School Committee.

We publish today a communication from "A Colored Citizen" in reply to the article several days ago on the appointment of a separate school committee for the colored school of this district.

This "Colored Citizen," or the writer of his communication, denies that the selection of teachers caused any disturbance among his people.

What actions of said committee do you state with disapprobation? Did "Colored Citizen" ever hear of the "Indignation Meeting"?

Is the negro a man? He certainly is physically, and he has the right of suffrage and never fails to exercise it.

As to the law quoted by the writer of "Colored Citizen's" communication that it is correct, and these separate districts are formed for the whites and blacks, there should be a separate committee.

"It is he only (the negro) that is interested," says the writer of "Colored Citizens" communication. This is not true.

We regret to see that a portion of the colored people do not appreciate the efforts of the white people to educate and improve their condition.

For each white and each colored school district, there shall be elected biannually, by the county board of education, of the respective counties, on the 1st Monday, &c., a school committee.

We do not ignore the idea of not having white men to preside over our schools; nor would we have if under stood that we are prejudiced as regards racial relations.

It is an old proverb used among the French; namely: Shoes alone know if the stockings have holes.
