The Shenandoah went out with a full cargo of cotton and rice yesterday evening.

Yesterday was the first real cold snap of the season, and it was not a severe one by a good deal.

Capt. J. E. Lane of Stonewall came up yesterday and brought two fine peach trees which he delivered to W.
G. Brinson Esq.

The State docket will probably be concluded in the Superior Court today.
Next week will be devoted to the civil docket. We publish the calendar today.

Max Schwerin is offering "extraordinary inducements" to those needing goods in his line. He has many articles suitable for holiday presents, and in fixing the prices he keeps in mind the great scarcity of money.

Lorillard's yacht Rego will leave for Savannah today. We had the pleasure of going aboard yesterday, a privilege not accorded to every one, but being in company with the collector of customs of this port, whose winning ways captivate all with whom he comes in contact, the chief engineer invited us aboard and took us through. It would take a column to describe the gorgeous manner in which it is fitted and furnished.

One of the scenes in court yesterday was the speech of John Mayo in his own behalf to the jury. The court was under the necessity of calling him to order once or twice during his harangue but patiently allowed him to have his say; but when John attempted to interfere after his Honor's charge, by gestures and attempting to whisper to the jury as they were retiring, he was sent to jail for three days for contempt of court.

D. B. Walker Heard From.
We publish today from the News and Observer a very readable letter from "D. B. Walker." He always writes something worth reading.

His Still Lays.
A gentleman from Jones county tells us of a sixteen year old boy who went to a country store recently and devoured at one time one pound of crackers, one pound of candy and one pound of sugar. He survives without calling in a physician but is not at all in keeping with the times.

The First White Shed.
Passing Mr. A. H. Holton's restaurant yesterday evening a fine white shed, a hook was to be seen hanging along with a number of canvas-back ducks.
Mr. Holton finds well at his restaurant, fine oysters, ducks, chickens, turkeys, etc., etc., consisting in part of the bill of fare, but he ventures the assertion that no transient boarder stuck a tooth into that white shed.

Mr. Holton is the lucky man every season. He always captures the first white shed. Last season the first came in on the 31st of December.

Huckberry Wine.
Abner Dawcox of Jones county, paid his annual visit to the JOURNAL office yesterday to "settle up." He complained of our La Grange "imitation" for failing to give him the news last week, and then told us how to put in a good yellow jug—a half gallon in the one and a half gallon jug and then poured in half gallon of honey. He says it made the very best wine and advised that he stayed in another gallon.

LETTERS TO EDITORS.
MR. WALKER'S COLUMNARY STATE-MENT should appear to be for children reading. It makes the child believe the game above all, and will make him believe the game is the game. Truly a noble work.

FIRE AT MOREHEAD CITY.

The Warehouse of the A. & N. C. Destroyed.
The following telegram was received yesterday evening:
MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., Dec. 3, 1886.
JOURNAL:
The depot took fire from a defective fuse at 2:30 o'clock this evening and at 3:30 was entirely burned up. Three cars loaded with fish scrap burned with about five hundred dollars worth of freight, but one empty car burned and one saved.

The entire wharf was saved after a desperate fight made by the citizens of Morehead. There was a steam yacht, the Hoeland, at the dock when the fire took place, and she not only left with all the buckets that were to be had, but carried off all the men she could.
W. L. ARENDELL.

Pot Them Back.
A number of letters were stolen from a private box at the postoffice on Thursday night. The letters may be of importance to the parties to whom they belong, and of no value to the party who got them. If put back in the office, such anxiety will be relieved and the party's conscience, if he has any, in part relieved.

Fire.
The fire alarm was sounded last night between eleven and twelve o'clock. The department was out with its usual promptness and found the cause of the alarm to be a wood house in Mr. B. A.
Bell's yard on Hancock street. It was gotten under control in a few minutes, and the damage was but slight. The readiness with which our department responds shows that it is a excellent team and will always be ready for the fire fiend.

Superior Court Proceedings.
Court convened yesterday morning at half-past nine o'clock and resumed work on the State docket. The following cases were disposed of:

State vs. Brice Riggs and Eugene Jones; perjury; jury. Jones pleads guilty; imprisoned in county jail until 30th of May next. L. J. Moore appeared for Riggs. Not guilty.
State vs. Daniel Smith; A. & B.; jury.
W. E. Clarke for defendant. Not guilty.
State vs. C. C. Fry; disturbing congregation. Nol pros.
State vs. Alexander Bass; perjury.
Nol pros.

The sentence in case of Zachariah Mitchell was changed to twelve months in county jail. Commissioners authorized to hire out.

State vs. John Mayo; forcible trasportation. Guilty. Fined penny and cost.
Sent to jail three days for contempt of court.
Court adjourned to half past nine o'clock Saturday morning.

The Oyster Fair.
We wish to call Brother Nunn's attention to the proposed oyster fair which was to take place in New Berne this winter. Let the JOURNAL stir up the matter, and let us have the fair by all means.—Beaufort Record.

We want the fair if any practical good can come out of it. We are told that there are hundreds of thousands of acres of good oyster bottom in the waters of eastern Carolina, and there are but few hundreds of acres being used for the growing of oysters. Anything that can be done to stimulate active work in the production of this valuable article of food will always receive the endorsement and aid of the JOURNAL. It occurred to us last summer, or rather it was suggested by Dr.
Mann, of Hyde county, that an oyster fair held in New Berne would bring together the few men who are taking an active interest in the culture of oysters and by exchanging views and experiences would greatly aid each other.
It also occurred to us that if a fair could be held while the General Assembly was in session a committee from that body could attend and learn from the oyster growers themselves what legislation is necessary for the development of this important industry.

If the bringing together of the oyster growers would advance this interest we are in for it. But we must have the active co-operation of those interested in the matter. No long since we had a conversation with a dealer and grower, and a man of intelligence, and he inclined to the opinion that unless we could combine the oyster exhibit with farm products, stock, machinery, etc., he feared it would prove a failure.
While there are many persons engaged in the oyster business there are but few who are trying to improve the quality.
To produce the best oyster requires in-diligence in the culture and plenty of hard work. We are ready for the fair if those engaged in the business desire it and feel that they can be benefitted thereby.

Mr. Lorillard's Socialistic Views.

Mr. Pierre Lorillard, well known in New York and elsewhere as a millionaire manufacturer of tobacco, and an employer of labor on a large scale, has a short article in the last North American Review on "Labor and Condensed Labor," in which he declares himself to be a limited political socialist, while he repudiates "the ordinary accusation of socialism as related to arson, riot and the unbalancing of all old ideas of quiet safety and prosperity." He holds that the right of property is sacred; that the antagonism existing between capital and labor are all wrong; that capital "is merely the accumulated tokens of past labor saved by thrifty and prudent men for the use of the present army of those who toil for their bread." He thinks it, therefore, quite strange that labor should quarrel with capital "as that young bird should be jealous of their mother's experience which fits her to provide for their helpless daily wants." All this is very neatly stated. The man who directly employs labor in his business, as Mr.
Lorillard does, and indirectly in the construction of buildings, or in other ways that give activity to labor, is a benefactor to his species, and between such men and the laboring classes, if they are equitably treated, there ought not to be any other than harmonious relations. But, passing this, we next turn to what Mr. Lorillard proposes as a scheme to adjust the rights of labor and bring employers into close accord with employers. To this end he proposes the organization of a national labor congress, to be attended by trade-delegates from each State, to be chosen for one year, and to sit one month in each year. These delegates are to have the power to select two senators from each State to represent their State in a national labor senate, one to be elected for two, the other for five years. By these senators an advisory body of seven persons is to be chosen, similar to the United States Supreme Court, who shall be vested with authority to decide all labor questions submitted to them by the trades. The plan is by no means a novel one. It is simply that of a labor congress organized on the same lines as that of the Congress of the United States. How it would work in practice, and what effect it would have on federal legislation, we are not prepared to say. Mr. Lorillard believes that "ocean, river, canals, railways, postal and telegraph systems should be owned by the government for the use of all." He would have the rights of property respected, is averse to an income tax, but advocates a legacy tax to the extent of ten per cent on all fortunes over $200,000. He has the idea that such a tax would render the perpetuation of immense fortunes in a few families impossible—a suggestion in which he will find few persons to agree. Many of the States have already a collateral inheritance tax. In France the minister of finance goes much further than Mr.
Lorillard. He proposes as a means of meeting the annual deficiency in the revenue a direct legacy tax of seven per cent on all estates, and of twenty-five per cent on all collateral inheritances. We hardly think Mr.
Lorillard's scheme of a labor congress practicable, and we are quite sure that the proposition to give the government exclusive control of all ocean, river, canal and railway transportation, and of the telegraph as well as the postal system, is one that will never be entertained by the American people. It would put an end to competition, be the death of enterprise, and would clothe the government with such enormous political power that elections hereafter would be a farce.—Baltimore Sun.

A Brilliant Policeman.
Hartford, Conn., boasts of a brilliant policeman. A woman there had been convicted of breach of the peace, and was to spend twenty days in Hartford jail. She was on her way to the latter place in a carriage, accompanied by a police officer. Her hat blew off, and she wished to go out to recover it. Her escort objected to this, fearing she might run away. He proposed that the prisoner should hold the horse. However, while he went after the hat she consented to this arrangement, and while he was changing the flying article she whipped up the horse, drove up to a tavern, had the animal taken care of and then disappeared.

My Favorite Receipt.

Some time ago the Royal Baking Powder Co. conceived the idea of collecting from its patrons, for redistribution among them when printed in book form, their best and favorite methods for the preparation of articles of food of all descriptions. In response there were furnished a very large number of practical receipts, from which were selected the 3000 contained in the book entitled "My Favorite Receipt." The publication was intended originally for the contributors only, but the collection proved to be of such remarkable value that its publishers, believing its circulation would be productive of good in affording a larger knowledge as to the practical preparation of real home cookery in a way to make it most wholesome and appetizing, have issued an edition for general circulation, which is sold at cost of production and postage. "My Favorite Receipt" contains formulas for the preparation of almost every known dish in every conceivable way. These have been classified into departments representing Soups and Broths, Fish and Shell Fish, Vegetables, Meats, Stews, Poultry and Game, Eggs, Salads, Desserts, Breads, Cake, Condiments, Beverages, Jams, Preserves and Pickles, Preserved Meats, Canned Vegetables, etc., to which a copious index is added.
Every branch of the culinary art has received ample attention. The publication is one of unusual value from the fact that the receipts are thoroughly tested formulas of genuine home cookery. In it each contributor vouches for the utility of her receipt not only, but attests that years of experience have proved it the best way of making the article named, and signs her name and address to it as an evidence of its genuineness and her faith in its superiority.
The practical character of the receipts will especially commend them to American housekeepers. While cookery of the very finest and richest, as well as that more plain and economical, is provided for, "My Favorite Receipt" is not, like many of the cook books of the day, a collection of impracticable, untried or foreign formulas, following which frequently results in a failure and a waste of good materials. The contributions are from every part of the country and give the best experience of the best cooks for preparing the dishes peculiar to each locality.
"My Favorite Receipt" handsomely printed and bound, is sent by the Royal Baking Powder Co., New York, at the nominal price of 50 cents, to any address, express charges paid.

The Atlanta's Trial Trip.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Secretary Whitney today made public the official reports of the results of the three trial trips of the cruiser Atlanta, made on August 5, Sept. 23 to 26, and Nov. 19 to 25. The contract for the construction of the Atlanta provides that upon trial her machinery shall maintain for six hours a collective indicated horse power of 3,500, there being nothing in the contract relating to speed. It will be two or three months before the vessel can be made ready for another trial.
The first trip, on August 5, was made in Long Island sound. On that trip no continuous six hours' trial was possible in consequence of blowing out the water valve part of the high pressure cylinder and the subsequent heating of the crank pin. The maximum speed attained on this trial was twelve and eight-tenths knots per hour. No six hour trial was possible on the second trip on account of repeated mishaps to certain parts of the machinery. A speed of fourteen knots was attained on this trip. In his report Captain Buncie said the highest collective horse-power obtained was 3,397. On the 19th of last month the vessel started from New York on her third trial trip. During the whole trip of six days the vessel was able but one day to run for six hours at the maximum attainable speed.
The highest collective horse-power developed was 3,084 for a few minutes, and the highest speed attained for any one hour was 14 7/8 knots.
