THE JOURNAL.

H. S. KUNN, Editor.
M. HARPER, Business Manager.

NEW BERNE, N. C., APRIL 21 1886.

THE employees on the New York City surface railway lines are on a general strike. Verily, this is an era of strikes.

THE U. S. Court in session at Dallas, Texas, has passed sentence upon several strikers for offences against the Texas Pacific Railway Co. This is a strike at the strikers.

SENATOR PAYNE, of Ohio, has been through the fire of an investigating committee of the Ohio Legislature and come out unscorched. It was charged that he bought his election to the U. S. Senate, but the investigation fails to prove the charge.

LABOR ARBITRATION.

Congress, in trying to provide a way to arbitrate difficulties arising between corporations and their employees, is in danger of overdoing the thing. The amendment offered to the House bill in the Senate by Mr. SHERMAN, that the arbitration commission "take into consideration and to thoroughly investigate all the various controversies that have arisen or are likely to arise between the employers and the employed, whether they be corporations or associations, or private individuals, and whether engaged in transportation, manufacturing, mining or other industrial interests in the United States," would certainly, if adopted, open up a field of arbitration, the end whereof no man can see.

It appears to us that the whole trouble arises from the inefficiency of the courts to speedily and without burdensome cost adjudicate differences between employer and employee. If a corporation or individual employs a man to do certain work at a certain price, there can be no difficulty as long as the man does the work, and is paid his money. But if the corporation or individual, the employer tries to extort more work from the employee than was contemplated in the original contract, or if by any means the work of the employee is increased beyond what was expected when the wages was fixed, he is certainly entitled to increased pay in proportion to the increase of work, unless there is a mutual agreement that there is to be no increase.

A man who is dependent upon his daily labor for sustenance for himself and family, has but little remedy against the encroachments of powerful corporations. If they demand more work without increase of pay he must succumb or lose his place, which means to take the bread from his children. If he does the additional work under protest and resorts to the courts for justice, his condition is not much better than if he had been discharged, for the cost of the suit will not only absorb his increased pay, but his original wages, while the rich corporation or individual will hardly feel it.

The commendable feature in the House bill is that a settlement of these troubles is provided for without burdensome expenses, but the amendment offered by Mr. SHERMAN is so sweeping that it would prove ineffectual, crushing itself of its own weight.

Capital is but the accumulation of labor, and the laws of the land should not allow it to oppress the laborer. On the other hand the business of the country and the laborers thereof are dependent upon capital, and the laws ought to protect it against lawlessness. There must be concession by both the capitalists and the laborers for neither can afford to oppress the other.

Orange Presbytery.

(Cor. News and Observer.)

WILSON, N. C., April 18.

The meeting of the Presbytery today has been one of very great importance, and the Presbytery was in session from 9 a. m. to 10:30 p. m., with short recesses for dinner and supper. Reports of important committees were received and discussed at great length. The first standing order for today was the report of the agent of home mission, which embraces all the mission and evangelistic work of the Presbytery. The report was very satisfactory and encouraging and was adopted. Rev. J. C. Alexander was re-elected agent of home missions. The reports of the evangelists and those appointed to do mission work occupied all the remainder of the morning session.

AFTERNOON.

Rev. Dr. F. H. Johnston made a report that he had prepared as ordered by the Presbytery several years ago, a full record of the proceedings of Orange Presbytery since 1796, the previous twenty-five years' proceedings having been lost. These records are neatly recorded in four substantial volumes of 600 pages each, and by request of the Presbyterial historical society, of Philadelphia, they will be deposited in the fire-proof building of that society, where the records of the Presbyterial churches in the United States are deposited. The next order was the report of the committee appointed at the last presbytery, consisting of Rev. T. J. Allison, Rev. S. M. Smith and ruling elder A. M. McPheeters, to report what action should be taken with the overtures sent down from general assembly for amendments to the book of church order. The committee recommended the adoption of the amendments as to presbyteries taking original jurisdiction in certain cases, and also the amendment as to ruling elders being eligible to preside as moderators of presbytery, synod and general assembly. The committee recommend that the overtures as to powers of evangelists in foreign fields be not adopted. The first and second of these recommendations elicited long and able debates, but the full report of the committee was adopted by presbytery; also an overture recommended by the committee to the general assembly, that a committee of that body be appointed to still further harmonize the book of church order as to the powers and functions of ruling elders.

The fall meeting of the presbytery will be held at Milton Thursday before the meeting of the synod, which will be about the 13th of October. The church at Henderson presented a call, with $1,000 salary, for all the time of Rev. Alexander Sprunt. The call was put into his hands. A call for one Sunday in each month by the church at Warrenton was placed in the hands of Rev. Dr. J. M. Atkinson. A call from Oak Hill church, in Granville county, was placed in the hands of Rev. Carr Moore. Nominations for delegates to the general assembly, which meets in Augusta, Ga., in May, were made, and by standing rule lie over until tomorrow.

There was a protracted discussion as to certain calls and changes in different churches. 4TH DAY—SATURDAY. The presbytery was called to order at 9 o'clock. Rev. S. H. Chester made his report on the best method for Sunday school conventions, which was adopted, and a committee consisting of Revs. Allison, Darnell, Chester and ruling elder Eugene Morehead, raised. The convention will be held the second day of the presbytery at Milton in October next. Rev. Mr. Darnell made his report as to the duty by the different ministers as to presenting to their charges all the objects for contribution, as required by the assembly and presbytery, and it appearing that many had failed to do so, after a prolonged discussion the presbytery sent down to the churches a paper enjoining on them a performance of this duty. The hour of 11 o'clock having arrived, the presbytery took a recess to hear a sermon from Rev. Alex. Sprunt.

Job-work executed with neatness and dispatch at the JOURNAL office.

THE COTTON MOVEMENT

From Bradstreet's.

The market during the week was dull, and after Tuesday a downward movement of values commenced, which continued to the close of business. The market strengthened from the close on last Friday, and on Monday, owing principally to a better Liverpool feeling, it gave signs of decided strength. On Wednesday, however, the steady heavy run of receipts at the ports, coupled with the decline in silver, brought values down again. The volume of sales this week was about the same as last in futures, while in spots a large order for export brought the sales up above last week's. Aside from the influences above noted little of a new price-influencing character could be discovered, and in the absence of any indications of an immediate increase in consumption, the tendency was to wait till the planting news could be brought to bear upon the market. This will probably insure a dull market for some weeks to come in the absence of the influences named. Spots this week remained unchanged, while futures, after fluctuating, closed at almost exactly last week's figures.

The total future sales this week were 341,700 bales, against 274,000 bales last week. Spot sales amounted to 2,981 bales against 2,237 bales last week.

Deliveries on contracts were 700 bales, against 8,850 bales last week. The receipts at ports this week amounted to about 60,000 bales, against 42,020 bales last week, and 22,798 bales last year.

The receipts since September 1 were about 4,940,000 bales, against 4,609,642 bales at the same time last year.

The export cotton trade during March shows a heavy increase over the same month of 1885. The total exports were 348,367 bales, valued at $15,837,043, against 232,384 bales, valued at $12,196,379. The export trade of the seven months ending March 31, 1886, is, however, less than in the same period of 1885 by nearly 100,000 bales.

Some points of interest are disclosed by recent statistics of the British revenue. It was shown by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in introducing the budget a day or two ago, that the revenue derived from spirits showed a persistent decline in comparison with the estimates for the year just closed and with the receipts for the preceding year. Within the decade the decrease in revenue from alcohol has amounted in round numbers to nearly $22,500,000. This decline has been concurrent with an increase in the revenue derived from the comforts of life. Then together the facts seem to reflect a change in popular habits. The most satisfactory feature of the lately issued revenue returns is the gain in the revenue derived from the postoffice and telegraph services, the returns from which have exceeded the estimates of the exchequer authorities.
