence of hydrophobia. The streets are absolutely unsafe, owing to the number of mad dogs running at large, and many persons who never carried weapons before are now buying revolvers.

LONDON, July 26.—The Radical newspapers are abusing the Prince of Wales for going in for a racing stud. They refer to the many scandals which have lately been exposed in connection with the turf in England, and insist that the man who expects to be the next King of Great Britain should not defile himself in such a dirty puddle. They also recall the career of that royal blackleg, King George IV., and express the hope that the blackguard taint in the Hanover blood will not be exhibited in the person of the next sovereign.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—Lord Salisbury has renewed the proposal that Russia should withdraw her troops from the advanced positions in the Zulicar Pass, in order to avoid a possible conflict with the Afghans. Russia will agree to the proposal on the condition that the Afghans be restrained from occupying the positions vacated by the Russian troops. Such occupation will be the immediate signal for a Russian advance.

LONDON, July 26.—It is no longer doubted that the Mahdi is dead. A special agent of the late insurgent, who has often been sent on confidential missions to the Egyptian Government, has arrived at Cairo, and has fully confirmed the report that El Mahdi died of disease on June 23. The agent says, however, that the warfare will be carried on as vigorously as ever, and will reach Upper Egypt by the end of this year.

LONDON, July 26.—The Irish party are furious over Mr. Bright's remarks at the Spencer banquet, denouncing his language as a breach of privilege of the House. Several members of the party propose to demand the Speaker's attention to Mr. Bright's speech as a breach of privilege. This feeling is taken as marking a still wider divergence growing into actual enmity between the Liberals and the Nationalists.

LONDON, July 26.—M. Lesser called at the Foreign Office on Friday and examined, with Messrs. Bourke and Currie, topographical details of the territory between Zulifar and Akrobat, which it is proposed to neutralize during the boundary inquiry.

LONDON, July 26.—Final arrangements were made yesterday between the Foreign Office and Rothschild and Blochschoder of Berlin to issue the Egyptian loan. The coupons are payable where the loan is issued, at London, Paris, and Berlin.

MADRID, July 27.—Returns from all but five of the cholera-infected districts in Spain, place the number of new cases of the disease, yesterday, at 2,913, and of deaths at 919. The contagion has spread to the province of Logrono, where several cases have already occurred. The troops stationed in the city of Saragossa, where the disease is now raging, have been supplied with guitars to keep up their spirits. The music of these instruments can be heard day and night.

LONDON, July 28.—Sir Moses Montefiore, the well known Hebrew philanthropist, who in October last celebrated his 100th anniversary, his birthday is dying.

LONDON, July 28.—Sir Moses Montefiore is dead. His death occurred at Ramsgate at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Taking Care of the Body.

The Christian Index, the leading organ of the Baptist Church in the South, published in Atlanta, Ga., in its issue of Dec. 4, 1884, has the following editorial: "Too many people seem to think that a religious newspaper should be confined to the discussion of moral and religious subjects only, forgetting that religion has to do both with the bodies and souls of men. 'Prove all things, hold fast that which is good,' has as much to do with the physical side of life as it has with the moral side. Our readers will bear testimony that in all questions discussed in the Index, the practical has been duly set forth. In this paragraph, therefore, we only seek to present an ## article worthy of commendation. After subjecting it to the above test we have tried Swift's Specific and found it good—good as a blood purifier, good as a health tonic. In this opinion we are sustained by some of the best men of the church. Rev. Jesse H. Campbell, the Nestor of the Baptist denomination in Georgia, says: 'It is my deliberate judgment that Swift's Specific is the greatest blood purifier ever discovered. Its effects are wonderful, and I consider them almost miraculous. There is no medicine comparable to it.' Dr. H. C. Hornady, one of the best known ministers in our church, says: 'Swift's Specific is one of the best blood purifiers in existence.' These brethren speak advisedly. But few preparations can bring forward such endorsements. The Index desires only to endorse these statements. We have witnessed the beneficial effects of this medicine, not only in our own households, but in several other cases where seemingly all other remedies had failed. It is purely a vegetable compound, scientifically prepared, and perfectly harmless in its composition. It renews the blood and builds up broken down systems—gives tone and vigor to the constitution, as well as restores the bloom of health to the suffering. Therefore we do not deem it inconsistent with the duties of a religious journal to say this much in its behalf.
