BUSINESS LOCALS.

Job work executed with neatness and dispatch at the JOURNAL office.

Steamer L. H. Outler will make weekly trips to Vanceboro, beginning Monday, January 23rd, 1886. Shippers will please send their goods to N. & T. R. Co. warehouse by 8 o'clock Monday morning.

A good, gentle, family horse for sale. Apply to S. W. SMALLWOOD.

Real Estate Mortgages and Deeds for sale at the JOURNAL office.

All who have tried our 10c. hams say they are as good as any in market. HUNTER & HOWARD.

Chattel mortgages and Lien Bonds for sale at this office.

Dr. Duffy's residence, on Middle street, has been re-covered.

The city council was in session last night but no business was transacted.

The steamer Florence is again on the route between this city and Vanceboro.

Mrs. Susan J. Dudley is preparing to build two tenement houses on Broad street.

A large quantity of cotton is now on the platform. The expected rise in price is rather backward.

The Seaside Telephone has failed to reach us this week. Hope it has not been transformed into a clam.

Lewis Washington has succeeded in transferring the stables of Mr. T. J. Mitchell from Graves street to Neuse street.

The "Jewels" were holding an extra session (executive we presume) yesterday over a three bushel basket of Nelson Bay oysters.

Rev. Mr. Brill is as busy as a bee looking after his bees. He made a ten mile trip in the country and returned yesterday on foot.

The schooner Henrietta Hill was at the Flanner wharf yesterday unloading a cargo of dissolved bone for E. H. Meadows & Co.

The California Minstrels will not appear at the theatre tonight as was expected, but the Kellogg Concert will be on hand tomorrow night.

General Ransom wants to know the whereabouts of Thos. Brown, a colored laborer who worked with the Neuse and Trent River improvement forces in 1834-35.

Capt. Frank Bell, with his schooner Yarnia was at the foot of Craven street yesterday discharging a cargo of thirty-one bales of cotton from Sladesville, Hyde county.

Mr. Wan Erwin says we were in error about carrying the weights of the main and secondary rods and brickbats in weighing meat, etc. But was it not his duty to say so?

Mr. Jno. C. Green shows us a hens egg which weighs 4 ounces, measures 7 inches in circumference one way and 5 inches the other. It was hatched by a half-bred and Cocoin's hen. Must be some gas about it.

Cottage prayer-meeting, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, conducted by the missionary committee at Rev. Mr. Hearn's, corner of Spring and Pollock streets, this (Tuesday) night at 7 o'clock.

Mr. J. A. Simpson has begun work on the new market house at the foot of Middle street. We understand that the building is an additional debt by the credit of this building as the contractor is to receive the revenue derived from the rent of stalls until his debt is paid.

Notwithstanding the very disagreeable weather, Judge Clarke's funeral was attended by a large number of our citizens on Sunday evening. The services were conducted by Rev. Y. W. Whitlock. The interment was at the cemetery. The funeral was held at 8 o'clock.

Mr. W. H. Oliver, Col. Geo. D. Whitford, Hon. C. C. Clark, Hon. A. S. Seymour, Hon. George Green, Hon. C. R. Thomas and Messrs. Henry R. Bryan and M. J. Green.

The Kellogg Concert Company will be in Raleigh tonight and in this city tomorrow night. The manager has received letters for those who arrive on the special train from Kinston and other points. Seats in the gallery can be secured at Meadows' drug store at 10c each, and the management assures that good order will be preserved in the gallery and no one need be afraid to sit in there. Standing places on the lower floor will be charged liberally in the gallery, seventy-five cents.

PERSONAL.

Capt. John B. Broadfoot, of Fayetteville, is in the city.

Mrs. L. J. Moore and two children left yesterday morning for Charlotte to see her mother, Mrs. Dr. B. F. Terry, who was reported quite sick. After the train had left Mr. Moore received a telegram from Charlotte announcing the death of Mrs. Terry.

Rev. J. W. Jones and wife, of Morehead City, are in the city.

A New Novel. A new novel, The Master of L'Es-trange, by Eugene Hall, is just out. It is a thrilling and absorbing work in which love, mystery and the supernatural play important parts. The scene is laid in the western part of this State, though that does not prevent the introduction of an old-fashioned aristocratic families. The plot is complicated and exceedingly ingenious, leading the reader on from page to page with an irresistible charm. The romance is fascinating, the language good, and the tone moral throughout. The Master of L'Es-trange is published in large, clear type, bound in morocco cloth for $1.25, in paper cover for 75 cts. T. B. Peterson & Bros., of Philadelphia, are the publishers.

A small colored boy has been stealthily slipping lead pencils and other articles from Mrs. Susan Stanly's book store on Pollock street. The police force are on his track and will doubtless bring him to justice. Idleness will cause many of these boys roaming about the streets to fetch up at the penitentiary. If they have no parents, they should be bound out to some good man who will put them to work.

A telegram was received from Charlotte by L. J. Moore, Esq., yesterday morning announcing the death of Mrs. Dr. B. F. Terry, the mother of Mrs. Moore who was en route for Charlotte at the time the telegram was received.

DIED.
January the 23d, of paralysis of the brain, Hon. William J. Clarke, aged 66 years.

Judge Clarke was born in Raleigh, N. C. Aug. 23, 1819, graduated at Chapel Hill and entered on the practice of law in his native place. At the beginning of the Mexican war he entered the U. S. A. as Captain of Infantry, was severely wounded at the battle of the National Bridge and breveted as Major for gallantry in that and other actions, "served till the close of the war, when he was pensioned by Congress.

In 1848 he married a daughter of the late Thomas P. Devereux and resumed the practice of his profession in Raleigh, forming a law partnership with Patrick H. Winston, afterwards Supreme Court Reporter. He was for several terms of the Legislature elected State Comptroller or Auditor, which office he held until his removal to Texas in 1857, on account of the health of his family. He resided in San Antonio until the beginning of the late civil war, when he returned to North Carolina and was appointed Col. of the 24th N. C. Regiment, in which capacity he served during the war. He was severely wounded at the battle of Drury's Bluff, having his shoulder blade shattered by a fragment of shell. He was captured by the Federal troops before Petersburg and held a prisoner in Fort Delaware till after the close of the war. Shortly after which he settled in New Bern, where he resided till his death.

He was elected to the State Senate in 1870, but did not take his seat, resigning it on his appointment as Judge of the Superior Court, before the meeting of the Legislature.

He was a ripe scholar, a genial and courtly gentleman of the old school, and made and kept many warm friends who will regret his death.

FOREIGN.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE—DEEDS OF VIOLENCE THREATENED.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—If the National League is proclaimed in Ireland the central executive of the organization will be located in England.

The St. James Gazette says it is known that there is a resolute body of men behind the more peaceable members of the Irish National League, who are determined to resort to violence unless the demands of the Parnellite party are conceded by Parliament. It is also known, says the Gazette, that even among the Irish members of the House of Commons there are several employees of O'Donovan Rossa. The government is aware that miscreants have elaborated plans to perform deeds of violence, and that they have selected a particular part of England in which to ply the knife and pistol, discarding dynamite, which the alleged plotters regard as a blundering medium.

DUBLIN, Jan. 22.—The Freeman's Journal says: "The Queen's speech opening Parliament yesterday was an opportunity, attempt to please both the Irish parties. It lay a tendency to propitiate the stronger party and dispirit the loyalists."

The Irish Times says: "The declaration of the Queen that the union shall not be broken is an anchorage for the loyalists. The wisdom of Parliament will settle the rest. The force of the constitution has been disarmed."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINDLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

BRIEFS.

A malignant type of diphtheria is prevailing in Berks county, Pa. Recent sickness in Florida has been attributed to eating frozen oranges.

Work penetrating the Nanticooke mines is still being vigorously pushed, in hopes that some of the sufferers may yet be reached alive.

Another encounter has occurred between the strikers and officers at Mount Pleasant, Pa.; about fifty shots were exchanged, though but little damage resulted.

Congressional Work.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Senate not in session.

HOUSE—Mr. Herbert, of Ala., from the committee on naval affairs, reported back the Boutelle resolution, calling on the Secretary of the Navy for information relative to alleged erasures of certain inscriptions and the dismissal of Union soldiers at the Norfolk Navy yard, with an amendment extending the inquiry to dismissals made at the Navy Yard and Lighthouse district at Norfolk during the terms of the immediate predecessors of the present Secretary of the Navy.

This report brought on the most exciting political debate that has been presented to the House during the session. Mr. Boutelle made a speech against the amendment in which he complained of Union soldiers being turned out of office and ex-Confederates being put in. He flaunted the bloody shirt, wept over and bewailed the fact that the Southern people wanted to perpetuate the noble and daring deeds of their countrymen, and protested against the "morbid sentimentality."

Mr. Wise, of Va., was glad that he had an opportunity to make a statement of facts, although he had hoped that the subject of this resolution would not have been discussed until the information had been received from the Secretary of the Navy. The gentleman from Maine (Boutelle) on more than one occasion had sought to revive the passions and prejudices of the war. He (Wise) would examine how much of truth there was in the statement of these resolutions. The Secretary of the Navy was called upon to report if any tablet had been destroyed at the Norfolk Navy Yard which commemorated the fact that the dry dock at Portsmouth had been destroyed. He was glad of the opportunity to inform the gentleman from Maine that the dry dock at Portsmouth had never been destroyed. [Applause on the Democratic side.] The gentleman asked the Secretary of the Navy if the inscriptions had been removed from cannon captured from the Confederate army. He would inform the gentleman from Maine that no cannons with such inscriptions had ever been in the Portsmouth Navy Yard. [Applause on the Democratic side.] The gentleman from Maine wanted to know if a Union soldier had been discharged and a Confederate put in his place. He would inform the gentleman from Maine that the man who was discharged had never been in the Union army; had never been within a thousand miles of the line of battle; had never heard the music of a minnie ball. [Applause and laughter on the Democratic side.]

Mr. Boutelle—"Did he not render great service to his country?"

No, sir," replied Mr. Wise. "He, sir, was in receipt of a large salary in a bomb-proof position while brave men fought the battles of their country."

Mr. Brady, of Virginia, rose and asked permission to propound a question.

"No, sir; no, sir!" exclaimed Mr. Wise. "I will give my attention to you in one minute. The Confederate, or the one whom you (Boutelle) allege was appointed on account of his service in the Confederate army, was appointed after a competitive examination, and the man to whom you refer was removed for beastly intoxication. [Loud applause on the Democratic side.] One other vice I commend to your consideration. During the Arthur administration the postmaster at Portsmouth, who was a Union soldier, twice wounded and twice promoted for gallantry, was removed at the dictation of William Mahone. [Applause on the Democratic side.] Ah! Mr. Speaker. It is a good thing to raise a fuss over this, isn't it? You, fellow-citizens of Maine, (addressing Boutelle) are anxious to know if a Confederate has been appointed in the Norfolk Navy Yard by this administration. Have you forgotten that during the Grant administration and during the administration of Hayes and Arthur, you sent a captain of Confederate guerrillas to represent the country of the United States in a foreign country? [Applause on the Democratic side.] Have you forgotten that Longstreet, a Confederate Lieutenant-General, was selected by your Republican administration for the most important office in Georgia? Why is it, I will ask the gentleman from Maine, that we have not heard a howl from that ice-bound region about these appointments? [Laughter on the Democratic side.]

Does the gentleman desire a reply, inquired Mr. Boutelle.

No, sir," exclaimed Mr. Wise. "Go

read the speech of the Senator of the United States who, with all kindness in the estimation of the whole country a better man than you are. Go read the speech of Charles Sumner, of Mass."

"If Charles Sumner knew that his magnanimous suggestion would be quoted by you for such a purpose he would turn in his grave," exclaimed Mr. Boutelle amid much confusion.

"Go," continued Mr. Wise, "read the speech of Charles Sumner, of Mass. If I mistake not he was the first in the country who declared, some fifteen years ago, that the time had come for peace, and that the bitter memories of war should be removed, and mark the contrast between the leader of the Federal army and the gentleman from Maine. The last words spoken by that great leader, on his dying bed at McGregor, were that he thanked God that he closed his eyes on the world believing that peace had returned to a distracted country. [Applause on the Democratic side.] And yet, the halls of legislation are to be annoyed by the back-biting of such men as the gentleman from Maine. Now, Mr. Speaker, I want to say one word more to him. While we sit here and vote pensions to our soldiers,"

"Our soldiers," exclaimed Mr. Boutelle.

"Yes," replied Mr. Wise, "our soldiers we are in the house of our fathers, and we have come to stay. [Applause on the Democratic side.] While we are ready and willing to vote pensions to the honorably discharged soldiers who served the country in time of war, we will never consent that it shall be held and proclaimed on high that one who happened to have been in the Confederate army is forever debarred from the service of his country. I protest that these honorable soldiers of the Union army shall never again be subjected to the treatment they were subjected to under the last administration, when the men who had fought bravely for the Union, under a circular bearing the name of William Mahone as chairman and James D. Brady, present member of this House, as secretary."

"There was no such circular," interrupted Brady. "I challenge him to produce the circular."

"When," continued Wise, "not noticing the interruption, they were required under the whip of the master, to give money for partisan purpose, required like slaves to hold their ballots up that their bosses' minions might see whether they voted right. Oh! what an attitude in which to place a discharged soldier of the Union under the whip and lash of a Confederate brigadier! Loud and continued applause on the Democratic side and in the galleries."

At this point the Speaker brought down his gavel, and declared that Mr. Wise's time had expired.

Mr. Barnum, of Pa., was immediately on his feet, asking unanimous consent that Mr. Wise's time be extended, in expectation that if this were done a similar courtesy would be extended to Mr. Boutelle to reply, but the Democrats were wary and comprehending that Mr. Wise had been cut off in the most telling part of his speech, and its effect might be weakened by the addition of further remarks, responded to the suggestion with a storm of objections.

Mr. Wise took his seat and received the hearty congratulations of his party friends.

The resolution, as amended by the committee on naval affairs, was then adopted; and at 3:30 the House took a recess until 7:30—the evening session to be for the consideration of pension bills.

The Doctor's Secret.

Probably no new development will more surprise the public, than to learn the secret of success of certain leading physicians. When they have a difficult case of throat or lung disease that baffles their scientific skill, they prescribe Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, having it disguised in a prescription bottle, with their own direction and name attached. The patient is cured, and they get the credit.—Tribune. Sold by all druggists.

NEWS BY RAIL.

DYNAMITERS AT WORK—BLOODHOUNDS ON THEIR TRACK.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 23.—Cartersville, the county seat of Bartow county, is in an intense state of excitement. Last night some desperate characters placed a dynamite cartridge on front of the veranda of the United States Commissioner Collins' residence, on Church street, and caused its explosion. This morning a telegram reached Atlanta, requesting immediately a pack of bloodhounds, stating that dynamiters has been at work and escaped. A reporter of the Constitution went to Cartersville; and reports that the explosion knocked the veranda to pieces, splintered the weatherboard, shattered the window glasses and seriously shocked Mr. and Mrs. Collins. The explosion awakes every body in town, and the wildest excitement prevailed. To be Jackson and his brother, Sam Jackson, were quickly suspected, because the Commissioner had just bound the former over for violating the internal revenue and local anti-liquor laws. Pursuit was organized, and Sam Jackson is now in jail. To be Jackson is still at large, and is being chased by bloodhounds.

A NEW ATLANTIC COAST LINE.

A special from Raleigh, N. C., to the New York Tribune says that Jas. Work, H. T. Faxon, A. A. Gaskell, James McManes, John Barsley, W. H. Goodwin and R. M. Evans, all of Philadelphia, have composed the syndicate who recently purchased the Jamesville and Washington Railroad. They will at once begin laying this road with new fifty-pound steel rails, and will run two trains a day from Jamesville to Washington. They are also interested in the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad. They contemplated making running arrangements with the Norfolk and Western Railroad, and to apply for a charter from Buckland, in Giles county, to Jamesville, and from Washington to Goldsboro, and from thence to Wilmington. This is a fight on the Atlantic Coast Line.

The first American inscription upon the obelisk, now standing in Central Park, New York, will be: "Use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cents."

The Atlanta Constitution.

In a long article relating to the B. B. B. of that city, says:

The Blood Balm Company started one year ago with $100.00, but to-day the business cannot be bought for $50,000. The demand and the satisfaction given is said to be without a parallel, as its action is pronounced wonderful.

We are glad to announce that our druggists have already secured a supply, and we hope our readers will supply themselves at once.

It is said to be the only speedy and permanent blood poison remedy offered, giving entire satisfaction in all cases before one bottle had been used. For Blood Diseases, Kidney Troubles, Scrofula, Catarrh, old Ulcers and Skin Diseases, try one bottle of B. B. B.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died, in Newbern, on Saturday, Jan. the 23d, A. D., 1886, Judge William J. Clarke, in the 66th year of his age.

In the breast of but few men throbbled a more kind heart than was that of Judge Clarke's. His pen was ever ready to comfort the afflicted, his ear was ever open to the cry of sorrow and his hand always ready to assist the distressed.

A large number of our citizens assembled at his late residence on Sunday afternoon to pay the last sad tribute of respect to his memory.

The impressive services of the Episcopal services were read by Rev. Mr. Shields and his remains were taken to Cedar Grove Cemetery for interment.

Let his many good traits of character shine before men as examples worthy to be followed.

"Just as I am—without one plea,
But that thy blood was shed for me,
O Lamb of God, I come."
