TOO LATE TO SPEAK OUT.

The Asheville Citizen, speaking of the progress of the Superior Court of Buncombe county, said in its issue of last Friday:

So far, very little has been done to justify the demand made for additions to the facilities for obtaining justice. The escape of a number of prisoners who were to have been tried at this term, and the prompt disposal of two other criminal cases early in the week, brought the civil docket up for action—to find nobody ready; and yesterday, the day set for taking up that docket, was comparatively an idle day, nothing to do, and the judge at liberty to appear on the streets, or attend to his own affairs. It was no fault of Judge Gudger that he was idle. He was at his post, ready patiently to give his time and learning to the causes coming before him. The bar is at fault that there was confusion in the consideration of the calendar, in that they were not ready for business, and that consequently precious time is lost or wasted.

This course is a rebuke to the zeal and the judgment of those who urged an increase of judges and an increase in the duration of terms. If the favor granted by legislation, at considerable increase of cost, is to be trifled with, it will not be difficult to create a reaction of public sentiment. Justice must be made to move faster with the facilities accorded to it, or there will be a clamor raised that must be heeded. Of course there must occur some cases to which unavoidable delays are presented. There are exceptions to which everybody will submit. But the whole current of justice need not be obstructed or delayed.

Commenting upon this, the Statesville Landmark says:

This is the first gun. If the whole press of the State had spoken out something after this fashion last winter, there would have been no increase in the number of judges by the Legislature. We undertake to say, as we said six months ago, that in a year from now this legislation will be seen to have been a great mistake. Twelve months hence a two weeks term of court in Iredell county, for instance, will be found to be a perfect drag, and so with other counties in which the number of terms of court has been increased. But our friends of the Citizen are too late speaking. If it and a few more influential papers had joined The Landmark, the Charlotte Home-Democrat and the Davie Times last winter, when we were protesting against this thing, our combined strength might have induced a halt in the matter of the increase of courts and judges. It is too late now.

Now the editor of the Landmark is a very level headed man, and we think if he will reflect a moment he will agree that the time for "speaking out" was further back than last winter. Had the press of the State always insisted that the judges should hold court six days in the week or until every case was disposed of, then, perhaps, there would have been no necessity for an increase of courts and judges. The JOURNAL, while published at Kinston by its first editor and proprietor, who has now "passed over the river," spoke out in unmistakable language on this subject, but the members of the bar and a number of influential newspapers in the State, promptly came to the relief of the judge and denounced the position of the JOURNAL as unjust and uncalled for. Knowing the influence that we would have to combat by thus "speaking out," and knowing that the criminal docket in many counties were so crowded that civil suitors could not get that speedy hearing guaranteed by the Constitution, and knowing too that our judges, if they performed their duty faithfully, were worked too hard for the pay they were getting, the JOURNAL insisted, and we do still insist that there was an absolute necessity for an increase of courts and judges in order to secure to the people their rights under the Constitution.

We do not pretend to say that the bill redistricting the State and increasing the number of judges passed at the last session of the General Assembly exactly meets the requirements of the case. The increase of courts is out of proportion to the increase of judges. We have heard more than one judge say that they had more work now than before. There are not too many judges, though there may be too many courts, and we know the districts are not properly arranged. If the next General Assembly will abolish some of the courts and let the number of judges remain the same as now, arrange the districts properly, the convenience of the people being the object in view, and then if the newspapers will "speak out" and insist that the courts shall be kept open for the full term, there will be no mistake.

It is a very easy matter for a judge who has been almost continuously absent from his family for ten months to obtain the sympathies of the bar, and this done, many cases on the docket are continued that would otherwise be tried.

Buzzard Bears.

Our county (Tyrrell) is so full of bears that everything that makes a noise becomes at once a bear and we are afraid that "bear Basnight" has retired from business and all the bears have found it out.

Last week, Ad. Meekins was building a boat in the swamp in Gum Neck township and he was run away from his work by bears four different times, so he stated when he came out running, puffing and panting. At length he laid the matter before Lem. Basnight, a veteran bear hunter of renown and a cousin german of the blood. Cousin Lem. thought there were too many bears up a tree and called a council of neighbors to whom Ad. related his bear story with all its dramatic incidents. So the neighbors, all armed with trusty shot guns, rendezvoused at Meekins' working ground. They looked around, sided around and smelt around. No bear! They faulted Ad. and they jawed him considerable. But he said wait. Let me go to work. Wait and see! The bears will come when they hear my saw. He went to work—Saw, chip, rip, rip, rip. Soon there came a flapping and a snapping, only that and nothing more. Lem. Basnight cried, "to arms." Surround enemy. Cock guns." The order was instantly obeyed. They drew in their lines, closer and still closer. When lo! a buzzard, a young buzzard, in a hollow log, trying to fly. And Ad. Meekins came to grief and shame and derision, and he vowed he'd never run again until the bear he saw.—E. City Economist.

Deaf and Blind.

How an Atlanta Woman Was Made to See and Hear.

AN INTERESTING STORY.

Miss Mamie Wallace resides with Mrs. George Fickland, 41 McAfee street, Atlanta Ga., and from her own lips a Constitution reporter learned the following appalling story.

Several months ago she became almost totally blind and deaf, and could not taste anything, except salt. Her bones became the seat of intense pain, her joints were swollen and painful, and eventually her whole body and limbs became covered with splotches and small sores. Her appetite failed, and she gradually lost flesh and strength, and had so little use of herself, as her limbs and muscles were paralyzed.

All treatment from physicians and the use of medicines seemed powerless. Her disease was blood poison and rheumatism.

As she now seemed well and hearty the reporter asked what wrought such a wonderful change.

"A medicine recommended by a friend," was replied, "and before one bottle died been taken I began to see and hear. The second bottle relieved all rheumatic pains and improved my appetite. When I had completed the use of six bottles my eyesight and hearing were fully restored, sense of taste returned, all splotches disappeared, sores all healed, and my strength and flesh restored.

"What was the medicine?" asked the reporter.

"Botanic Blood Balm—B. B. B.—was the great remedy that acted so powerfully on my disease and cured me. I never experienced any unpleasant symptoms from its use, and its action is so quick that it surprises all."

The reporter then sought a physician who knew the case, who upon him he handed us the following letter:

"I examined the above case of blood poison and rheumatism, before and after being cured, and certify to the main facts as above stated, and more particularly that the B. B. B. effected a most wonderful cure in this well-known case.

[Signed] "J. P. DROMGOOLE, M. D."

Mother's Friend

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY.

The time has come at last when the terrible agony incident to this very critical period in a woman's life can be avoided. A distinguished physician, who passed the greatest portion of his life (forty-four years) in that branch of practice, left to child-bearing woman this priceless legacy and life saving appliance, "THE MOTHER'S FRIEND," and to-day there are thousands of the best women in our land who, having used this wonderful remedy before confinement, rise up and call his name blessed.

We receive letters from every section of the country thanking us for placing this preparation in the reach of suffering woman. One lady from North Carolina writes us that she would like to thank the proprietors on her knees for bringing it to her notice, as in a previous confinement she had two doctors, and they were compelled to use instruments, etc., and she suffered almost death; but this time she used "MOTHER'S FRIEND," and her labor was short, quick, and almost like magic. Now, why should a woman suffer when she can avoid it? We can prove all we claim by living witnesses, and any one interested can call, or have their husbands do so, at our office, and see the original letters, which we cannot publish.

This remedy is one about which we cannot publish certificates, but it is a most wonderful liniment to be used after the first two or three months.
