The Election in Craven County.

The total vote polled in Craven county last Tuesday was nearly as large as that of the Presidential election in 1884. It was thought that the new registration would cause considerable falling off, and this would have been the case under ordinary circumstances. But the interest at stake for the people of Craven county was too great; the masses could not afford to remain indifferent. From the time the canvass was opened at Vanceboro by Hon. C. C. Clark, the coalition movement grew stronger every day, and we are glad to say that the Democrats kept the faith and polled nearly their entire strength for the ticket. Another thing we are proud to say, the threatened disruption between the coalition Democrats and the anti-coalitionists in regard to Mr. Simmons was buried on the part of the coalitionists on the day of election and every one, so far as we can learn, came square up for Simmons. We wish we could say the same for the anti in regard to Mr. Clark. They held to their prejudices and refused to vote for this gentleman, and on this account his vote was fifty or sixty smaller than Mr. Lane's. We do not mention this for the purpose of questioning the right of those who refused to vote for Mr. Clark, they were doubtless conscientious in the exercise of their privilege, but to show that the coalition Democrats were just as strong friends of Simmons and did as much to secure his election as did the anti.

Legislature Still in Doubt.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 5, 1886.
The first thought of both parties Tuesday was of the Congressional ticket. That matter was pretty well disposed of by Wednesday evening. Interest centered on five districts, the 1st, 2d, 4th, 5th, and 9th. It was found that Latham and Simmons were safe in the 1st and 2d and Johnston in the 9th, while Nichols got in the 4th and Brower in the 5th. The official count will give Nichols about 1200 majority, perhaps a little more. In this county his majority was 1804. The Democratic losses in this section are appalling.
The Congressional matter thus disposed of, with a loss of one to the Democrats, the people's thoughts turn to the Legislature and at once a great fear arose. As return after return came in, there was an increase of alarm. There were in the last house 97 Democrats, 33 Republicans, a Democratic majority of 74. It requires therefore a gain of 38 Republican members to change the majority. The Republicans claim to have made that change. Many of the Democrats are disposed to concede the claim. All the signs, so far as are in favor of the Republicans, it is sad to say. In the Senate there were 43 Democrats, 7 Republicans. It is necessary for the Republicans to overcome a majority of 19. This they are apparently doing very rapidly. The loss of Senators is heavy. You cannot imagine the dismay these things cause here. Of course many counties are not yet heard from, but if returns come in as they have done so far, the Republicans must have the Legislature. It is horrible, simply horrible.
Last night another disquieting rumor began to fly. This was that the Democrats had lost their Judicial ticket. It is said that while tickets were sent out to all the counties, addressed to the chairmen of the various committees, not a response was received from thirty counties, and to this day Chairman R. H. Battle does not know whether they ever received the tickets or not. The chairmen would not answer him at all. So there is fear that this ticket is lost. It cannot be true. The Republicans are claiming everything, and the Democrats are in a humor and state of mind to admit and concede anything or everything.
I cannot believe that the State ticket is defeated. I cannot believe that the Legislature is Republican, great as are the gains that party has made. People are absolutely appalled. All the talk is of these things: A week ago—what an age it seems—things were so peaceful, so happy; now all is dashed into the bitterness of despair. But few have courage to say they believe we have not lost all.
The Republicans have put Argo in as solicitor by 900 majority over Galloway and today they claim that Tom Deveroux has defeated Clark for judge of the district. In speeches last night the Republicans boldly and joyfully announced that to Democrats they were indebted for their victories. Oh, what a shame! Members who were bright and shining Democratic lights, who actually held positions in the State scratched the names of Democrats for their tickets. There is much talk of these things, too, and angry talk.
The independents, it now appears, will hold the balance of power in the Legislature. It looks as if over 30 of them will get seats. If they do hold the balance of power the Republican scheme is to endeavor to flatter them and woo them to Republican views and acts by giving the speakership of the House to Richmond Pearson of Bamberg. The Democrats can have hope in some at least of these independents. They are, after all, Democrats, with a slight variance of views. In some cases they were men who failed to receive nominations to which they thought they were entitled and hence ran.

The Administration and the Elections.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—A member of the cabinet, in speaking of the result of the elections yesterday on the theory that the Democrats would hold the next House by a reduced majority, said the administration could not be otherwise than well pleased. The unexpected losses which they had sustained had been due to local causes, and the gains could scarcely be regarded as otherwise than due to national issues. In Massachusetts, he said, for instance, the contest on the part of the Democrats had been most sharply defined as an endorsement of the policy of the administration. The Democracy of Massachusetts had through the whole campaign announced that they stood by the administration, and it must be concluded that the magnificent gains made by them were the result of the popular verdict in approval of the public action of President Cleveland. Again in New York State, Judge Peckham, who is elected to the Court of Appeals in the face of the most bitter and strenuous opposition, is the devoted personal friend of Secretary Manning, and was from first to last called by the Republicans and the coalition Democrats the administration candidate. The President also fully appreciates what he considers as popular approval of his course. A gentleman to whom he accorded a private interview today found him quite jubilant. He said he considered the elections in their entirety a substantial endorsement of his administration, and he was especially pleased, he said, with the election of Judge Peckham, despite the adverse criticism of sundry Democratic journals in New York city not favorable to him. In one sense it was a gratification, but in another sense he regretted that in most Congressional districts where representatives friendly to him had not been re-nominated by the Democrats, those put up in their stead had been defeated. In Republican circles today there was a strong attempt to extract some comfort from the result of the elections, and some of the Republican department employees managed to get up a smile. Probably the greatest surprise in the elections is the tremendous falling off in the vote for Speaker Carlisle in his district. It was well known here that considerable dissatisfaction existed on account of the distribution of the Federal patronage in his district, and the influence which he was accredited with exerting on it, but it was not at all anticipated that the dissatisfaction was so wide-spread. It certainly no feather in the cap of the Democracy of his district that such a man as Mr. Carlisle, who would be an honor to any district in the United States, is so punished because he did not please a few loud-mouthed politicians in the matter of one or two petty offices.
The President's face wore an extremely happy expression when he walked into the East Room to shake hands with the two hundred and twenty-five people assembled there. He had a great deal to say, especially to those who told him any election news not known already. After one week from today the President will discontinue his public receptions till after the convening of Congress. The press of giving much of his time to incoming members of Congress constrains him to take this course. He has already, by his happy arrangement of public day receptions without any ceremony, given the opportunity to a greater number of American citizens to meet the President face to face than has been the case with any of his predecessors during their whole terms.

The People of Craven County.

The several persons put in nomination upon the coalition ticket were placed there to be elected for the purpose of giving the county a change for the better.
The nominees were elected by an honest vote. I would suggest to all those dissatisfied with the result to "pick their flint" and try again, when the time comes, in a straightforward and honest way.
Boss rule, ring rule and trickery at primaries and conventions is surely played out and the good people will not submit to it any longer; honesty in politics is as essential to success as in business. A plain truth. P.
A Doctor's Woe.
CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ga., June 11.
Forten years I have been suffering with muscular Rheumatism. Patent medicines and physicians' prescriptions failed to give relief. Last summer I commenced the use of Dr. King's New Discovery and experienced partial relief before using one bottle. I continued its use and gladly confess that it is the best and quickest medicine for Rheumatism I have ever tried and cheerfully recommend it to the public.

The Pamlico Vote.
Bayboro, N. C., Nov. 6, '86.
The official vote shows that the Democratic majority for Judge is 483, Blount, Dem., for Solicitor, maj. 408, Latham, Dem., for Congress, maj. 363, Langston, Prohibitionist, received 34 votes, Martin, Dem., for Representative, 163 majority, Dawson, Independent, for Sheriff, 27 majority. The rest of the county ticket had no opposition; only about one-third of the Democratic vote out. With a registered Democratic vote of 988 in the county, only about 600 voted.
The contest in the county was for Sheriff and Representative. Both independents carried the strength of the Republican vote cast, or nearly so. The Republican vote shows that they nearly all voted, and were out at the election. Yours, W. T. CARO, Ch'n Dem. Ex. Com.

The board of city council was in session last night. The wood pulp mill at Graywood is now running on full time. Our news from Raleigh this morning looks blue for the Democrats. The steamer Delaware left for Norfolk last night with a cargo of cotton. The Mayor held a levee yesterday and disposed of a few minor offences. A huge owl killed by master Thos. R. Lane, of Cobles, was sent down to Mr. T. P. Clarke yesterday to be taxidermied. The Shenandoah was in on time yesterday morning with her usual cargo of merchandise and carried out a good cargo of cotton. The coalitionists propose to have a grand barbecue at Vanceboro next Friday in honor of their recent victory. Hon. C. C. Clark and other speakers will be present. The advance agent of the Casino Opera Co. was in the city yesterday posting bills. The Co. will appear at our Theatre next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, Nov. 9th, 10th and 11th. The Co. is twenty strong and is said to be very good. At a meeting of the board of council last night Councilman Crawford moved that the Mayor and members of the board of council each contribute $5.00 for a suitable celebration of the coalition victory on next Wednesday night. The motion was adopted and some of the members clipped in their amounts. The Mayor carried Hyde by 173 majority. Simmons, Democrat, is elected to the second judicial district in the second district in 1886. Mr. Richard Battle, the gentlemanly representative of the News and Observer, called to see us yesterday. The quarterly visit to this city of "D. E. Walker" will be effected in the future by him. He is a genial gentleman and represents one of our best State papers. S. R. Street, Jr., returned from the Elizabeth City Fair yesterday morning. Mr. Haughton, of Chatham, was in the city yesterday on his way to his Jones county farm. He reports London, defeated for the Senate in his county. It would have been a useful member of the General Assembly had he been elected. Dr. J. A. Guion and daughter, Miss Fennie, returned yesterday on the Shenandoah from an extended visit to Maryland. We are pleased to learn the Doctor is enjoying good health.

Simmons' Election.
The official count in the counties composing the 2d Congressional district give Simmons a plurality of 1356 over O'Hara. He seems to have run ahead of the Democratic ticket in most every county. His canvass was conducted with great prudence and skill, and his speeches made votes wherever he went. The pamphlet of the district have caused to stagnate themselves upon his election. His steady progress in life's career shows that he is a man that can handle more than the average amount of the human machine. The character and wants of the people and will make such a representative that even a united Republican party cannot defeat him for reelection.
