THE JOURNAL.

H. S. HUNN, Editor. NEW BERNE, N. C., SEPT. 29, 1885.

THE cotton crop of the South will evidently fall short of the estimates made a month ago.

JOHN SHERMAN, it is said, acknowledges his blunder in stirring up the Southern question in the Ohio campaign. The pork and mule men of Cincinnati are afraid their trade with the South will be damaged by it, and they will help to rebuke the instigators of this fresh display of bloody shirtism.

BEECHER has repented and returned to the Republican fold. He sees no reason why the Independents of New York should not vote the straight ticket. Now if the BUTLER Democrats and others who went astray in New York last fall will follow the example set by Mr. BEECHER, and vote the straight ticket, things will be getting right in New York and CLEVELAND need no longer feel grateful to the Mugwumps.

ONE of the first things to do in the Northern States when a man is put up for office is to hunt up his record on the labor question. The Democrats in New York have got the start on the Republicans in this respect this year as they have already found that IRA DAVENPORT is an enemy to the workingmen. But the same demagoguism over the poor man and the laboring man exists in every State. It seems to be an essential element in American politics.

THE New York Republicans in their platform condemn Mr. CLEVELAND'S Administration for removing Republicans from office. This is the thanks he gets for re-appointing PEARSON and retaining a host of other Republicans in office in New York. Now let "Honest Civil Service Reform," the kind that Democrats contemplated in their platform adopted at Chicago upon which GROVER CLEVELAND was elected President, begin in earnest. The Democratic party will be held responsible for the manner in which the affairs of the government are administered for these four years. Reason, justice and common sense demands that they shall fill the offices, and if the party fills them with incompetent and disreputable men the people will turn it out and try another.

DO AS YOU PLEASE.

The Wilson Advance is quite right in its onslaught on the mortgage system. It says:

"The mortgage business is simply ruinous. People who use mortgage as a planter will grow weeds and poverty. North Carolina has been very much injured by the lien system. Farmers pay a ruinous interest when they go into this business. It ought to stop, and until it does there will be no positive recuperation and improvement.—Smithfield Herald.

This is the advice that newspapers are continually giving the farmers. Don't mortgage! Don't mortgage! Yet they fail to tell him how to buy what he wants without a mortgage, unless it is to subscribe for a newspaper. These same editors who give this advice send their papers broadcast over the country on a credit and without security. It is their privilege to do this if they choose, and it is the farmer's privilege if he has a piece of property and wants to realize on it to mortgage it if he sees fit. Let every man exercise his own judgment over that which is his own.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

New York World. WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—John Sherman's friends say that the Senator now regrets having brought up the Southern question as an issue in the Ohio campaign. He realizes that it was a mistake, and that this blunder will probably lose the State to the Republicans. The vote in Hamilton county alone against Foraker on this issue should be large enough to elect Hoadly. The bulk of the trade of Cincinnati is the South. The Cincinnati merchants have been given to understand that a revival of the old trades against the South means simply a loss of so much business. Struck at in the mortal part of their pocket-books, these Cincinnati merchants will work very hard without any question of party to rebuke the Republican management, so that all of their Southern customers will see that they have no sympathy with that sort of thing. It is said that Sherman brought out the Southern outrage question as an issue for the purpose of firing the hearts of the people of the Western Reserve. The people of this peculiar section of Ohio are very reserved, cold and constrained. They are very much like the ancient Puritans. It takes a good, brisk fire of partisan hate to warm up their blood to action. Of late years they have been very indifferent in Republican campaigns, and have always needed some special incentive to bring them out and get them to take an interest. It is among these people that the Prohibitionists find their most numerous recruits. The Western Reserve Republicans are cold, sour, narrow-minded men, who have furious impulses of energy only when they are engaged in the delightful task of hating or tearing some one who does not come up to their ugly standard of superlative goodness.

Statuary Hall, in the Capitol, the old House of Representatives, is becoming even now crowded. Within the last ten years space has been given here to various States that wish to place in the Capitol statues representing their leading men who have acquired national fame. The last addition to the collection is the statue of Gen. Garfield, presented by the State of Ohio. This is the work of Niehaus, a Cincinnati sculptor, who has been educated abroad and whose talent deserves the task assigned him. The Garfield statue is one of the best of the modern additions. It represents Garfield's figure as it really was. There is no attempt to idealize him in any way. He is standing in an easy pose with his head in the position of a man about to address an audience. The weight of the body rests upon the right leg. The many wrinkles and curves in this suit give numerous lines of ease, and take away very much from the stiff appearance of the ordinary attempts to render modern dress in marble. This figure, if it lacks anything, is in the head. This seems to not have Garfield's character, although the likeness is fairly good.

The figure recalls a piece of gossip I heard the other day of the early history of Miss Ransom, an artist in this city. She is the painter of the portrait of Gen. Thomas which has been before Congress for so many years. She was born in Ohio. She was a great friend in early life of Mrs. Garfield. Miss Ransom became engaged during her residence in Ohio to one of the wealthy citizens of the little town where she was brought up. He was an eccentric property owner given to whims and caprice. He broke the engagement without any good reason and Miss Ransom sued him for breach of promise. She obtained a verdict of ten thousand dollars. This money she used to educate herself as an artist. She went to Europe and remained for some years. When she returned she established her studio here and at present occupies a very successful position as a portrait painter.

A Philadelphia capitalist who is here says that if the true life of Keely, the motor man, could be written, it would prove to be one of the most romantic stories of imposture ever known. He says that several years ago, when Keely's great claims began to be talked about in Philadelphia, he made an investigation for his own satisfaction into Keely's past. He thought that he could judge better by his record as a man than by trying to talk with Keely about his mysterious motor. He found that just before coming to Philadelphia he was a performer in a circus and that he had nearly all of his life made a precarious living by performing slight-of-hand tricks. He is a man of no education, and is absolutely destitute of any scientific acquirement. He says that Keely has gone to work, however, very skillfully, and has learned the jargon of an extensive scientific vocabulary. He has about eight hundred of these words and phrases at his tongue's end, and he can turn the rapidity and certainty with which he tosses these words and phrases into his general conversation. Keely has one gift, he says, which is great enough to be called genius, and that is his skill in bugging people. He has great power by mere talk of setting aside all doubt as to his ability and to influence people to let him have money in the most rickless confident way. Nearly all of his present backers are New York men. Every now and then these backers become despondent and get together and go over to Philadelphia. Then Mr. Keely gets up a slight-of-hand performance for them, talks to them in his peculiarly gifted way, and the trusting capitalists go back buoyed up with hope, fully confident that they are backing one of the great inventors of the age. Keely has never invented anything, this gentleman says, except stories, and will never give any other dividend upon the capital invested in him beyond that of romances and diversions in the shape of occasional slight of hand performances.

CURIOUS FRENCH-CANADIAN WEDDING CUSTOMS.—After the morning marriage service in the church, the bridal party in caleche or cariole make a tour of calls upon relatives and friends through the day, and then again to church for vespers. Before the evening dance at the bride's new home comes the supper. When they rise from the table the bride keeps her seat and some one asks in great dignity: "Why does madame wait? Is she soon in bad grace?" She replies: "Somebody has stolen my slipper. I can't walk." They carry her, chair and all, into the middle of the room, while a loud knocking announces a grotesque, ragged vendor of boots and shoes. He kneels before the slipperless bride and tries on a long succession of old boots and shoes of every variety and size till at last he finds her missing shoe. The groom redeems it for a good price, which is spent in treating the company. If the groom is not watchful they steal her hat and cloak, which he redeems in the same way, and they have been known to steal the bride, for whom he must pay most liberally. The church forbids round dances, so they content themselves with contra dances. The event of the evening is a jig.—Correspondence Boston Advertiser.

A RARE CHANGE For a Good Farmer.

The Plantation known as the CALVIN PERRY PLACE, two and a half miles from New Berne, on the Trent road, is offered for sale, CHEAP FOR CASH. It contains eight hundred acres, seven hundred of which are cleared. It is well adapted to the growth of corn, cotton, and every variety of truck. A splendid dwelling and outhouses beautifully located. Two tenant houses; a fine orchard and vineyard, which alone, owing to convenience to market, will support a small family. This plantation is drained by Trent river and Jimmie's creek, and extends to Trent road, is splendid for stock raising. A rare chance for investment. For particulars address Mrs. J. Deaf and Blind.

How an Atlanta Woman Made to See and Hear.

AN INTERESTING STORY.

Miss Minnie Wallace resides with Mrs. George Fickland, 11 McAfee street, Atlanta, Ga., and from her own lips a Constitution reporter learned the following appalling story.

Several months ago she became almost totally blind and deaf, and could not taste anything except salt. Her bones became swollen and painful, and eventually her whole body and limbs became covered with spots and small sores. Her appetite failed, and she gradually lost flesh and strength, and had but little use of herself, as her limbs and muscles were paralyzed.

All treatment from physicians and the use of medicines seemed powerless. Her disease was blood poison and rheumatism.

As she now seemed well and hearty the reporter asked what wrought such a wonderful change.

"I used a medicine recommended by a friend," she replied, "and before one bottle had been taken I began to see and hear. The second bottle relieved all rheumatic pains and improved my appetite. When I had completed the use of six bottles my eyesight and hearing were fully restored, sense of taste returned, all spots disappeared, sores all healed, and my strength and flesh restored.

"What was the medicine?" asked the reporter.

"Botanic Blood Balm—B. B. R.—was the great remedy that acted so powerfully on my disease and cured me. I never experienced any unpleasant symptoms from its use, and its action is so quick that it surprises all."

The reporter then sought a physician who knew the case, whereupon he handed us the following lines:

"I examined the above case of blood poison and rheumatism, before and after being cured, and certify to the main facts as above stated, and must acknowledge that the B. B. R. is a most wonderful cure in this well-known case."

Mother's Friend

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY.

The time has come at last when the terrible agony incident to this very critical period in a woman's life can be avoided. A distinguished physician, who passed the greatest portion of his life (forty-four years) in this branch of practice, left to child-bearing women this priceless legacy and life-saving appliance, "MOTHER'S FRIEND," and to-day there are thousands of the best women in our land who, having used this wonderful remedy before confinement, rise up and call his name blessed.

We receive letters from every section of the country thanking us for placing this preparation in the hands of suffering women. One lady from North Carolina writes us that she would like to thank the proprietors of her knees for bringing it to her notice, as in a previous confinement she had two doctors, and they were compelled to use chloroform, instruments, etc., and she suffered almost death; but this time she used "MOTHER'S FRIEND," and her labor was short, quick, and almost like magic. Now, why should a woman suffer when she can avoid it? We can prove all we claim by living witnesses, and any one interested can call or have their husbands do so, at our office, and see the original letters, which we cannot publish.

This remedy is one about which we cannot publish certificates, but it is a most wonderful liniment to be used after the first, two or three months.
