NEW BERNE, N. C., SEPT. 18 1886.

Entered at the Post office at New Berne, N. C. as second-class matter.

THE Democrats of the 11th Senatorial district composed of the counties of Lenoir and Greene have nominated Capt. W. A. DARDEN. Capt. DARDEN represented Greene in the last General Assembly. He was a gallant soldier in the war between the States, is a good stump speaker, and will make a vigorous canvass. He will make an excellent representative. The people of the two counties ought and doubtless will elect him.

THE ONSLOW RAILROAD.

Wilmington is taking steps to have the question of New Hanover county's subscribing one hundred thousand dollars to the Wilmington, Onslow & East Carolina Railroad submitted to the voters of that county, and if a majority of the votes are cast in favor of it the building of the road will, in all probability, become a fixed fact. We take it that the county of Onslow after this magnificent subscription by New Hanover, will lend a helping hand and secure the long looked for steam transportation.

Quick and cheap transportation is what Onslow county needs to make it one of the most prosperous in the eastern section. In productiveness of soil and its adaptability to the growth of a great variety of crops it is probably equal, in proportion to area, to its neighbor, Lenoir county. But Lenoir having always had the advantage of a good navigable stream, which furnished a quick, cheap and safe outlet to New Berne, Norfolk and other markets, and finally the A. & N. C. Railroad, has far outstripped Onslow in the development of her agricultural resources. The improvement of Trent river and giving steam navigation to Trenton has given that old town a boom, and is aiding to a considerable extent in developing the farm lands along its banks.

The waterways of Eastern Carolina furnish cheap transportation where they can be made available, but unfortunately for Onslow, her navigable streams have not been utilized. The outlet down Bogue sound is uncertain on account of the shoals, and the route outside to either Morehead City or Wilmington is slow and uncertain.

The cheapest scheme for giving steam transportation to Onslow county is one that has been talked of for some time in New Berne, and one that will be put into operation in a year or two unless New Hanover makes this hundred thousand dollar subscription. The plan has often been explained through the columns of the JOURNAL, and when it is consummated it will not leave a heavy debt on any county.

Most Excellent.

J. J. Adams, Chief of Police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be all that you can claim for it, desire to testify to the fact. My friends to whom I have recommended it, praise it at every opportunity."

Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, croup, and every affection of throat, chest and lungs. Trial bottles free at Hancock Bros. drug store. Large size $1.00.

FARM NOTES.

FEEDING GREEN CORN FODDER.

Corn stalks have much less sweetness in them before they blossom or tassel, as it is usually called. Analysis shows this, and a cow given her choice of the two, confirms the verdict of chemical science. The stalks improve until the ears are fully formed and begin to harden.

OATS FOR FALL FEED.

Wherever scattering oats fall during harvest they will attain a growth of twelve to fifteen inches in height and occasionally head out before checked by frost. The ground is not tilled, and the oats lie on the ground a week or more before the rains sprout them and give a foothold. When fall feed is likely to be scarce, oats sown on ground not otherwise occupied will make growth enough to pay the farmer if only to lie on the ground as a covering during the winter.

MILK FEVER.

T. S. Cooper, the well-known breeder of dairy cattle, says he never lost a cow with milk fever when the following precautions were taken before calving: "Do not feed the cow with any grain, and give her only timothy hay (no clover) and water; if fleshy give her wheat straw and meal instead of hay. Three weeks before calving give her, twice a week, one ounce of saltpetre dissolved in cold water, and when you see she is quite near calving, say within two or three hours, give her 1½ pounds of epsom salts with a tablespoonful of ginger and gentian."

DISPOSING OF POOR STOCK.

After harvest, while warm weather continues, all stock past its prime should be fed extra, in order to fatten and sell before winter. It will fatten now much more rapidly than later in the season. But fattening old animals is always a difficult matter, and to sell them as they are will often pay well, provided it can be done. Young animals of every kind give the greatest gain in proportion to feed, and no thrifty farmer will keep animals long after they begin to deteriorate. It is not worth while to strike for high prices. Poor stock will nearly always sell for more than it is really worth.

IMPROVEMENT ON THE TOMATO.

Few garden vegetables have had greater improvement wrought on them than has been made in the tomato. When first introduced for use, thirty-five or forty years ago, only one or two varieties were known. These were rough shaped, watery with abundant seeds and scarcely anything excepting seeds and skin. Only in exceptionally good seasons would the bulk of the crop ripen. Greater earliness was the first improvement aimed at. But by careful selection and growing from the best, new varieties as smooth as an apple and firm fleshed have been produced. The tomato is now used for making excellent preserves, a use that sometimes as grown thirty-five or forty years ago were wholly unfit for.

DRAINS FROM BARNYARDS.

It is difficult keeping a drain that leads from the barnyard in good running condition. The filteration of manure water through the soil in time saturates it so that its fertilizing properties escape into the drain. This involves a serious loss, and almost equally as bad the manure water coming in contact with air in the drain, induces the formation of fungus growth on its side. These extend very rapidly when once formed, and are exceedingly difficult to get rid of. A tile, once affected, if taken out and cleaned, soon fills again, even if left in another place. The soil through which the seakings of the barnyard enter the drain should be removed once a year and fresh soil put in its place. It will pay to do this for its manurial value besides saving the drain.

COVERING SEED EVENLY.

Most seeds of grain, especially those sown in the fall are apt to be covered too deeply. In a dry time the drill wheels sink down into the soil and this carries the tubes with them. Grain seed is thus deposited at a depth of three and sometimes four or five inches. One and a half inches is ample depth, and if moist one inch is sufficient. If too deep to grow at this depth wait until after a rain. The bad effects of too deep covering were plainly shown by a device we once used on a drill, throwing every other tube ahead of its neighbor. The result was that all forward tubes might as well have been empty. They were piled over by the ridges made by the back set of teeth, made a feeble growth in the fall, and were all killed before spring. The crop all came from the half of the seed drilled in shallow.

SAVING GRAIN FOR SEED.

The importance of care in selecting seed wheat is getting to be well understood by most farmers. It is very apt to be injured if not thoroughly dried before being exposed to cold weather. But other seed grain is liable to be injured from dampness. If piled in stacks or mows when well enough to cause violent heating the vitality of the seed is impaired. Grain intended for seed should be kept by itself on a shallow scaffold, where it cannot be in bulk sufficient to heat. When threshed, it should be spread thinly on the barn floor until thoroughly dry. A bushel of seed saved in this way will produce more than a bushel and a half or two bushels taken haphazard from the grain bin as grain is usually kept. The success in this seeding, about which we hear so much, depends largely on the way the seed has been kept. Good seed may safely be sown thinly.

To All who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, etc., I will send a recipe that will cure you FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send self-addressed envelope to the Rev. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City. 9 12 ANY
