Poor-House and Jail.

The grand jury reported on the condition of the poor house and jail yesterday, and the condition of both those institutions is pronounced good. The poorhouse has twelve inmates, and they are furnished with plenty of wholesome food and clothing and the buildings kept in a eleanly condition. The jail is kept in a cleanly condition, prisoners ports on the poor house and jail. are well fed, but there is a scarcity of bedding reported.

The jail is also reported as tolearably secure, but the surrounding wall is not sufficient to prevent the free ingress and egress of persons, which makes it ne-cessary to keep a constant guard in or-der to keep prisoners absolutely secure.

The Superior Court.

Court convened at 9:15 o'clock Friday morning, when the case of State ys. M. Hahn, Sheriff, for allowing prisoners to escape, was called. The State was represented by H. R. Bryan, Esq. The defendant by Green & Stevenson, Simmons & Manly and L. J. Moore, Esq.

The defendant submitted an affidavit citing the fact that he was Sheriff of the county and was a candidate for re-election or for the nomination for re-c'ection by his party; that there is a troug opposition to his nomination which has existed since the time of his first cleetion; that this opposition had been carried to such an extent as to greatly The Shenandoah took out a cargo of prejudice his case with the people in thoroughly. Irish potatoes and beans yesterday eve- this county, and that he could not obtain a fair trial.

> Upon this affidavit counsel for defendant asked for a removal of the cause.

H. R. Bryan, Esq., counsel for State, denied the existence of such facts as set forth in the affidavit, and argued that the defendant could have a fair and impartial trial.

Mr. Stevenson presented the case for the defendant in its strongest light. He cited the existence of these political factions in the defendant's party and stated that the prejudices engendered by them were constantly showing themselves in court; that the opposition to the Presbyteries, the General Assembly his client was conducted by men of returns answer as follows: great influence and power, and was such that he could not obtain a fair and impartial trial.

Mr. Bryan, in reply, stated that there were plenty of good, respectable men in this county, taxpayers, who did not belong to either of the political factions alluded to, had never voted with either faction, and never would, who would worth its weight in gold. Read his respect their solemn oaths and give the out of matter previously created of defendant a fair and impartial trial.

Mr. Simmons did not doubt the fact that there were men in the county of the class mentioned by Mr. Bryan, but, he contended, that did not dispute the facts set forth in the affidavit. The Legislature had seen fit to enact that where influences existed, prejudicial to the defendant it constituted sufficient grounds for removal. He knew there were men in every county in North Carolina who would try any cause upon the evidence before them, yet in the the evolution theory; but they both thought the standards of the church face of this the Legislature had passed this law in regard to the removal of

His Honor deprecated the existence of such a state of affairs in a county, nell, Judge Manly and others. He could not believe that a jury could not be obtained in Craven county who As there was no allegation that the officers of the court used any unfairness in summoning the jury, the motion to remove would be denied.

Counsel for defendant asked for time to examine records. Twenty minutes was granted.

Some time was consumed in obtaining a jury, and when they had been empaneled the counsel for State read the bill of indictment, whereupon that there was a variance in the record and the bill of indictment. The indictment charged that Riddick Caton had been convicted and sentenced to a term of imprisonment and that the sheriff had allowed him to escape, whereas the record showed that Redding Caton had been tried, convicted and sentenced to the county jail for a term-bearded D. Counsel for defendant asked for a ruling on the variance and His Honor held that the point was well taken, and a verdict of not guilty was entered.

Another case of the same nature was called and continued.

Presbyterian General Assembly.

AUGUSTA, GA., May 25, 1886. It requires one or two days for a large deliberative body to get fairly at work. Committees must be appointed, and business arranged. Friday was con-sumed chiefly in hearing the elaborate annual reports of the secretaries of the committee of Home Missions, Foreign Missions, Publication, Tuscaloosa Institute for training Colored Ministers, and Education. The receipts for Home Missions were $60,000; for Foreign Missions, $73,000; Publication, $7,000; and Education, $14,000. More than $8,000 of the bonded debt of the Publication Committee have been paid during the past year, and only about $15,000 now remains unpaid. These and other reports all go into the hands of standing committees, and will be discussed RAMSEY'S APPEAL.

An appeal of Rev. Mr. Ramsey against the action of Abington Presbytery touching himself and involving his good standing, excited some interest and brought out a fine speech from Maj. T. G. Kirkpatrick, a distinguished lawyer from Lynchburg, Va. The appeal was

EVOLUTION.

Most interest is centered upon the discussion of overtures touching evolution. The following paper was proposed from the special committee raised by the Assembly. It was composed of thirteen members, and nine signed the majority report:

"To the several overtures on the subject of the Evolution of Man, sent up by

"The church remains at this time sincerely convinced that the Scriptures, as truly and authoritively interpreted in our "Confession of Faith" and "Catechisms" teach;

'That Adam and Eve were created, body and soul, by immediate acts of Almighty Power, thereby preserving a perfect race unity.

"That Adam's body was directly fashioned by Almighty God, without any natural animal parentage of any kind,

"And that any doctrine at variance therewith is a dangerous error, inasmuch as by the methods of interpreting Scripture it must demand, and in the consequences which by fair implication it will involve, it will lead to the denial of doctrines fundamental to the faith.

were sufficiently explicit; and that the majority report said too much .. THE DISCUSSION began on Monday and was opened by the Nestor of the Assembly, Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Norfolk, Va., who is well known in New Berne. He is an old scientist; was Professor of Chemistry 16. and Geology in Washington & Lee University, (when old Washington College), for thirteen years, and has kept up his scientific studies for more than fifty years. He has just published a book, 'Nature and Revelation," on this subject, which I hope will find circulation in New Berne. It brings science within popular grasp. Well, his speech was an able one; clear, positive, gentle, con-vincing. He spoke between one and two hours.

Rev. Dr. Woodrow, who is Professor of Natural Science in the University of South Carolina, in Columbia, and is also Perkins Professor of the Relation of Science and Revelation in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Columbia, replied in opposition to Dr. Armstrong and the majority report, in a speech of nearly two hours' length. He is an able man, a pleasant gentleman, and a true Christian. His position on this scientific question has caused much trouble. His speech was far below general expectation as to ability and plausibility. Two other speeches have been delivered on the same subject; one by one of the minority; a venerable, greysion, and doubtless did harm to the side advocated, if harm can be done to it Here the discussion has been arrested until Wednesday, 26th inst. I think the Assembly will pass the "majority paper" by an overwhelming majority. Possibly it may be slightly modified. TUESDAY, 25TH.

This day is devoted to quarter centennial services. In 1861 was organized the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the Southern States; in this city of Augusta, and in the First Presbyterian Church. Rev. B. M. Palmer, D. D., was the Moderator; Rev. Jos. R. Wilson, D. D., and Rev. J. N. Waddell, were clerks. These three officers are still living, and were selected a year ago to make suitable addresse on this occasion. Their efforts today were scholarly and interesting productions. This evening a public reception will be given to the Assembly by two ody, tho' he only shines as one of the sser stars. L. C. Vass. Great Chicago Strike! It is generally known throughout the whole country that large strikes are being made among the laboring classes in some of our largest cities, such as Chicago, Philadelphia and New York. Some have been wounded for life and some have lost their lives. The question now arises, what shall be done to keep the peace in Eastern North Caro-The farmer cannot afford the eight hour system at the present prices of produce, neither is the laboring man satisfied with the present prices of labor. Some relief must be had; something must be done; some one must come to the front and devise some scheme by which the people may be relieved from such a tyrannical oppression. In view of the foregoing facts, and in the ab-sence of any relief from other sources. we suggest that the quickest and most satisfactory way of keeping down strikes and dissentions among the laboring classes of Eastern North Carolina is to make the prices of goods and supplies in conformity to low wages, and in making the suggestion we hereby announce to the public that we propose to act upon it, and direct everybody, laboring classes and all, to the great cheap cash store of Humphrey & Howard, where they will find a large and complete stock of groceries and dry goods at strike prices. The most vital strike in life is the strike for ways and means which guarantees you perfect satisfaction at the least cost, the strike then for the great cheap cash store of Humphrey & Howard will certainly obtain for you the lowest possible prices, thereby alleviating all past troubles and guaranteeing you peace, prosperity and happiness in the future.-m26dw1m
