THE JOURNAL.

NEW BERNE. N. C., FEB. 8, 1886.

Mr. Garland's Example.

The unfortunate position Attorney-General Garland occupies through the ownership of his speculative Telephone stock caunot be changed by the pleadings of per-sonal friends or the mendacity of paid partisans. The truthful rec ord is before the people-a just if exacting jury. It did not need the admissions of Dr. Rogers to make it clear that the stock of the Pan-Electric Telephone Company was given to the prominent Senators and politicians named to obtain inflaence, prestige, and aid in political and official quarters.

At the time they accepted the git of the stock Mr. Garland and Mr. Harris were Senators of the United States.

Mr. Garland's position is the more unfortunate because when tendered a seat in Mr. Cleveland's Reform Cabinet he accepted it and became Attorney-General while still retaining possession of his stock, although he must have known that as the head of the Department of Justice he would be called upon to aid in the determination of a question which would make his stock worthless or raise its immediate value and give it a chance of swelling into a large fortune.

In the discharge of its duty as a faithful and fearless public journal The World has published these painful facts. It has made no "scandalous insinuations" against Mr. Garland. It has uttered no word against Mr. Lamar's action, for the reason that Mr. Lamar is in no manner or degree implicated in the ownership of stock, Eand is a gentleman above reproach or suspicion. It has not called upon the Attorney-General to resign. It has simply insisted that it is his duty to himself, to the President, to his party and to the equntry to wash his hands and make his official honor clean. We told Mr. Garland 3 four days ago and we tell him now that if he desires to retain the respect and confidence of the people he must get rid absolutely of every dollars worth of interest in this Telephone Company's stock.

Why? Not only because the general mind cannot be persuaded that his influence will not be used to promate his personal interests, but for the still graver reason that the example of his action is a great public be es clear as crystal, he must know that the effect of his position is demoralizing and pernicious to the trict-Attorney, with means raised through the influence of that office. This model official, with 2,800 nutried cases on his docket, naturally finds time to give Mr. Garland an enthusiastic support in his journal, Of course in the eye of the journalistic District-Attorney his chief had as perfect a right to be head over ears in telephone stock as the District Attorney is head over ears in his own speculative enterprise. Like master, like man. But is this a wholesome example? Are these the "business" principles upon which the public service is to be conducted! Is public office a public trust when it is thus prostituted for private gain? If a United States District-Attorney under the Department of Justice and a Reform Administration may run a political newspaper backed by men who ought to be under investigation in the District Attorney's office, an Appraiser or Collector of Customs under the Treasury Department may have a partnership interest in an importing house or have an interest in the invoices he has to pass upon. Is this Civil Service Reform Mr. Garland should sell absolutely and outright every dollar of speculative telephone stock in his possession .- N. Y. World. .

A Bemarkable Escape.

Mrs. George C. Clarke, of Port Dalhousie, Ontario, states that she had been confined to her room for a long time with that dreadful disease, consumption. The doctors said she could not escape an early grave, but fortunately she began taking 'Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and in a short time was completely cured. Doubting ones, please write Mrs. Clarke, and be convinced. Sold by all druggists.
