Explosion on a Steamer. NEW YORK Jan. 31 .- At five o'clock dotte, of the Old Dominion Line, sailed from her pier at the foot of Beach street, in this city for Norfolk, Virginia. As the last ben was ringing previous to the departure of the vessel, Robert Sinclair, he mess boy, noticed a young, man about 25 years of age coming hurriedly from the closet room. The hoy's esten-tion was fixed, and he noted that the stranger had a brown mustache and whiskers and that he wore a Derby hat, light brown overcent and dark trousers. These observations were made while the stranger hurried ashore and disappeared among a knot of pereons at the foot of the gang-plank.

The steamer, Capt. D. Kelly in com mand, proceeded on her voyage. Whan off Long Branch an explosion occurred in the after part of the saloon, by which a man named Kelly and Jas. Justice were eligatly fajured. The explosion is believed to have been from dynamite packed in a satchel that had been left in the closet room. Sinclair told the captain of the stranger who had hurried asbore as the last bell was ringing before the steamer sailed, and he is regarded as having placed the saturel on board containing the explosive. The steamer at once put about and arrived at her dock at 10:30 tonight.

The Guyandotte left her pler ut 8 p m. with a mixed cargo, thoroughly loaded. She carried five mloon and loaded. She carried five selection and fifteen steerage passengers, with a crew of forty-two persons. The vessel was off Long Branch at 5:40 p. m. when the explosion occurred in the starboard quarter att. At the moment the captain was in the pilothouse. The explosion was heard in every part of the vessel, and the detonation caused much. vessel, and the detonation caused much excitament among crew and passent, gers. Capt Kelly at once signaled to excitament among trew and granted to I the engine room to stop, and an investigation was at once begun.
