Oh papers for sale at this office.
Copies receipts yesterday, ten bales.
The schooner Addie Henry is on Howard's way for repairs.

Public speaking at McCarthy's, on Pollock street, tonight.
Major Gordon of Egypt farm was in the city yesterday looking for cotton pickers.

Children ten years and under, five cents to and from Barrington camp ground.
A few knotty watermelons were in market yesterday. They appeared to be the last of the season.

All who desire to attend the public speaking at Vanceboro by steamer Florence on Saturday should notify W. M. Watson.

The price for children ten years and under, will be five cents both ways on the ferry to the camp meeting, for the balance of the term.

The county finance committee has been sworn in and went to work yesterday to examine the condition of the finances, beginning in the clerk's office.

A new postoffice has been established in Pamlico county named Araphoe. It starts out with four brand new subscribers to the Weekly Journal. We are glad to have the office but think a better name might have been selected.

The Union Camp Meeting.
Yesterday was Hahn's day at the camp meeting. A large crowd was present and interesting addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Vass and Rev. Mr. Bull. Rev. Mr. Crawford will preach today at 3 p. m. The crowds are daily increasing and much interest is manifested.

No Electric Lights.
Mr. McNeil, agent for the Thompson-Houston Electric Co., requests us to state that he has withdrawn his proposition from the board of city council for the franchise to erect poles and run electric light wires, as he finds, after canvassing the city, that the people have an idea that electric lights can be furnished for less than ten dollars per light. He states that Raleigh is paying fifteen, Wilmington twelve and Durham ten. The latter place uses the twelve hundred candle light while the former use the two thousand. He goes from here to Richmond, Va., where he is putting lights for the city. The Thompson-Houston Co. is represented in two hundred and twenty-five towns and cities in the United States, and not one of them was furnished for less than ten dollars for the twelve hundred candle and twenty for the two thousand candle light.

North Carolina At Hartford County.
We have a copy of a neat little pamphlet of four pages, prepared by Mr. Geo. Allen, giving a description of the country in the Northern North Carolina, especially in the vicinity of New Bern, and also "three reasons for emigrating to North Carolina." In this pamphlet Mr. Allen displays the same power of condensation, giving a great deal of valuable information in a few words, that is so prominent in his "Forty Lessons on Double Entry Book-keeping." Under the head of "Trunk Farms," speaking of the double crop system, we find this paragraph:

"A test was made by Geo. Allen on one acre, in order to prove the capacity of one crop, and the other. On Sept. 15th, 1885, the ground was planted in German millet, which was sown during February. In March the ground was planted in corn or soy beans. The crop of 100 bushel barrel boxes was gathered during the first half of June. The land was then sown with German millet which was cut Sept. 1st and weighed after being well cured 9,000 pounds, giving three profitable crops within twelve months. Increased attention is being given to growing hay, and to cattle raising."

A large number of these pamphlets have been published and forwarded to the Hartford county agricultural fair, in Pennsylvania, which is now in progress. The State of North Carolina has an exhibit at this fair, and these pamphlets will greatly aid the people of that State in obtaining facts about our eastern section.

CHAVEN COUNTY POLITICS.

The Duty of Democrats.

The following communication was sent in a day or two ago:
CHAVEN COUNTY, Sept. 14, 1886.
EDITOR JOURNAL:—We have seen in your paper an article showing how a good Democrat could vote for the coalition ticket, and think you gave a very plain explanation, especially when you showed that there was a preliminary caucus, an endorsement of the executive committee, and finally and conclusively the endorsement of the convention of the Democratic party of the county.

Now, sir, we people in the county generally look to your town people to aid us in gathering what knowledge we can on political matters. Will you please tell us how any good Democrat can refuse to vote a ticket thus placed before us. We can't figure it out.
MANY VOTERS.

In order that our correspondent and other Democrats of the county may know how far the party is committed to this ticket, we reproduce the resolution adopted by the county convention held in this city on the 18th day of August last, and be it remembered that it was adopted without a single dissenting voice:
Resolved further, That we endorse the action of the Democratic Executive Committee of Craven county requesting Messrs. Charles C. Clark and William B. Lane to allow their names to be submitted to the mass convention held July 13th, 1886, as candidates for the General Assembly upon the People's Ticket, and that we therefore deem it inexpedient to make any nominations, believing that the material and industrial interests of Craven county will be wholly represented by said ticket.

Now the JOURNAL will not undertake to read any man out of the party for not voting the ticket, but if the Democratic party of Craven county is not thoroughly committed to the "People's Ticket," then we confess our inability to understand the above language. It is not only committed by the language used in the resolution, but the action of the party leaders and executive committee before the convention, committed it to the "People's Ticket."

But if the convention had not said one word and had failed to nominate a ticket, we would have felt it to be the duty of every Democrat to support this ticket, because we honestly believe it is to the interest of Craven county to vote it. Can any Democrat doubt that Clark will make an able representative than Green? What Democrat prefers Hussey as a representative to our former candidate, Wm. B. Lane? Who can doubt that the county ticket headed by Simmons is more acceptable, better men in many respects, than the one headed by Hahn?

The people of Craven county have more at stake in this election than they are probably aware of. There is a disposition in certain quarters, outside of the county, to prevent Democratic representation from Craven. From repeated misrepresentations made by outside parties, in regard to our movement, some of which appeared to be wilful, we cannot but think that there is some sinister design in this opposition to what we conceive to be for the interest of Craven county. One paper has gone so far as to advise the Democrats of Craven county to stay home on the day of election, and this advice from a paper that claims to be Democratic, is being industriously circulated by the rankest civil rights radicals of the Hahn crowd. This pretended Democratic paper, if we understand it, would have the whole Democratic State ticket, Supreme and Superior court Judges, our candidate for Congress, F. M. Simmons, lose the Democratic vote of Craven county rather than see Democratic representatives elected to the General Assembly. Such advice may be "distinctively" Democratic, but it sounds more like being distinctively hear kin to radicalism. Why such opposition; why such intemperate zeal in opposing a cause which the Democrats of this county have deemed best for their party and best for the interest of the county? Is not such opposition enough to arouse every Democrat in the county? Is it not enough to arouse the whole people? Have we no county pride? Shall little newspapers published in other sections of the State dictate to us who we shall send to the General Assembly? We believe there is something behind the curtain. The real cause of this outside opposition has not been brought to light. We want our candidates to tell the people of the county about this strange movement by outsiders, and tell them what it means if they can, and then let Democrats and Republicans, too, say whether or not they can vote the "People's Ticket."

Great things have ever hinged on trials. The first family difficulty on record was caused by an apple core; the last we heard of was the negligence of a father to keep up the supply of Dr. Bell's Cough Syrup when all hands had a cold.

The Old Rails on the A. & N. C. R. R.

The Atlantic & North Carolina Railroad will, within the next sixty days, have a lot of old iron rails for sale. This iron is of the very best quality and of English make. There is scarcely any iron of the same quality to be had in America today, as nearly all roads originally laid with English iron have already taken up their old rails and substituted steel. This is about the last opportunity, in this section of country at any rate, that will be offered buyers to secure such metal in any quantity, and there will probably be a pretty good price obtained, for the lasting qualities of the English iron on the Atlantic road have become proverbial, and now that a beginning in relaying the track with steel has been made a good deal of this iron will be for sale at different intervals of time. Knowing the value of the metal the management of the road propose to hold it indefinitely unless a very satisfactory price can be had for it, being confident that its value will necessarily appreciate.

A Sheriff For Pamlico.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Among the many candidates announced for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Pamlico county, permit me to say that none are more competent or will make a better sheriff than R. M. Daniels. If the Democrats will nominate him at their convention next Saturday, they will do the right thing and will give us a good and efficient sheriff.

Cyclone in Virginia.

ONAOCK, Va., Sept. 13.—The most terrific cyclone that ever visited the Eastern shore of Virginia within the memory of living men swept through this town Sunday night, overturning houses, blowing down trees and leaving destruction in its track. The storm approached from a southwestern direction, and was preceded by a long and vivid display of lightning. Just before the cyclone burst upon the town a funnel-shaped cloud was seen approaching, with a loud, roaring noise that awakened those who had retired to sleep. Onancock is situated between two arms of Onancock creek, a broad and deep estuary of the Chesapeake bay. The cyclone in passing over the southern arm of the creek took up a huge mass of water, and forming a water-spout poured it down with destructive violence on that part of the town through which it passed. The track of the cyclone was about seventy-five yards wide, and lay through the western or lower end of the town, where the buildings are not close together. Otherwise the destruction would have been much greater. Nearly all the trees in that part of the town were blown down, many great oaks that had withstood the storms of a century being torn up by the roots or twisted off a few feet above the ground.
Capt. John H. L. Hopkins had his meat-house blown over a high fence and landed in the street, fifty feet or more from where it stood. The stables and other outhouses of Mr. Robert L. Hopkins were blown down, and utterly destroyed. The steeple of the Northern Methodist Church, containing a bell weighing more than five hundred pounds, was blown over and set fifteen or twenty yards away in the middle of the street. Capt. Thomas Johnson, the oldest inhabitant of the town, had the front porch and all the chimneys of his dwelling-house blown down, and his barn, stables and other outhouses blown entirely away, though the horses in the stables were left unharmed.
As the cyclone approached the northern branch of the creek it seemed to gather fresh strength, and swept everything before it. The houses in which Sheppard Horney, a worthy colored man, lived was torn to fragments and, with all the contents, blown across the creek. Some of the heavy timbers of the house were blown nearly a mile, and a pitcher and a piece of ice weighing five or six pounds were carried several hundred yards across the creek. Horney lost everything he had, including about fifty dollars in money, and if he and his wife had not been out at the time they would hardly have escaped death. In crossing the southern arm of the creek the cyclone again gathered up a great column of water, which it poured down on the land, cutting holes in the earth. As the storm passed through the family burying ground on the farm of Mrs. Catherine Foulson the wind blew some of the largest tombstones over, while it broke others off like rods close to the ground.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury has made the following permanent appointments in the lighthouse service for the State of North Carolina: Thomas Spires, North river; Geo. W. Lyon, at Wades Point, and L. G. Hinnant keeper at Brant Island.

The unbecoming manner in which a portion of the press treat Secretary Bayard will lead to a revulsion of sentiment in his favor if it is kept up. Mr. Bayard holds a high position and has to deal with many questions of great importance. If he has made mistakes in some of his rulings, it is no more than what others have done. The Secretary is mortal and does not deserve the steady stream of harsh criticism that has been heaped upon him.

Though considered an inland city, yet there is being constructed in Pittsburgh, Pa., a boat of most marvelous invention, and one, should it prove successful, that will work a revolution in steamboat navigation. The builder says he will be able to make the distance from Pittsburgh to New Orleans in as short a time as it now takes to go to Cincinnati. It is to be 165 feet long, 33 feet wide, and with 250 passengers on board, will draw less than 6 inches of water. An ocean ship on the same plan would be able to cross the Atlantic in two days, that is, by the shortest route—between Halifax and Southampton.

A Visit to the Camp Meeting.
The moon being almost full, and the weather more than pleasant, we took the opportunity to visit the camp meeting at Barrington's Woods Tuesday night. Boarding the Cleopatra at Foster's wharf, with a party of friends, a fifteen minutes sail brought us to the landing at Barrington's ferry. After a walk of half a mile through the scrub oak and pine thicket, we arrived at the scene of religious exercises we were in search of.

The grounds are ample for the accommodation of as many people as might wish to attend, and the pavilion would comfortably seat from 2,000 to 3,000 people. There is a great deal of taste exhibited in the arrangement of the buildings and the large fires kept burning brightly so that the whole place may be illuminated, gives the scene an appearance that is very striking. The attendance was small as the major part of the crowd had been over to the lecture in the afternoon, but there was the utmost good order and the services were conducted in a manner that does great credit to the divines in charge. There was a very fair sprinkling of white people, although the majority of the crowd were colored. There will be a continuance of the meeting until and including Sept. 30th. Every one should go at least once before the meeting comes to an end.

Gerónimo's Fate.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Gen. Phil. Sheridan has returned from New York, where he has been for a week. In a few days he will go to Leavenworth, Kansas, to attend the annual shooting competition between teams of the regular army. The reporter asked the General about the fate of Gerónimo. "I do not yet know," said he, "whether any conditions are attached to his surrender. There is no doubt what ought to be done with him. He is entitled to no mercy or consideration. If he cannot be dealt with summarily he will probably be removed east of the Mississippi to Florida, perhaps—the very place where he doesn't want to go. The Dry Tortugas would be a good reservation for him."

Two Crutches.

I have only a few words to say which are to state that I have been confined to my bed for two months with what was called nervous rheumatism, or sciatica. I was only enabled to hobble about occasionally by the use of crutches, and in this condition I commenced the use of B. B. B., four bottles of which enabled me to discard the use of my crutches and attend to business. I had previously used all well recommended medicines without relief. It has been over two months since using B. B. B., and I consider myself a permanently cured man.
