Farmer Allen's Suspicion.

"I suppose you all have heard of old Farmer Allen. He was a great temperance man, you know. Well, thirteen years ago we all went to camp at Portland. One terribly hot day we had a clambake, and in the tent was a big barrel of champagne punch, strong punch, too. Allen came along very hot and very thirsty, and looking at the tent saw the barrel of punch.

"Hello, boys got some lemonade, haven't you?" said the man.

"Yes," replied the boys, winking at each other; "help yourself." The farmer went in, took one glass, snatched his lips, took another and liked it so well that he wanted more. In a little while he came out of the tent looking very rosy and very unsteady in his movement. He reflected a moment and then said:

"(Shay, boys (hic), tash almighty fine (hic) lem' made in tash bar (hic) rel; but (hic) don't you think (hic) it tashs (hic) a little mite of the staves?"—Boston Gazette.

NOT MADE IN POLITICS.—"Didn't Senator Horsey make his money in politics?"

"Why bless you, no. Politicians never do. Supporting their party, and devoting time and attention to their political duties is a serious financial tax upon them.

"Don't they get rich?"

"Oh, yes; but not out of politics."

"There's Horsey, for instance. I'll guarantee politics have had thousands of his money. If it was not for running across a job now and then to dig a canal, or sell old boats, or build new ones, or stock mail routes for the Government, politics would ruin lots of people."—Pittsburgh Telegraph.

DIFFICULTIES.—Wait not for your difficulties to cease; there is no soldier's glory to be won on peaceful fields, no sailor's daring to be shown on sunny seas, no trust or friendship to be proved when all goes well. Faith, patience, heroic love, devout courage, gentleness are not to be formed when there are no doubts, no irritations, no difficulties.

A fond father presented his four-year old boy with a trumpet, with which he was greatly infatuated. All day the boy tooted away delightedly, and at bedtime, when his grandmother prayed, the little fellow said: "Oh, no; I'll tell you what let's do, grandma; you pray and I'll keep on blowing."—Tro Times.

ST. NICHOLAS

FOR YOUNG FOLKS.

ATTRACTIONS FOR 1884-5.

No printed periodical can take the place of a pastor, or school-teacher, but a good magazine can supplement their work and influence to a wonderful degree. In view of this, it is not extravagant to say that—instead of "Can we afford to take St. Nicholas?"—the question of every earnest household in English-speaking countries, to-day, should be "Can we afford NOT to take St. Nicholas?" The magazine, during its eleven happy years of existence, under the editorial charge of

MARY RAPES DODGE.

has grown familiar to hundreds of thousands of young readers; and their interest and intelligent enjoyment have constantly inspired the editor and publishers to fresh effort. To-day, its strength, in its wholesome growth, its sympathy with young life, its hearty recognition of the movement of events, and its steadily increasing literary and pictorial resources. The following are some of the good things already secured for future numbers of St. Nicholas:

- "His Own People," a serial story for boys, by the popular author, J. T. Frowbridge.
- "Personally Condemned," illustrated papers on famous places in Europe. By Frank R. Stockton.
- "Heterogeneous Girls," a companion series to "Historic Boys." By E. R. Brooks.
- "Ready for Business," suggestions to boys about to choose an occupation, based on personal interviews with prominent representatives of various trades and professions. By G. J. Hanson.
- "Driven Back to Eden," a serial. By E. R. Brooks.
- "Talks for Young Folks," a series of popular papers, by E. R. (Helen Jackson).
- "Among the Law-makers," recollections of a boy-page in the U. S. Senate, containing much political information, both instructive and amusing. By Edmund Allen.
- "Gary and the Goblins," a very funny serial story by a new writer, Chas. Garry.
- "Short Stories by Louisa M. Alcott."
- "The Progress of Invention," descriptive papers, by Chas. E. Dolan.
- "Art Work for Young Folks," papers on decorative handicrafts, by Chas. G. Leland.
- "Sheep or Silver?" a story of Texas life. By the late Rev. William M. Baber.
- "A Garden of Unity," some six short stories for girls, by the Leading Writers.
- "Tales of Two Centuries," stories of adventure, by E. R. Brooks.
- Special Papers by "The Leading Writers."
- "Cartoons for Boys and Girls," funny pictures, by St. Nicholas Artists.
- "Famous Men in History," brief, painted biographies of some of the world's greatest men.

1885. Harper's Magazine, ILLUSTRATED.

With the new volume, beginning in December, Harper's Magazine will conclude its thirty-fifth year. The oldest periodical of its type, it is yet, in each new volume, a new magazine, not simply because it presents fresh subjects and new pictures, but also, and chiefly, because it steadily advances in the method itself of magazine making. In a word, the Magazine becomes more and more the faithful mirror of current life and movement. Leading features in the attractive programme for 1885 are: new serial novels by Constance Fenimore Woolson and W. D. Howells; a new novel entitled "At the Red Glove," descriptive illustrated papers by F. D. Millet, R. Swain Gifford, E. A. Abbey, H. Gibson, and others; Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," illustrated by Abbey; important papers on Art, Science, etc.
