This occurred about 8 p. m. on Tuesday night, and not known in time for yesterday's paper. The burning oil enveloped her little nine year old son and burnt him very badly. She succeeded in smothering the flames before any alarm was given.

Thanksgiving Day.

The President of the United States and the Governor of North Carolina have set aside today as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to Almighty God for the manifold blessings we have enjoyed during the past year. This is fit and proper. We should not be among the nations that forget God. The day should be observed in accordance with the proclamations of the President and Governor. The people should be earnest in their prayers and should remember to make the poor and needy to rejoice that they live in a land of God-loving and God-fearing people.

That our force may enjoy the privilege of observing the day there will be no paper issued from this office tomorrow.

Proceedings of the United States Deputy Marshal.

United States Deputy Marshal Street executed warrants of arrest upon several members of the late canvassing board of the election return of a craven county yesterday.

The warrants were issued by U. S. Commissioner, Thos. R. Farnell, of Raleigh, upon the affidavit of one Peter Fisher, jr., and made returnable before some U. S. Commissioner in this city on Friday, tomorrow, at 12 o'clock.

We don't know why Peter Fisher should go to Raleigh to find a commissioner when there are several between here and Raleigh. But we withhold comments for the present. When this question is lifted to the bottom it will be found that the real issue is, has a negro the right to vote a ticket with the name of a Democrat on it.

The members of the board arrested are charged with refusing, with intent to effect and change the result of the election of a member of Congress, the vote of three precincts in the county. They promptly gave bond for their appearance before the Commissioner tomorrow.

Kinston Items.

As far as we can ascertain, there are no cases of serious illness in town, and very few of any kind.

Miss Ada Hurt, of Raleigh, is spending some time with her brother, Mr. Chas. W. Hurt, in town.

Mr. Thos. Faulkner, of Shelby, N. C., left for his home Tuesday after a short visit to friends. He is looking very well.

You have set in motion, Mr. Editor, views concerning the lease of the N. C. R. that will evidently eventuate in good to the State.

Meers, Robert Dunn and Alonzo Simkins, two of Col. Davis' cadets, were visiting relatives here on Saturday last. They speak in glowing terms of their Fayetteville trip.

The chorales, for the benefit of the Methodist Church here, will be played in Loftin's opera house on Thursday or Friday of this week. Some good singing may also be expected.

Rev. Mr. Taylor, of Warrenton, N. C., on his return from the N. C. Baptist State convention at Wilmington, stopped over Sunday last and preached two first-class sermons for Mr. Hires, in the Baptist church.

Prof. Thos. R. Rouse, of La Grange, late assistant teacher in Kinston College, paid our town a visit on Saturday. It may be that the professor had special business here; who knows? Good luck to you!

We are very glad to hear of the success of Dr. Frank Gates, of Bayboro. The doctor was for some years a citizen of Kinston. But pluck, energy, intelligence and common sense will always ensure success.

Some of the bachelors of Kinston seem to favor the enactment of a law to tax them. They, perhaps, think that this severe treatment will bring out such sympathy from their dulceness that may culminate in the desired answer.

Mr. A. Lenz for Speaker.

Can the members of the House of our next General Assembly do better than elect Mr. Augustus Lenz as their presiding officer?

He has had much experience as a legislator. He has shown remarkable powers as a clear thinker and good judge of what is best for our people. Let the members of the House think of this and weigh the matter.

Jefferson Davis in the Pulpit.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 24.—Today at Fairview, on the line between Christian and Todd counties, Ky., there was dedicated a Baptist church, erected on the site of the building where Jefferson Davis was born. The ground was purchased and given by a party of gentlemen to Mr. Davis, who in turn gave it for the location of a church. The Rev. Dr. Strickland, of Nashville, delivered the dedication sermon. Mr. Jefferson Davis was present, and there was an immense crowd, many of whom could not get into the church and were forced to leave, as it was raining hard. After the sermon Mr. Davis was invited to the pulpit, and, bent with age and supported to the stand, he made a few appropriate remarks, closing as follows: "Now He who rules in heaven bless individually and collectively this whole community and may His benediction rest on this house forever. More than this it would be improper for me to say."

Mr. Davis then presented the church with a service of solid silver. The church is a handsome brick structure costing about $10,000. A finely polished slab of violet hued Tennessee marble set in the wall of the vestibule opposite the memorial window, has this inscription in Roman capitals:

"Jefferson Davis of Mississippi was born June 8, 1808, on the plot of this church. He made a gift of this lot March 10, 1866, to Bethel Baptist Church, as a thank offering to the Lord."

After the church service the crowd adjourned to a magnificent dinner spread in a big building near at hand, where all were beautifully fed. Mr. Davis left for Clarksville, Tenn., where he took the train for home.

An amendment Presbyterian doctrine announced to his congregation that he would be obliged to take a vacation on account of ill-health, when the church immediately raised his salary and advised him to take Dr. Pull's Cough Syrup and be cured.

Socialists in Parade.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 24.—The Socialists marched today from fifteen outlying points to Trafalgar square. The various bands were headed by bands of music, and the parade carried banners bearing incendiary inscriptions. Among the motives were: "By heavens, our rights are worth fighting for!" and "Work for all, not for none."

Some of the men carried Phrygian caps on poles. As the southern contingents crossed Westminster Bridge the bands played the "Marseillaise." The people in the windows of the government offices were looked at. When the paraders passed through Downing street they passed Lord Randolph Churchill. The sight of the Horse Guard sentries incensed the mob, which fairly howled with rage. An officer closed the gates and the mob proceeded. The East End sent a full force and two bands of music.

When the speaking began there were present 5,000 Socialists, 25,000 unemployed workmen and criminals, and 20,000 spectators.

The speakers included Messrs. Hyndman, Champion, and Burns. At each of the five platforms a resolution was adopted calling upon the Government to relieve the distress existing among the working men.

A demonstration of ten proceeded to Lord Salisbury's house on Arlington street. They were received by the clerk, who said that Lord Salisbury had gone to Hatfield House, and had left no orders. The demonstration grumbled and retired, leaving a copy of the resolution adopted by the meetings in Trafalgar square.

The crowds at the meetings dispersed in an orderly manner, but the police afterward found difficulty in clearing the square. The mounted police charged and gradually moved the people. Several arrests were made for obstructing the streets and for stealing and fighting. All is quiet tonight.

The Lord Mayor will form a council to inquire into the prevailing distress, with a view of affording relief during the coming winter.

Salvation Oil does not simply assuage pain; but, by quickly finding its way to the seat of the disease allays the swelling and inflammation, and, by removing the cause of the disease effects a permanent cure. Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Jan 24th 1887 w/v

Burned to Death and Restored to Life.

I know of a man near Maxey's, Ga., who for ten or twelve years was almost a solid score from head to foot.

For three years, his appearance being so horribly repulsive, he refused to let any one see him. The disease, after eating his flesh, commenced on his skull bones. He tried all doctors and medicines without benefit, and no one thought he could possibly recover. At last he began the use of B. R. B., and after using six bottles his sores were all healed and he was a sound man.

He looks just like a man who had been burned to death and then restored to life. The best men of the county know of the case, and several doctors and merchants have spoken of it as a most wonderful cure.

FIRST THANKSGIVING DAY.

Children do you know the story of the first Thanksgiving Day? Founded by our Pilgrim Fathers. In that time so far away?

They had given for religion. Wealth and comfort, yes and more. Left their homes, and friends and kindred. For a bleak and barren shore.

On New England's rugged headlands. Now where peaceful Plymouth lies. There they built their rough log cabins. Neath the cold, forbidding skies.

And too often 'e'en the bravest. Felt his blood run cold with dread. Lost the wild and savage red-man. Burn the roof above his head.

Want and sickness, death and sorrow. Met their eyes on every hand. And before the springtime reached them. They had buried half their band.

But their noble brave endurance. Was not overcome in vain. Summer brought them brighter prospects. Ripening seed and waving grain.

And the patient Pilgrim mothers. As the harvest time drew near. Looked with happy thankful faces. At the full corn in the year.

So the Governor, William Bradford. In the gladness of his heart. To praise God for all His mercies. Set a special day apart.

That was in the autumn, children. Sixteen hundred and twenty-one. Scarce a year from when they landed. And the colony began.

And now when in late November. Our Thanksgiving feast we eat. Is the same time-honored custom. Of those Pilgrims long since dead.

We shall never know the terrors. That they braved, young, young men. But for all their struggles gave us. We our gratitude can show.

And the children of New England. If they feast, or praise or pray. Should bless God for those brave. And their first Thanksgiving Day.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

A noble career, full of honors and yesterday. The grandson of a President of the United States and the son of a President, Charles Francis Adams thought down to the present generation the traditions of the earliest days of the republic. He came of a race of patriots and he himself was a patriot. The last public act of this conservative statesman was worthy of his name. On March 5, 1877, he wrote to Samuel J. Tilden this memorable letter:

"My Dear Sir:—On this day, when you ought to have been the President of the United States, I seize the opportunity to bear my testimony to the calm and dignified manner in which you have passed through this great trial."

"It is many years since I ceased to be a party man; hence I have endeavored to judge of public affairs and men rather by their merits than by the name they take."

"It is a source of gratification to me to think that I made the right choice in the late election. I could never have been recognized to the elevation, by the smallest aid of mine, of a person, however respectable in private life, who must forever carry upon his brow the stamp of fraud first triumphant in American history. No subsequent action, however meritorious, can wash away the letters of that record. Very respectfully yours."

—CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

Charles Francis Adams fixed upon the brow of successful fraud the brand that renders forever impossible the repetition of the crime of 1876—N. E. S.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, etc., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send self-addressed envelope to the Rev. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City. n17dwy

Sacred to the memory of Laura Lane, daughter of Richard and Annie B. Berry. Died November 28, 1886, in the seventh year of her age.

"Oh! what a shadow o'er the heart is flung. When peals the requiem of the loved and young."

This little girl was bright, intelligent, precocious beyond one of her age. Her body which only a few days ago was so full of life, is today by that fearful disease diphtheria transformed into mouldering dust.

"Another sweet flower has withered. A gem from the crown has flown. A lamb in the fold of our Shepherd. Who hath said, 'Let them come unto Me.'"
