THE JOURNAL. NEW HERNE, N. C., JAN. 2, 18:6.

A Bear "Bird." In the days of seridom in Russia, a tyrannical master sometimes paid rather dearly for his cruelty, as the following incident bears witness. A Russian proprietor once caused a man who had offended him to be locked up in an iron cage, and kept him confined in it for sometime.

At last, while the proprietor was absent on a journey, the case of his wretched prisoner came to the knowledge of the governor of his province. The governor caused the man, cage and all, to be brought to the government town. He also despatched a messenger to inter-cept the tyrannical proprietor on the road, with an invitation to din-

This, the proprietor, flattered by the courtesy, accepted very willingly, and presented him at the government house at the appointed time.

There was a curious custom in Russia at this time of keeping quails as songsters, whose notes were greatly admired by connoisseurs in the peculiar fancy. The governor was famous for his collection of these singing birds,—the dinner was very good, and the company merry.

Black Cashmeres, 36 inches wide, all woot for 50c.

"Very well, Excellency; if the bird is not too dear, I will buy him of you."
"Bring in the quail," said his Excellency to the attendants.

A very ordinary bird, in a wooden case, was introduced. "Now, I want to sell you that bird for ten thousand roubles," said the

The guest could not understand the joke, but declined the bargain, If You Are Going to HOUSE as he thought the bird a little too

"Well," said the governor, 'I will show you a better bird than that, and I think you'll buy him." "Have the other quail brought Folding-doors flew open, and the iron cage, with its miserable captive Tea Set, 44 Pieces, was set down before the astonished proprietor. "Now," said the governor, "what do you think of that for a quail! Fine Toilet Sets, But this is a very expensive bird; I want twenty thousand roubles for him!"

"All right," said the alarmed proprietor; "I will buy this one. Send him down to my house without the cage, and your messenger shall bring back the amount."
