The cold snaps killed out the radishes, but they will come again.

The steamer Goldsboro arrived from Baltimore yesterday morning with a cargo of general merchandise.

Mr. J. E. Gadsby advertised in the JOURNAL a short time ago for purchasers of small farms near the city, and he now has an application from Dakota.

The steamer Elm City will leave New Berne for Norfolk Monday at 12 o'clock. She will sail from her wharf, foot of Craven street, and will receive freights for all points North.

The frame work of the new market house at the foot of Middle street is going up and will be pushed to completion. It will be quite an improvement on the old board shelters now used there by the retail fish and oyster dealers.

In the land suit of Dillard and Killibrew vs. Hogsan tried on Friday, Mr. Henry J. Lovick, our old county surveyor, traced a title from 1706 down to 1886. Though an old man, he is a good surveyor and knows how to trace old lines as well as titles.

A crack in one of the stoves in the Graded School building caused some of the coal to drop and set the floor on fire yesterday morning. The fire alarm was given and the fire department was out in a short time, but the flames were extinguished before the arrival of the engine. Damage but slight.

The Atlantic train was about an hour behind its time of arriving last night in consequence of waiting for the Wilmington and Weldon train at Goldsboro, which had on board several passengers for the line of our road. By this waiting the mails and passengers from the North were saved a lay-over at Goldsboro of forty eight hours.

The Last Day.
Tomorrow is the last day for redeeming bonds that have been defaulted to the State for 1885. Parties interested will take notice.

Contests and Concerts.

A cantata (Conquered by Kindness) and concert will be rendered at the Presbyterian lecture room next Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. This will no doubt be an occasion of much delight for whatever the New Berne ladies undertake, is apt to be a success. Tickets can be procured at the store of Mr. C. E. Glover.

Fire Extinguisher.

Mr. J. C. Whitty is offering a very valuable machine for sale for extinguishing fires. It is in use at the Eastern Insane Asylum at Goldsboro, in the Female College at Greensboro and many other public buildings where its merits have been tested in time of danger. Owners of hotels, theatres, steamboats and in fact, a building of any kind should examine the merits of this machine.

The Weather Prospects.

We learn from a first-class lunatic—we believe that is the scientific name for persons skilled in the signs of the moon—that the weather from this week on will be excellent, and that a good truck season is now assured. All these facts are drawn from the intimations of the moon in its different phases as interpreted by our informant. Unfortunately for us the silvery planet does not furnish any indications as the probable price of produce; but then it is so kind in her to reveal the hidden mysteries of the weather, that we should be content.

Personal.
Mr. J. B. Dawson of the Oak City Mfg Co. is in the city.

John Moore, Esq., of Greenville is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. Chas. Cooke, of Omaha, Nebraska, is visiting his sister, Mrs. C. A. Jenkins.

The Superior Court.
Court convened on Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The jury in the case of Dillard and Killibrew vs. Hogsan returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

The following cases were disposed of: H. Cohen vs. F. M. Pittman, administrator of A. L. Stern. Verdict for plaintiff.

Richard Daughety vs. Isaiah Wood. Judgment for plaintiff.

J. J. Killibrew vs. F. M. Barnes. Judgment for plaintiff.

Upon the application of Geo. W. Moore, master of the schooner W. P. Davis, which was blown against the railroad bridge some time since, damaging it to some extent, who was held in custody by a process issued upon the application of the A. & N. C. R. Co. His Honor granted a writ of habeas corpus and set the hearing for 3 o'clock, p. m. The jurors were discharged and court took a recess until 8 o'clock. Upon reassembling the sheriff returned the writ of habeas corpus and brought into court Geo. W. Moore, and W. W. Clark, Esq. opened the argument on a motion for his release from custody. Mr. Clark argued that the statute under which the prisoner was held was unconstitutional, in that it discriminated between a resident and non-resident. He cited authorities on constitutional limitations to show that the Legislature of a State could not make a law that would discriminate in its operation against non-residents. His argument was an able one and showed a knowledge of constitutional law enjoyed by few lawyers of his age.

Messrs. H. R. Bryan and Simmons & Manly appeared for the A. & N. C. R., and Mr. Simmons replied to the arguments offered by Mr. Clark. He relied upon the statute under which the defendant was held and argued that it was discriminatory, not as a fundamental principle, but only as a remedy. He had had but a few minutes' time to hunt up authorities, but relied upon this view and urged it with much force.

The motion to release was denied and the prisoner remanded to the custody from whence he came.

Court adjourned to 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Judge William J. Clarke.

At a meeting of the members of the New Berne bar, held at the court house on Saturday morning, His Honor, Judge Shepherd presiding, R. B. Lehman, Esq., acting as Secretary, Messrs. Clement Manly, H. R. Bryan and M. DeW. Stevenson were appointed to draft resolutions relative to the death of the late William J. Clarke, ex-Judge of the Superior court of North Carolina.

The meeting adjourned to 4 o'clock when the committee reported the following:

published in the newspapers of the city, and the Judge of the Court be requested to have them entered on the records of the Court.

CLEMENT MANLY,
H. R. BRYAN,
M. DEW. STEVENSON.

Mr. Manly, in presenting the resolutions, submitted a few appropriate remarks upon the character of the deceased. He was followed by Messrs. H. R. Bryan, M. DeW. Stevenson, C. C. Clark and Judge A. S. Seymour, each of whom spoke feelingly of the deceased, bearing testimony to his many good qualities, as a soldier, lawyer, judge, scholar and citizen.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted, and after the meeting had adjourned the committee presented the resolutions to the Court and His Honor ordered them spread upon the minutes.

Kinston Items.

The festival for the Methodist Church realized about $80, showing what ladies can do when they work together in real earnest.

A certain "Mrs. Smith" has lately returned to this county from Montgomery county. She was "Miss Henrietta Smith," and tells an eventful story.

Dr. Harper ran up to Goldsboro on Monday and was detained till Tuesday, examining a large assortment of dental tools from which he added several to his office.

The court house grounds are being improved. A considerable fund has been raised; and it is a sufficient guaranty that it will be well applied, to say that Rev. Mr. Harding, who has made such a remarkable improvement in our cemetery has the work in charge.

Miss Nannie Mitchell has added much to the pleasures of Kinston society during the time spent with friends in town. So great has been the sensation that a new name has been formed. Whether its existence will end with her visit or live on as an indispensable need, is not yet determined.

Do Not Be Deceived.

In these times of quick medicine advertisements everywhere, it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worthy of praise, and which really does as recommended. Electric Bitters we can vouch for as being a true and reliable remedy, and one that will do as recommended. They invariably cure Stomach and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Difficulties. We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by all druggists.

In chronic and stubborn cases of neuralgia, foot and rheumatism, use Serravallo's Oil. It is the greatest pain-dropper of the age. All druggists sell it for only twenty-five cents a bottle.

Congressional Work.

SENATE.—Feb. 11.—In the Senate today, after the disposition of the routine morning business, Mr. Edmunds said as one of the important committees of the Senate had to go to New York today, and other important committees had considerable work to do, he believed the public business would be best subserved by the adjournment of the Senate from this afternoon till Monday. He thereupon moved that when the Senate adjourn today it be till Monday. Agreed to.

Mr. Teller submitted an amendment to the Eustis resolution of inquiry regarding the refusal of the assistant treasurer at New Orleans to issue silver certificates in exchange for silver dollars. The amendment directs the Committee of Finance to inquire also into the loss of money alleged to have occurred in the New Orleans sub-treasury, and whether such loss occurred in connection with the exchange of silver certificates for silver coin. The amendment was ordered to be printed.

The Senate took up and passed, after some discussion, but without amendment, the bill to regulate the promotion of West Point cadets. The effect of the bill is that graduates become part of the army upon graduation, even though no vacancies in the service may exist.

At 2 o'clock the Educational bill was laid before the Senate, and Mr. Morgan took the floor on it. The bill, he said, was a bill to create offices and elaborate machinery of the government. It was a bill to tax the honest, hard-working man in order to educate the children of the drunken, loafing vagabond, who would not work for his family. If from the sixty million people in the United States were to be deducted all deadheads, deadbeats and non-producers, there would be about twenty million people left who would have to pay the taxes to carry out the provisions of this bill. The bill itself would be equivalent to a tax of $8.13 per capita on those taxpayers, and by the time all the officers were appointed for the administration of this scheme of benevolence, and all the clerks appointed that would be necessary to investigate the accounts of the thirty-eight States and ten Territories affected by the bill, it would be found that the tax per capita would be $10, instead of $8.13. If U. S. Senators were men who plowed fields or worked amities and paid taxes out of the sweat of their brow, Mr. Morgan could have more respect for them when voting away the money of one man to educate the children of another. Constitutional ground for the bill, Mr. Morgan continued, was said to be found in the general welfare clause of the preamble to the Constitution. Such an application of that clause simply meant that you could pull down the man that got up by his own exertions in order to put up a drunken loafer that would not exert himself. The best people in the United States today were those living in the backwoods, who, in the fear of God and having respect for the good order and morals of society, had brought up around their own footstools and hearthstones honest, sincere, diligent and faithful sons and daughters. Following this line of argument, Mr. Morgan spoke until 4:40 p. m., occasionally interrupted by Messrs. Blair, Call, and George. At that hour the Senate went into executive session, and when the doors were reopened, adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.—Mr. Reed, of Maine, offered a resolution modifying the order making the Fitz John Porter bill the continuing special order from today until next Thursday so as to provide that the bill shall not be considered until after the second morning hour on each day.

Mr. Randall endeavored to have the order further amended, so that the previous question should be ordered on Tuesday instead of Thursday, but he was unsuccessful, and Mr. Reed's resolution was adopted.

Mr. Bingham, of Penn., asked leave to introduce a bill granting a pension of $2,000 per annum to the widow of Gen. W. S. Hancock, but Mr. Beach of New York, objected.

Mr. Wiboro, of Texas, from the committee on Indian affairs, reported the Indian Appropriation bill, and it was referred to the committee of the whole.

In the second morning hour, Mr. Adams, of Ill., on behalf of the committee on banking and currency, called up the bill to enable the National Banking Association to increase their capital stock and to change their names or location. The bill was criticized by Mr. Beach, of N. Y., because of excessive verbiage, and by Mr. Anderson, of Kansas, Reagan, of Texas, and Weaver, of Iowa, upon the general ground that it conferred increased power upon national banks. The bill was passed—yeas 129; nays 120.

Mr. Adams entered a motion to reconsider and to lay that motion on the table; but the morning hour having expired final action was not taken.

The House then at 3 o'clock went into committee of the whole on the Fitz John Porter bill.

The debate was opened by Mr. Haynes of N. H., in support of the bill. Nothing new, he thought, could be brought forth in the discussion. The same old evidence so often sifted was all that was in the case now. No witnesses could be summoned who would not be recognized as old acquaintances. He could, therefore, only lay down a few general propositions in support of his views. He contended that a commanding officer at a distance from his superior, must have some discretion in obeying the orders of that superior. The commander of an isolated corps who would involve his command in destruction in blind obedience to the orders of a distant superior, would be properly branded as incompetent and unworthy. In his action Porter had fulfilled the military requirements of the situation. Whatever the condition of his troops might have been, the condition of the road had been such that no experienced officer would have placed his force of 9,000 men upon that road.

Mr. Steele, of Indiana, opposed the bill, beginning with the question, "What in the thunder are we here for? Why are we discussing Fitz John Porter?" He held that if it were admitted that Porter had not been disloyal to his country he had, at least, been disloyal to Pope, and hence his conviction was deserved.

Mr. Bragg, of Wis., defended Porter and supported the bill.

The speeches of the three gentlemen consumed the day's session.

At 4:55 p. m. the committee rose and the House adjourned.

80 Day Seed Corn.

Dear Editor:—I have a limited amount of a very superior quality of extremely large field corn which has recently been originated and which will mature in from 80 to 90 days. Ears are from 1 to 4 inches long, and has a slender cob and very fine large grains; is a marvel of beauty; 134 bushels of shelled corn has been raised per acre. I am very anxious to know what this corn will do in other climates, before advertising it for sale and will send a large sample package free to any farmer who will take good care and report his success with it and will enclose 25 cents in silver to pay postage, packing, etc., on same. Address, W. F. RUST, Springfield, Ohio. Feb 14th 1886.
