There was the usual crowd on the streets. The feature of the evening, after the grotesque procession, was the reception of the King and Queen at the Exposition Palace. Thousands of their loyal subjects were present from all parts of the country. The Krew of Protein appeared this evening on the principal streets in the pageant, illus-trating scenes from Hane Christian Anderson's Fairy Land, in a series of eighteen tableaux on cars. A great browd lined the streets through which the procession moved, and everything passed off pleasantly.
